Dixie Lee opens quietly but is well received

The Dixie Lee Chicken and Sea Food store has now opened its doors in Madoc and has reported an excellent response from the people of Madoc. This national chain was originally established in Canada on Coleman Street in Belleville in 1965 and has continued to grow and prosper across Canada to the point that it has now established approximately one hundred and thirty stores.

Mr. John Holgate is the owner/manager of the store and is no stranger to the Village of Madoc. Mr. Holgate's grandfather was from Eldorado, his father lives in Cooper and he has many other relatives in and around the Madoc area. Madoc is one of the smallest towns in which Dixie Lee has ever established a store, but Mr. Holgate thinks the choice is not inappropriate. "The population of Madoc is officially 1,300 people, but add to that a high school with an enrolment of 1,200 students and the size of the village becomes irrelevant."

"I personally had a feeling that our store could work in Madoc," said Mr. Holgate, and after the first four days, the 1,000 plus customers support his faith in the area. "The response has been satisfying just from the number that have been through the outlet."

Mr. Holgate thinks the store will be a real asset to the village for many reasons. "We're going to generate some dollars, and, at the present time, we have nine employees from this immediate area. Also, we would like to get involved in what happens in Madoc. We will have special prices for catering to clubs and groups and we would certainly be interested in helping the town if there is anything that we can do."

While there may be special problems involved in establishing a store in a village the size of Madoc, Mr. Holgate also feels that there are special advantages. "All of our employees are from this area and we were very impressed with quantity and

Mapping targets installed

Nine by nine black squares, with white or yellow crosses in the centre are now being placed in different areas of the village in preparation for the aerial photography that will be a part of the new mapping of the village. The nine targets are being placed in open spaces so that they will be easily seen from about 8,000 feet in the air, which is the height that the photographs will be taken at, and these targets should be left, undamaged, so that this project is not held up.

The targets may remain there for a long period of time because the weather must be just right for the project to proceed. There is a very limited time in which these photographs can be taken. They must do the photography between the time that the leaves are off the trees and before too much snow covers the ground. If the targets are moved and damaged before that can happen, the project could be postponed until a similar time in the spring. Again, if the conditions are not met then, it will be postponed until the fall.

This mapping project is very important for the future of the village and must be completed as soon as possible. If you see one of these targets, don't move or destroy them. Leave them where they are and they will be removed as soon as the project is completed.

Hallowe'en - a sweet bonanza

Wednesday night saw the moon rising over Madoc even as the sun disappeared and, as that moon arose, strange things began to happen around the village. Small, dark figures began to dash from house to house, strange lighted faces watched as figures went up and down the streets. But, with all of this mystery and the eerie figures, laughter and jovial welcomes met the small ghosts and goblins at the doors of the houses.

Yes, it was Halloween. The children of the area had dawned their most frightening faces and costumes and were now collecting their rewards for the effort that they would put into this night. The smiling faces of the pumpkins, lit by ghostly candles, watched over the antics of the little goblins and told them that they would be rewarded for their work with all the goodies that each house had to offer.

By 6:00 p.m., these figures were dashing around with youthful enthusiasm, sometimes carrying bags nearly as big as themselves. They approached the doors, knocked, received a treat and hurried excitedly to the next door. Parents often stood in the shadows. An hour later, many of these same figures would be seen in a different area of town, not running quite so fast, becoming weary from carrying bags that increased in weight at each stop. By 8:00 p.m., the crowd had diminished appreciably. Only the strongest and most determined were still collecting at the doors. By 9:00 p.m., the littlest hobo was off the street, back at home, analysing his booty. Shortly thereafter, he was in bed, already mapping out his route for next year.

The moon still had a long lonely journey to complete.

Bombay Bicycle Club gets national coverage

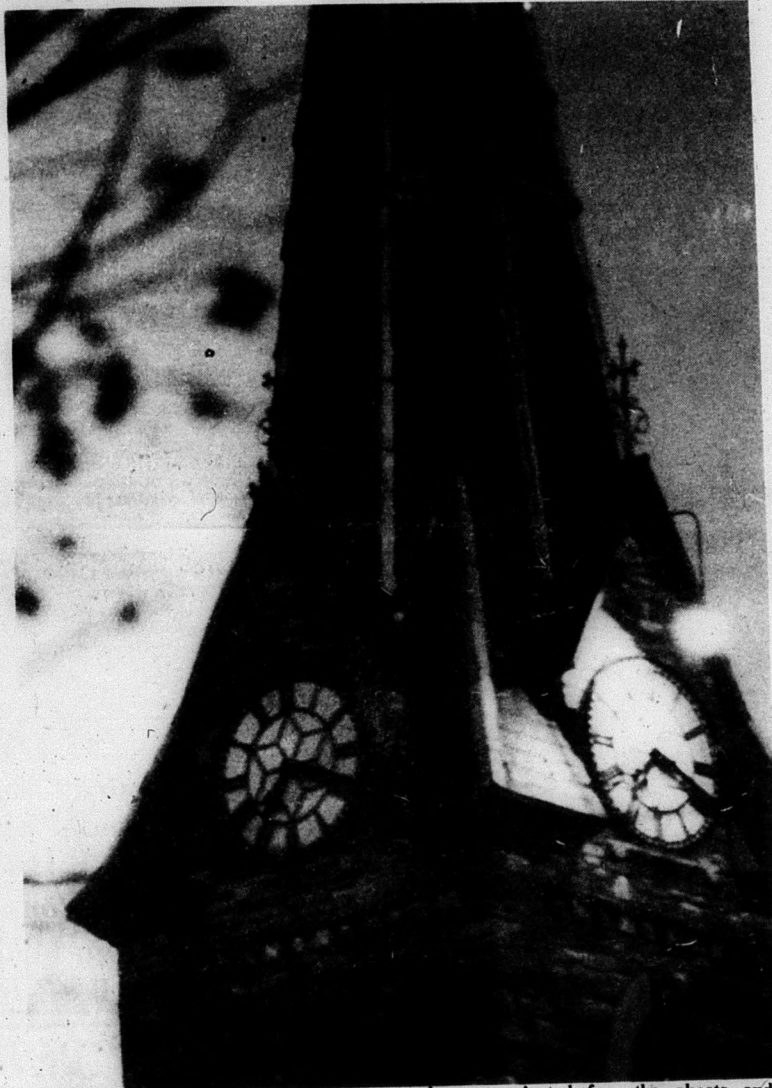

The Madoc Chapter of the Bombay Bicycle Club is fast getting a reputation as being the hardest club in Canada to join. After a report from the club was received by the Review and published in our October 17 edition, newspapers throughout Ontario have been trying to find out more information about this very selective club with very poor results. In fact, they have had a great deal of trouble just finding members.

The Review has done a very thorough and exhaustive investigation and, with some difficulty, did manage to speak to a member of the club, we think. He would not comment unless we assured him that his name would be held in strictest confidence, a relatively easy feat for the newspaper. (How can you tell a man's name if you have only talked to him over the phone, in Egyptian no less, and given what was obviously an alias, Mohammed El Skid). After a short silence when I asked the first question, I got my second piece of pertinent information (the first being that one member is a man). The second being that this man is deaf. I would ask a question about how to join the club and received an answer about underinflated tubes.

The interview obviously did not go the way I had planned. He did say that several new applications for membership had been received and that the club may have to expand to Tweed. He thought that the coverage by several daily newspapers (the Toronto Star, The Intelligencer and the Examiner) were really just camouflaged attempts to join the club. He was also considering a ban on newspaper reporters because it might effect the quality of air in their tubes.

Well, you now know as much about the Bombay Bicycle Club as we do. At the

Remembrance Day

Canada has now known a longer period of peace than any other period in this century. World War I saw 628,462 men and women serve their country. Of these, 2,854 were females. About one tenth or 60,661 were killed. In World War II, 1,086,475 served. Of these, 49,545 were women. The number killed - 41,097. We will remember these people and their sacrifice on November 11th.

Each person will remember in their own way. Perhaps veterans will think of comrades as they were a few seconds before their death. Wives will remember the long wait for husbands who went to war and never returned. Parents will think of boys who were so young when they left home for the last time. And they will remember

On November 11th, everybody wears a poppy, a reminder of the blood-red flower which grew in the fields where many of these men died. Much of the fighting was done in a place called Flanders, where the soldiers fighting in the trenches noticed the red flowers blooming on the battlefields. And as more and more of their friends were killed, the soldiers noticed that the poppies bloomed over their graves. Lest we forget....

Many of the younger generation may not know these facts, even though some of their relatives may be included in the statistics. It could happen again. Remember the men. Remember the women. Remember the poppy. Remember.

quality of help that applied for these positions. Everybody wants to do a good job because they also live in this community and are well known by many of the people. They want to be able to hold their heads up when they are on the streets of Madoc, therefore, they work that much harder at pleasing the customers. Our product and store are good enough to stand on their own merits, but when you add that country attitude, you can't help but have a good store."

Those of us who live in Madoc feel that the faith Dixie Lee has put in this village is justified and, if we continue to get quality stores like this, our population will soon be well above 1,300. Welcome to Madoc, Dixie Lee.

C'ford Bowlers visit Madoc

Approximately twenty-seven golden age bowlers met in Madoc last weekend to enjoy each other along with some friendly competition. Bowlers from Campbellford were visiting the Madoc lanes. Members from both Madoc and Campbellford bowled from 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. and enjoyed it so much that they will have a return engagement in Campbellford on Monday, November 12.

There are around twenty-four golden age bowlers in Madoc and their league is a fun league. The club in Campbellford now numbers about seventy, up from about twenty-seven last year. The bowling in Campbellford is more competitive than in Madoc, but they proved last weekend that they enjoy friendly competition as much as anybody.

Oakdale Rebekah Lodge installs new officers

On Thursday evening, District Deputy President, Sister Ruby Gill and her installing staff of Loch Lomond Rebekah Lodge of Campbellford, paid an official visit to Oakdale Rebekah Lodge for the purpose of installing the Oakdale Sisters into their respective chairs.

Noble Grand Sister Jean Bailey, Junior

Junior Centurions win, advance to COSSA

The junior Centurion football team not only advanced to the Bay of Quinte finals for the first time in their history, they also won a tight defensive battle against a very tough Napanee team. Napanee had gone through the regular season without a loss while the Centurion's lone defeat came at the hands of that same Napanee squad (12-8).

The Centre Hastings Centurions had been waiting for the opportunity to play Napanee since their defeat early in the season. Everyone expected this game to be a very tight one and, for once, that prediction proved correct. Both teams had established very stingy defenses throughout the season to go along with superior offenses. In this game, the defenses were the dominating factors, in more ways than one. The final score was 7-6 with each touchdown being scored by the defense. Scott Terrior scored for the Centurions on a fumble recovery on the five yard line. Andy Ringelman scored what proved to be the winning point when he kicked the convert. Napanee did not convert their touchdown.

Neither team could establish a consistent offensive series but each team stuck mainly to a running attack. While this game was being played, spectators in the crowd spotted scouts from Peterborough. It is expected that Adam Scott will be the team that the Centurions will meet in Peterborough on Friday. Coach Pyear expects the game to be played early in the afternoon. We assume that Barry Pyear was happy with the victory, but we could not confirm this. Mr. Pyear apparently did not go straight home after the game. Could he have been celebrating?

Juniors roll over Centennial 59-0

Centurion teams met with mixed emotions this week. Some played up to the standards they have been capable of all year, while others met with defeat although they still pleased their coaches with their performances.

A controversial game of football was played on Monday of this week when the Centurion seniors travelled to Moira and were defeated 48-8. The seniors were overpowered by a big, tough Moira squad and, although supposedly humiliated on the scoreboard, their coaches felt that their team had a lot to be proud of. The team has had problems throughout the season with injuries and internal problems, but as the year came to an end, the team was playing together as a unit and exhibiting a great deal of pride while still being harassed by injuries.

Moira had established themselves as a tough team during the regular season and eventually finished in first place. The Centurions placed fourth with a 3-3 record and had only jelled as a team in the final game of the regular season. They were optimistic about the game against Moira but realized they had to play inspired ball to beat them and, also, to go through the game without suffering any more injuries to key personnel. This did not prove to be the case and the Centurions were defeated on the scoreboard at last.

Both coach Bob Mound and assistant coach Bob Cooke were very proud of the effort their team put forth. "We went to the game with only twenty-five players and we lost four of them to injuries during the game. Moira has a very big team and they just overpowered us as the game went along. We're not making any excuses for our team because we don't feel we have to. We played as well as we could and we are proud of our team, the cheerleaders and our fans. Everyone did their best."

The controversy erupted the next day when members of the Centurion teams felt that they were being laughed at by members of the CJBQ radio station. Some even felt that a caller had predicted an even bigger defeat for the juniors when they met Centennial on Tuesday. Needless to say, this gave the juniors that added incentive in their game and they eventually proved just how wrong a prediction on a junior football game can be.

From the first time that a Centurion touched the football, you could tell that this team had taken exception to the ridicule directed at their school. Scott Terrior received the ball when it was punted by the Centennial squad and returned it for a touchdown. The remainder of the first quarter and half of the second quarter saw both teams evenly matched and fighting for the next touchdown. The Centurions finally put those points on the board and added two more T.D.s before the half ended, leaving them with a 28-0 first half lead.

Coach Barry Pyear talked to his players at half-time and told them that this was a playoff game and that they couldn't afford to let up on this team. He mentioned the maligning they had received by the media in Belleville and told his boys to go out and play the best football they were capable of playing. That was all the incentive his team needed as they continued to add to their points total in the second half, with the result that they ended the game with a 59-0 win.

When the final statistics were in, the team had collected well over five hundred yards in total offense and they had played the best game of their year. Andy Ringelman led the scoring with two T.D.s, eight converts and a field goal for twenty-three points. Ted Bergeron and Scott Terrior added two touchdowns each while Brian Reid and Paul Mason each collected one. On defense, Randy Gray intercepted a pass and Sam Danford recovered a fumble. The defense, playing without pressure on them, only allowed Centennial into their half of the field once in the game and continually held the potent Centennial offense in check.

But again, the day after the game, a controversy was brought into the limelight. Many people, including a few from the high school itself, felt that the score did not

Radio Shack surprised at interest of elderly

The Village of Madoc welcomed two new chain stores into its fold this week and is establishing itself as one of the fastest growing villages in the area.

A new Radio Shack Authorized Sales Centre officially opened its doors to customers on Thursday, November 1st. Terry and Eileen Pigden are the owners and managers of the store, which has opened adjacent to Pigden's Radio and T.V. store and will complement that store. Pigden's Radio and T.V. will now be specializing in colour T.V.'s, vacuum cleaners, records, micro-wave ovens and commercial sound systems and will also maintain a service department. The new Radio Shack store offers stereos for home and car, C.B. radios, portable radios and tape players, electronic toys and games, do it yourself kits, electronic computers, some electronic tools, supplies and parts, some burglar and fire alarm equipment plus telephones.

Terry and Eileen have worked very hard in the past two weeks to prepare the store for the opening. A few touchups have yet to be made but they hope that their customers will bear with them until the store is finished and stocked the way they want. "It will probably take us about one year to build the inventory up to the standards that we hope to maintain and it will probably take a while for us to catch on to the shipping date schedule for our orders, which generally should take seven to ten days, but we hope to iron out these problems as quickly as possible." One of the problems that they hope to solve within the next few days is that of a sign. It was supposed to have arrived for the opening and Terry is still optimistic that it will arrive soon.

"We have been impressed and pleasantly surprised at the number of people that have dropped into the store. We expected it to take a few days for the traffic to build up but we served seventy-six cups of coffee on November 1st and not all of the people who were in wanted coffee. We also received ten flowers and plants from other merchants."

Terry and Eileen expected to cater mainly to young people but have been very surprised at the number of older people that have come into the store looking for stereo equipment, not for the loud sound, but good quality, mellow sound. "We expected our clientele to be made up of younger people although we feel that we can satisfy anyone's needs."

The store will be open Monday to Thursday from 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., Fridays until 9:00 p.m. and until 5:30 p.m. on Saturdays.

Terry and Eileen would like to take this opportunity to thank all of those people who sent flowers and congratulatory messages as well as all of those who dropped into the store to say hello and welcome. Anyone who was unable to drop in this week are welcomed to come in anytime. Catalogues are available so that you can see the complete line of equipment available.

The Review, on behalf of Madoc, welcomes Radio Shack to the village and wishes them success in the future.

Terry and Eileen Pigden stand proudly behind the counter of their new Radio Shack store on the main street of Madoc.

The store opened on the 1st of November but the grand opening will not take place until January.

CONSUMER BEAT

Lack of security—it probably stands between more aspiring entrepreneurs and the dream of owning a small business than any other factor. The stakes are just too high. How can the potential small business owner find some guarantee of profit?

For many, the answer appears to lie in franchising. The franchisor has already taken the risks—you just step in and count the money.

Franchise deals may not be better business

Unfortunately, it's not quite that simple. It's true that some investors have made healthy profits through franchise deals. But an equal number have lost thousands of dollars the same way. The difference, as with all small business ventures, lies in careful planning.

What is franchising?

Franchising is a method of operation used by companies to distribute products or services. The company (the franchisor) grants to the operator (the franchisee) the right to sell a product or service, operate a business along the lines developed by the franchisor, and use the franchisor's trade name or other designation.

Ideally, it is a continuing and supportive relationship between the parties to work for the benefit of both. But there are degrees of relationship and success.

The right or privilege granted is called the franchise and it may include the right to sell the parent company's products, use its name, adopt its methods or use its symbols and trademarks. It may include only some of these rights.

Territory of operations may or may not be exclusive, and support may or may not be set up on a continuing basis.

Some franchisors do virtually all of the initial work of starting a new operation. They buy or lease the land and supervise construction of the building which has already been designed to their specifications. They install the equipment and fixtures, arrange the advance publicity, advertising and staff training.

Some franchisors offer ongoing support, from regular meetings and suggestions to newsletters and co-operative advertising. A few leave you with all of the responsibilities and no subsequent help or advice.

These responsibilities may include payment of a royalty fee based on gross sales, or maintaining a particular level of sales. They may require you to attend training sessions, to purchase all equipment and supplies from the franchisor, or to maintain detailed financial records accessible to the franchisor.

The franchisor, in turn, is responsible for those items stipulated in the contract. If it isn't clearly and specifically stated in writing, don't assume that the franchisor will take care of it.

What are the advantages?

There are many advantages to the franchisor. It's your money not his that is used to organize and operate the outlet; he collects a fee for the right to let you do business and usually a royalty, as well as rental income from the property. Many of the potential problems, such as zoning or labour problems and inventory controls, are the responsibility of the franchisee.

By offering franchises, many companies broaden their marketing and economic base with little capital of their own.

What you get will depend on the experience and integrity, as well as the business and financial expertise of the franchisor. Advantages are few if you are merely purchasing a piece of paper that permits you to do business in a specified area. Your only advantages are what the franchisor provides for you, and they may, or may not include:

--the experience and know-how of the franchisor who has operated many outlets and has a background of successes;

--training of the franchisee and staff;

--a continuing source of information to the franchisee; and

--a tradename or symbol that is well-known and accepted by the buying public.

And the disadvantages?

For every advantage, of course, there is a disadvantage that must be weighed carefully. Many franchisors collect a fee for the franchise and provide no further help. Even if support is provided, there may be disadvantages:

--services provided by the franchisor cost money and sometimes could be purchased more cheaply elsewhere;

--some of these services may not be of any value to the franchisee;

--many franchisors promise continuing support but fail to live up to that promise;

--if the franchisor operates from another jurisdiction and obligations are not fulfilled, it can be difficult, if not impossible, to achieve redress;

--profits are often less than franchisees have been led to believe;

--in some franchises, there is no room for flexibility of the operation;

--tradenames and symbols may not bring in as much business as hoped;

--misleading promises by franchisors could mean loss of your investment; and

--franchisors could 'oversaturate' the market.

have to be as high as it was. Coach Barry Pyear received a great deal of criticism for his part in the game. However, I feel that a few things have not been clearly pointed out about the juniors and their best season ever. They have been one of the class teams of the league throughout the year and still have received very little coverage by any of the Belleville media, except for the odd derisive comment. They have continued to hold their cool in games where they thought they were being given a raw deal and where other teams were continually taking cheap shots at an obviously more disciplined team.

Also, throughout the season, they heard comments about the "farmers in Madoc" and "those hicks from Centre Hastings". The team was able to handle that type of thing and hand it back to those teams on the scoreboard. Being laughed at and called names by other teams in itself was not something that this team would let bother them. The fact that they were laughed at by the media that had continually ignored them throughout the season, may have been the straw that broke the camel's back. The team was upset by the remarks and I think they deserved a little revenge.

Another point to remember is that this is the first time ever that a junior team from Centre Hastings has advanced to a final game. That final game will be played against Napanee, who defeated Bayside 28-0 later in the week and who were also the only team to defeat the Centurions in regular league play (12-8). The junior Centurions have been waiting for this rematch since that defeat. Much of the controversy arose in the Belleville media once it was learned that, for the first time in many years, a Belleville team would not be competing in the junior Bay of Quinte final.

Another point that hasn't been mentioned is that Coach Pyear offered to let the second half of that game be played under a straight time regulation that means there is no stoppage in time in a game and speeds up the half a great deal. The Centennial coach refused that offer. Coach Pyear did not want to hold back his team so he gave them a chance to practice some areas of their offense that he thought needed work. A series of events led to the lopsided score and, to me, it would have been wrong to handle the game any other way. Centennial at least knows that it was defeated by a team that was giving it everything. To hold back and play only as hard as you needed to win, would be rubbing salt in the wound.

The Centurions travel to Napanee on Monday to take on the powerful and aggressive Napanee Squad in the Bay of Quinte final. Both teams have established very aggressive and stingy defenses that are capable of dominating a game. Both offenses will be put under the gun to try to establish an attack that will work for them throughout the game. "Napanee is a tough squad. We will have to play our best to beat them if we hope to advance to the C.O.S.S.A. final in the Kawartha District. We'll just have to play our best and hope that is enough."

Madoc's newest celebrity

Madoc has a new celebrity in its midst. Leigh Bates, a grade eight student from Madoc Public School, will soon be representing Madoc at Queen's Park, albeit not in the normal capacity. She is one of twenty-two grade seven or eight students who will be pages in the Ontario Legislature from November 19th until the Christmas break.

Leigh Bates

Leigh applied for the position and had to meet certain requirements. First she had to give some reasons why she wanted the position, she had to be a grade seven or eight student and she had to have an 80% plus average. She was one of eleven girls and eleven boys chosen to fill these positions. Leigh was surprised that she was chosen and, when asked how many students would have applied, she said, "I'm not sure, but probably a lot, though."

How does a student with an 80% average become a page for six weeks and not have it affect that high average? "We have special tutors for two and one half hours twice a week plus forty-five minutes of French and lots of homework," she replied. "We are paid $10.00 a day plus a $5.00 food allowance on the days that we work late. If we live over one hundred miles away, we have one trip home paid for by Queen's Park."

Her duties will involve carrying messages from the sitting members to the speaker and clerk and, once every other week, they get extra duty although the hours are generally pretty flexible. "We go to work at 9:00 A.M. on most days but we have to go at 8:30 A.M. on Fridays. Leigh was anxious to start work and was having a hard time waiting for November 19th to roll around."

Leigh has several hobbies and, has obviously become quite proficient at some of them. She enjoys music (she plays the piano and the violin), she collects minerals and coins and she enjoys table tennis and badminton. She also played the village girl in "Fiddler on the Roof" in Belleville.

Leigh is a quiet, well-mannered girl who tends a little towards shyness. She is, however, quite articulate for her age and appears to have the ideal personality for the position she will be filling in Queen's Park. We wish her good luck and hope that she enjoys her stay.

40th Anniversary

On Saturday evening, October 13, family and friends gathered at the Queensboro Church Hall to extend congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Allan Sager in honor of their 40th wedding anniversary.

Allan Sager and Isabella Holmes were united in marriage on October 18th 1939 at the Queensboro parsonage by Rev. E. Snelgrove. Attendants for the happy couple were Miss Jennie Sager, sister of the groom, and Mr. Gordon Sager, cousin of the groom.

Present for the evening were the groom's sisters and their families and the bride's brother and his family.

Allan and Isabella have three children, Robert, Isabella and Elizabeth. They have nine grandchildren, Sherry and Dale Sager, Scott, Karen, Debbie, Susan and Marty Shaw and Elizabeth and Shawn Wood.

The Church women served a delicious supper. The table was centred by a beautiful cake made and decorated by the groom's sister, Bernice Cassidy. After the meal, a social hour was spent. Guests were present from Belleville, Madoc, Tweed, Eldorado, Peterborough, Toronto, Sunderland, Campbellford and Brooklyn.

Volleyballers take second in COSSA

Coach Jim Berry was disappointed as he and his team returned from Oshawa, where this year's COSSA competition was held, although that disappointment was not directed at his team. "I am very pleased with the effort that this team gave all year and I couldn't have asked for any more than they gave."

What did disappoint him was the way that his team was eliminated from further play this year. The team began playing in round robin play at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday and after fifteen games of volleyball (the last seven of which were played in a row without a break) his team was finally beaten by Crestwood.

His team went through round robin play with only two defeats. They played Dunbarton and defeated them by the scores of 15-5 and 15-7 to open the day. Following that, they played Bancroft and defeated them 15-7, 15-7, were defeated by Crestwood 6-15, 6-15 and then defeated Anderson 15-4, 15-10. They placed second in their pool to advance into the quarter finals against Pickering.

The first game against Pickering saw the Centurions fall behind eventually to be defeated by the score of 8-15. However, they came back in the second game and reversed the score to force the third game. This match was very even before the Centurions finally defeated Pickering by the score of 15-13.

The semi-finals, against Fenelon Falls, saw the Centurions eliminate their opposition in two straight games by the scores of 15-5, 15-10.

In the finals, they came up against Crestwood, the only team to defeat them in round robin play, and were again defeated by the scores of 14-16, 9-15. This forced the Centurions to be content with a second place finish and the silver medal in COSSA.

Coach Berry was disappointed because there were ten teams at COSSA and only two gymnasiums, which meant that play was consistently held up. The Centurions finished their last game exactly twelve hours after they had begun play. Add that to the fact that they were forced to play their last seven games without a break, while two of those teams had half hour rests between their games because of the delays, and you have some idea why Jim Berry was disappointed as he came home.

"These guys weren't even ranked in the top ten teams in Ontario at the first of the year because of our lack of height. As we got into the year, they began to establish themselves as a competitive team and were eventually ranked sixth in Ontario by York. We think that because of the lack of facilities, we were forced to play a marathon and, had it been reversed, we might very well have won COSSA."

Another thing that irked Mr. Berry was the fact that only one team advances to OFSSA. To him, Central Ontario is where you have the bulk of your schools and therefore, some of the best teams in the province. He feels that because of this fact, more teams from the area should be allowed to attend the Ontario final.

"We were beaten and are ready to accept that fact, but we feel that if there had been a third gymnasium available, we wouldn't have had to play so long and that we would have been in better condition and more evenly matched in the finals."

This team has never failed to impress people who are watching them for the first time. As the season progressed, they were forced to play against teams that had more height, but they always seemed to be able to take the play to these teams and force them to make the mistakes.

Coach Berry looked ahead to next year and felt that the senior team would be competitive but that it would take a couple of years to build up to the power they have displayed in the past. "You can't lose players like Tom Lawrence, Stewart McKeown, Brian Hyde and Mike Vilneff without hurting the team. They will be gone next year so we have to start rebuilding."

"This isn't to say that Crestwood didn't deserve their victory. They played perfect volleyball and are a top calibre team. We don't have to be ashamed of being defeated by a team like that."

OBITUARY

Wilfred Gerald McFaul

Wilfred Gerald McFaul of R.R.4, Marmora died at home after a short illness on October 27, 1979. He was 65 years of age.

Mr. McFaul was born in Belmont Township on January 10, 1914, the son of the late Robert and Effie (Ellis) McFaul. He was a retired farmer, having lived in Marmora Township for the past 29 years. Before that he resided at R.R.4, Havelock.

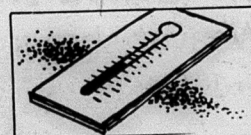

He was a veteran and a member of the Springbrook United Church.

He leaves his wife, Audrey (Willman), and children Geraldine (Mrs. Roger Smith) R.R.3, Stirling; Joan (Mrs. Lothar Colberg), Bramalea; Earl, R.R.4, Marmora and Barbara (Mrs. Larry Jeffs), R.R.3, Stirling. He was predeceased by a son Murray.

He is also survived by brothers and sisters: Alex of Marmora; Clayton of R.R.4, Havelock; Kathleen (Mrs. Frank Banville), Belleville; Verna (Mrs. Murray Wilson), Newmarket; Ross of Peterborough; Isobel (Mrs. Clarence Reynolds), Belleville; Ray, R.R.3, Havelock; Roy of Stirling. He was predeceased by a brother, Charles.

Mr. McFaul rested at the Howden Funeral Home in Marmora. Funeral services were held from the Springbrook United Church with the Rev. T. Snelgrove presiding. Interment was in Mount Nebo Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Gerald Broadworth, Doug Brownson, Ernie Stiles, Charlie Wellman and Gerald Burkitt.

Look who's stealing your electricity.

A stove exhaust fan filter clogged with grease and grime makes the fan motor work longer and harder to draw air through. Just soaking the filter in mild soap or detergent will fix this energy waster.

Use Energy Wisely

Tune-up, clean up. It's simple. Appliances that are clean and well-cared for last longer and use less electricity. Over the long run, you can save money on appliance replacement. And of course, the less energy you waste, the more dollars you save.

Grease and burnt-on food really reduce your oven's efficiency. A clean oven works better and uses less electricity. Try putting tin foil on the oven bottom. It catches bits of food and grease for easy cleaning and it's a good heat reflector too.

Don't waste your energy.

DELORO NEWS

BY RUBY MCCOY

Blue Spruce Haven has two new residents, Mr. Manley Lavender of Marmora and Mr. Percy Nayler of Madoc, and Centre Hastings Nursing Home has one, Mrs. Lyall Hoard of Havelock.

A Hallowe'en party on Saturday, October 27, at Deloro Community Hall sponsored by the local recreation commission attracted about 75.

Rev. J.P. Carty of Sacred Heart Church and Fr. Julian Phelan of New York, a missionary priest, conducted Mass for the residents of Centre Hastings Nursing Home last Friday. It was also a memorial service for the late Edward King.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Martin of Havelock visited Mrs. Mary Rorke and her sister Mrs. Lyall Hoard at Centre Hastings Nursing Home on the weekend.

Mrs. Martha Harris of Centre Hastings Nursing Home has returned from Belleville General Hospital while Mrs. Mabel Bell remains there.

Mr. Lorne Smith, accompanied by Mrs. Mildred Wells and Mrs. Clara Derry, led the residents of Centre Hastings Nursing Home in a hymn sing on Thursday afternoon.

Other visitors at Centre Hastings Nursing Home included Vicki Maloney of Perth and Judy Black of Toronto who called on Mrs. Lillieth Lummiss; Mrs. Bernice Baker of Belleville who called on her brother, Durwood McCoy; Jim Whiteman of Madoc who visited his sister, Wilma Bedore.

Miss Gertie Burns was a guest of Bert and Isabel Wickens of Madoc for dinner on Saturday evening.

J.W.I. October meeting

Our October meeting was held at the home of Evelyn Craid and had the best attendance this year.

The meeting was called to order and we recited the Mary Stewart Collect. Ruth McCurdy welcomed all with a poem "the Kitchen Range". The Roll Call was "2 cents for every kitchen cupboard". The donations were from a high of 52 cents to a low of 2 cents.

The JWI is donating $50 to the Woodstock Tornado Relief Fund, for every $25 that we donate the Government matches $75.

Ruth McCurdy and Evelyn Craid demonstrated the "Art of Chinese Cooking". A great deal of work went into preparing 1) Oven Spare Ribs 2) Deep Fried Shrimps 3) Pork Chop Suey 4) Sukiyaki and 5) Chicken Fried Rice. We all enjoyed sampling these dishes and all received a copy of the recipes.

Our seasonal tour was September 27 at Bata Industries in Batawa. We saw both the Footwear & Engineering divisions. Our guides started our tour in the stock room where all materials are stored awaiting cutting. From the cutters the materials travel to the sewers, gluers, inspection and finally to packers and shippers. Next we toured the newly constructed offices and machine shops of Bata Engineering. This is the other side of Bata, known for building of commercial and hydraulic cylinders, spare parts for military, fittings for aircraft, all metal precision work that is carried out in a machine shop with 300 people. A most enjoyable dinner hour with good conversation was enjoyed by all at the Wandlyn Inn.

Our "Autumn Reflections" Fashion Show held in Stirling, October 17 was a great success. Many thanks to the Village Shoppe and Lollipop Tree for their fabulous fashions and to Audrey's Flowers for the beautiful ferns and flowers. The JWI members contributed in one way or another either modelling, behind the scenes or lunch preparation.

Our next meeting will be November 8, 1979 at 8:00 p.m. We will meet at the Milne Studios, Moira - 4 miles east of Hwy. 62 on the south side of Ridge Rd. After the tour we continue to Ardell Hitchon's home 1 1/2 miles further east.

Weaver shows in Belleville

H. Theodore Hallman, an internationally known artist and weaver will be showing a selection of his works November 1 - 21 at the Hastings County Museum, Belleville, Ontario.

Mr. Hallman, now living in Toronto, has his formal training in the United States, France, and Austria in weaving, as well as on painting and music. He is a practising craftsman of international standing and a dedicated teacher.

His work is marked by an innovative use of materials combined with a superb mastery of traditional weaving techniques. Since the early 1960s his work has been exhibited in major one-man and group shows organized by many of the leading American museums.

The exhibit will be shown in the Breakfast Room at the Museum, where weavers from the Belleville Weavers Guild are working on the 100" loom purchased for the Ontario Handweavers and Spinners through a Wintario project. The loom is to circulate throughout Ontario and will be in Belleville until May 1980.

B-ballers show stuff against Quinte

In Bay of Quinte action this week, both junior and senior basketball teams proved that they can come from behind and that they never quit.

The juniors erased an eight point deficit at half time to come back in the second half and win by ten points over a very tall Quinte team. Coach Yvonne Mabo was impressed with the height and shooting ability of the Quinte team. "They were beating us in the first half but we got a fast break going in the second half and they didn't seem to adjust to it. There are a lot of teams in this league who are capable of playing good basketball. I am impressed with our girls because they never give up.

The seniors also put it together in the second half to defeat Quinte by the score of 42-19. At the half, they were down by five points but came back a vengeance in the second half. "We didn't do well in the first half but we were able to play our game in the second half," said coach Dave Sellers. "I don't even know if we are going to make it to the finals, but I do think that we can compete with any team in this league."

This statement may have been backed up by his team's performance in the First Annual All Pro Basketball Tournament, which they allegedly attended for the experience over the weekend. Centre Hastings was one of the last, if not the last team, invited to the tournament of eight teams consisting of Oshawa (M.M. Robinson), Peterborough (Adam Scott), Fenelon Falls and of course, Centre Hastings.

In the opening round of the competition, the Seniors handily defeated Oshawa and Lakefield District in the semi-finals to advance to the finals against Burlington.

The game against Burlington was a squeaker in which the seniors were leading at one point. In the first half they fell behind by six points only to come back to tie it up. They then fell behind by six points in the second half and were able to fight back within two points of the tough Burlington squad. Coach Sellers was very impressed with his team and felt they had definitely played their best game of the year. "We brought some of the juniors up to play in this tournament, which was a great help to us."

The team was so impressive in their final game that Nancy Watson was almost chosen as the most valuable player in the tournament. Coach Sellers felt that they had played exceptionally well but, "...I'm not sure whether they played up to their full potential or not. I do know that we will get an invitation back to that tournament next year. Some of the officials were quite surprised at our play."

The seniors meet Napahee this week.

Centre Hastings rises above it all

By Ted Bergeron

Centre Hastings has committed decide interscholastic teams representing the local secondary school pride themselves on the sense of morality they have among themselves and opposing teams. However, the Belleville radio station "CJBQ", seems determined to persecute, again this year, the Centurion name. Perhaps just a play to draw listeners in the mornings, the station seems to be playing with school pride.

Following a rather decisive defeat suffered by our senior football team, the airwaves became polluted with news of the "Siege of CHSS".

An excellent epitomization of the student body's general regard of the situation was put forth by Barry Pyear, coach of the Junior Centurion football team, immediately preceding his teams semi-final game against Centennial "I don't feel that in my years as a coach here, we have ever mocked or attempted to demoralize anybody. At one point or another we have beaten every team Belleville has put on the field, yet rough play, cheap shots and that sort of thing persist." He continued to say that the incrimination suffered by the senior team was worthy of equal retribution, mentioning also that incentive could be had from the situation and circumstances forced on our school pride.

The 59-0 bombardment launched on Centennial by our junior football team seemed to eliminate the last junior team from Belleville in Bay of Quinte play. This stripped the city of the deity status students there, mistakenly gave it, and compensated for our senior football team.

To serve as an example, no derogatory remarks were issued by Centurion student, indignant over the harassment induced by our school name. The acquisition of such a trait by certain anonymous secondary schools and a radio station, would be to the school anything but detrimental, and to the radio station, much appreciated.

Briefly, other happenings around CHSS include the possible adoption of a new system of student recognition wherein emphasis is put primarily on participation. The system called "Winit" consists of a certificate to replace the bar system. For each team or event a participant includes himself in, an adhesive award would be put toward his certificate with championships being recognized on a separate certificate.

One last triviality...the radio station "CJBQ" paid due tribute to Mr. Pyear. At the request of an anonymous caller, Mr. Pyear was brought to a gory demise over the radio. Rumour has it that a Bay of Quinte final victory would bring on the possibility of a recovery. Time will tell.

OBITUARY*Kenneth E. Bedore

Kenneth E. Bedore (Ken) of Peterborough, Ont., died suddenly at his parents' home at RR 2, Marmora, Oct. 6, 1979, at the age of 36.

Ken was born in Marmora Township, the only son of Ted and Betty Bedore. He attended Sacred Heart Separate School, Marmora, and Centre Hastings High School, Madoc. He attended the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology in Calgary for two years, was employed by Swan Wooster Engineering, Vancouver and Kitimat, B.C., and for the past six years was an engineer technologist with Totten, Sims and Hubic Associates of Cobourg, Ont.

A member of St. Anne's Church, Peterborough, he is survived by his wife, Jane (O'Connor) and two children Beth and Kevin, at home.

He is also survived by his parents, Ted and Betty Bedore, Marmora Township, sister Susanne (Mrs. Irvin Lang) of Victoria, B.C., and grandfather, Andrew Gross of Winnipeg, Man.

Ken rested at the Duffus Funeral Home in Peterborough.

Funeral services were held Oct. 10, 1979, at St. Anne's Church with Revs. Heffernan and Coughlin and Sister June Nash presiding.

Interment was at Sacred Heart Church in Marmora with Rev. Carly presiding. Pallbearers were Bob Dungan, Alec Best, John Parkin, George Davies, Eugene Balondin and Ron Rouble.

I didn't see any farmers but the Agricultural History of Ontario Seminar at the University of Guelph was all about them and their unique past.

For the past four years historians, researchers and men and women of letters have gathered at the University of Guelph to hear seminars on the different aspects of Ontario's agricultural history, a process that has seen the rural farm emerge from isolation to becoming an endangered part of the landscape.

In some respects, it was a sentimental journey, especially for the large number of elderly who attended the October 27 seminar. For the many teachers who attended, it was an opportunity to brush up on a little history, to return to their rural classrooms with a better perspective of the importance of farming to Ontario's culture.

Beyond the nostalgia and kind words for our rural ancestors, this year's seminar focussed on the emergence of the country woman, and her dramatic ascent from domestic livestock to decision maker.

Last year, the theme was communication, the somewhat insidious invasion of the urban world in the form of radio, television, newspapers, catalogues, and of course, the telephone. From reading past seminar data, and listening to this year's version, the seminars take on the appearance of a post mortem for a lifestyle that has passed away with horse and buggies and steam driven ploughs.

The farmer is a dying breed in Ontario, either lured to the city by the promise of a better life, or forced off the farm by excessive costs. There were few insights into the reasons behind this transition offered at the Seminar, but for an interesting speech on the education transition in the countryside. It was largely a look at what once was.

A rather rousing talk on farmer's co-operatives was delivered by Leonard Harman, past general manager of United Co-operatives of Ontario. He sought to dispell the time honoured belief that farmer's could not get together and work for a common cause, by outlining the successful history of the co-operative movement in Ontario.

For the Ontario farmer, exploitation has always been an unfortunate fact of life. Ever since the late eighteenth century, organizations seeking to win farmers a better deal have come and gone. And for farmers, there have been many great depressions, says Harman, with conditions in the 1870s actually worse than those of the Dust-bowl days of this century. Organizations like the now defunct 'Grange' and 'United Farmers of Ontario' had their days of high membership, but the co-operative movement continued to thrive, like a rose by any other name.

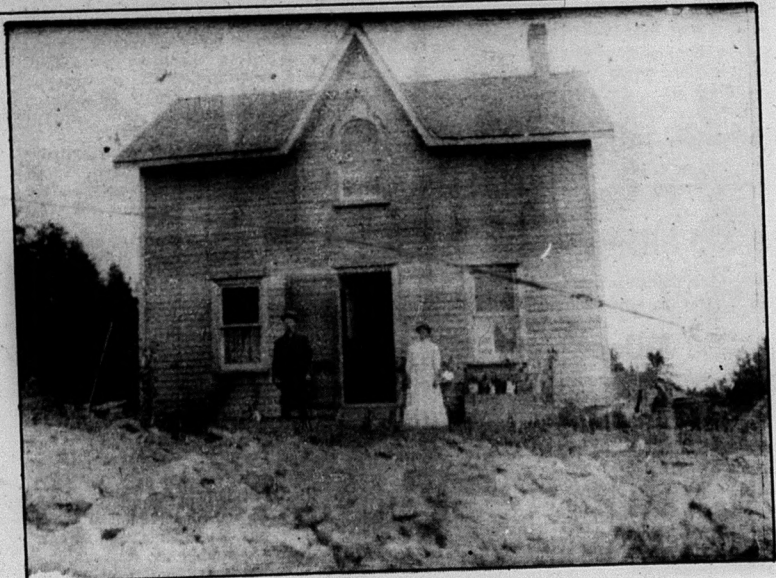

The Grange is an organization that may stir some memories with some mature farmers. The credo of the Grange reflected the haughty, if temporary determination to 'drive the ploughshare of thought through the heavy soil of ignorance leading to the growth of wisdom'. At its height, the fraternal organization had 821 branches in Ontario, and opened several businesses and buying clubs. As advanced as the organization was in some respects, it refused the membership of women, although the American wing of the order encouraged female participation.

While chauvinism slowly rolled back in the cities in the early part of this century, the country woman, as always, was merely the handiest livestock a farmer owned. Margaret McCready, retired Dean of the MacDonald Institute at the University of Guelph, outlined the history of the woman's movement in the country.

Womens' Institutes began springing up in the 1890s, along with womens' missionary societies and temperance unions, but it wasn't until a fascinating woman named Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless hit the scene in 1897 that women began taking an active role in trying to upgrade the condition of women and their children's lifestyle through better education.

Her crusade began with the tragic death of her youngest child from drinking contaminated milk. She complained that men knew more about caring for their livestock than women knew about taking care of their children. She began by demanding better quality control for milk and continued, with the creation of other institutes, to demand domestic science studies in the public schools and colleges. She bore the scorn of the press and pulpit, but succeeded in getting the Ontario government to get these programs through.

In the ilk of Mrs. Hoodless, other outspoken country women began to demand suffrage, and the right to take their equal place in society. But as a slide presentation shown later in the seminar indicated, women farmers today are still the object of humorous comments, while women are excelling in urban professions.

"My friends ask me what I'm going to do for a living," a young woman farmer said shyly. "I tell them I'm doing it. They just laugh".

Mrs. McCready admits that the country woman is not the bra-burning liberationist of the city yet. "Though we are emancipated, we move very slowly. There is very much left to be done".

Perhaps the best seminar of the afternoon was delivered by Mr. R.D. Gidney of the University of Western Ontario. He, and Mrs. Wendy Millar have been doing research into nineteenth century rural education and have traced the roots of urbanized education for rural children. There can be no doubt that an educational system unrelated to practical farming experience, coupled with onerous financial constraints, is helping make family farming a nostalgic memory.

According to Gidney and Millar, rural communities lost control of their destinies through administrative streamlining in the late nineteenth century. Before this time, teachers were selected locally, curriculums reflected what the parents thought their children should know, and the kids stayed home on the farm. But after Confederation, bureaucracy was invented and uniformity in the school system was encouraged. Standards in teaching and improvements in curriculum were legislated from above. At first, rural kids were caught behind in the sudden rush to improve the system. Something called high school was invented, and many did not have the necessary background to progress.

At this crisis point, the kids were told to buckle down and work harder. Their parents were a bit lost themselves in that technologically advancing age, realizing that if they could not read the ingredients on the back of a bag of fertilizer, then their children had better learn.

"The local schools had fallen victim to the county entrance exam", concluded Gidney. If the students were not taught the necessary courses to pass the high school entrance exams while they were in grade school, then they would not progress.

The biggest danger in higher education for farmers is not that their children would learn to read a bag of fertilizer but that they would want to read and do other things. Education became the passport to the more glamorous world of the city, and many left.

Not all of the seminars dwelt on brain-teasers like the future of family farming. Topics like rural costume and old grist and flour mills were discussed often in technical terms that reduced the seminar to boredom. But while the production methods of old flour mills put people to sleep, the rural costume seminar had its moments. Katharine Brett of the Textile Department of the Royal Ontario Museum apologized for the lack of men's trousers on display but explained that men worked so hard in those days that it is no surprise that few would be left.

"Strangely, though", offered Mrs. Brett, as slide pictures of ladies lingerie clicked above her at the podium, "plenty of women's underclothing have survived the rigours of time". Items like zippers on men's trousers were slow to acceptance because "buttons seemed so natural".

The path of popular history left the country around the turn of the century, as the cities began to expand into the rural hinterland. So it is refreshing to hear a bit of history that is as yet not as well known or appreciated. The University of Guelph seminars continue, year by year, to assemble more and more information about life on the back roads, while there are still back roads to travel.

Experience '79 sponsors noise survey

It's been a noisy summer for five University of Windsor students, but they haven't been playing it by ear.

The students have come up with a simpler and less expensive method of accurately measuring noise at construction sites, through an Experience '79 research project co-ordinated by Environment Ontario.

Experience '79 is a student unemployment program of the Ontario Youth Secretariat and a source of valuable research for the Ministry of the Environment.

Dr. Z. Reif, Mechanical Engineering Professor at the University of Windsor, organized the 12-week study on construction noise. "There is a need for a less complicated, inexpensive method of construction noise measurement, that can be put to wider use by the municipalities," he said. "Standards for construction noise must be developed before noise levels can be regulated realistically."

Initially, the students were given a grounding in the fundamentals of noise and taught to use the measurement equipment. They began the field work, visiting a random sample of road, residential high-rise and industrial plant construction sites. Since their concern was with noise as it affects the surrounding residential environment, the measurements were taken at the boundary of construction residential properties.

Adrian Vido, a Mechanical Engineering student, who was project co-ordinator, developed a simpler and more viable method of noise measurement. "We've cut down the number of readings necessary to get an accurate measurement from 60 to 18. Also, we've found it isn't necessary to use more than the sound level meter—a simple piece of equipment," he said. "We compared our measurements from the meter to those produced on the graphic recorder and the metrosonic noise analyser, and they're just as accurate. We met the standard, which is an accuracy of plus or minus two decibels and we proved you don't need a lot of expensive equipment."

The students did encounter some stumbling blocks along the way.

Since noise is affected by wind, the students used a meter to measure air velocity and didn't take readings when it registered over 18 kilometres per hour. Also, since the equipment and measurements are quite sensitive, they couldn't survey in rain or humid weather.

"For a while, the city workers were on strike and we had problems finding road construction sites," said Giulio Bordignon, who worked on the project. How did the construction workers feel about the project? "Oh, they were all for it, because they know how annoying the noise can be," said Giulio. "I guess they'd like to see the noise controlled as much as possible."

The group is now compiling a final report of its findings for submission to the Ministry.

Another Experience '79 study measuring noise from stationary cars, motorcycles and light trucks was also completed under Professor Reif this summer. Four students borrowed the test vehicles from local dealers and the Motorcycle Manufacturers Association to compare new and existing methods of measurement and find one with high accuracy and reasonable cost. While noise emission in used vehicles is a responsibility shared by the Province and municipalities, it has been difficult to enforce since existing sound measurement methods are impractical and expensive. The final study report will recommend the use of a particular technique.

Sewage treatment

A national survey of wastewater systems indicated that of more than 20 million people only 12 million, or 57 percent, were serviced by sewage treatment plants—a factor which affects our environment.

Trapper education courses

A pilot project aimed at improving a trapper's ability to present himself and his trade--fur management--to the public in a professional way, was introduced to persons who will be instructors at Trapper Education Courses.

The instructors, who are trappers themselves, were being shown how to prepare lectures and present their management to fellow trappers and the public.

The course for instructors of Trapper Education Courses was held at the Junior Ranger Camp in Lanark District. This course was co-sponsored by the Ministry of Natural Resources and the Ontario Trappers' Association.

The instructors, upon completing the course, expressed their feelings that they had gained experience and improved their ability to present trapping, fur management and control of fur bearers in the most humane methods available.

The seventeen trappers who were selected for the course have assisted with the ten-week Trapper Education Courses and one-day workshops in the past. They have also talked to school groups, youth groups and service clubs. They were from Sudbury, Chatham, Lake Simcoe, Maxville and some points in between.

Assistance and equipment to carry out the course for instructors was given by the Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology.

Dutch elm diseases

Dutch Elm Disease is spread from infected trees to healthy trees by the elm beetle, causing wilting of leaves and death to the tree within a few years. A cure for Dutch Elm Disease is still being sought by Environment Canada scientists - to enhance our environment.

Conifers dominate

There are about 140 tree species in Canada's forests, which fall into two groups--coniferous or softwood trees and deciduous or hardwood trees. Although only 31 of these species are coniferous, they dominate Canada's forests, accounting for five-sixths of the total volume of standing timber, an asset in our environment.

Do's and don'ts of heating with wood.

How to heat your home safely with wood fuels.

With energy costs rising, many Ontarians are rekindling an old flame—wood fires. Wood used properly can provide a cheap, clean renewable heat source. Used improperly, however, wood burning can be dangerous.

Whether your stove is of ornate design or a more modern stove, they both have one thing in common: they each need proper installation. Here are some of the do's and don'ts on heating with wood:

☐ DO — BUY only units which have been certified for wood use, by the Canadian Standards Association (CSA).

or the Underwriter's Laboratories of Canada (ULC).

☐ DO — HIRE an expert to certify that your flue pipe and chimney are in good condition to handle the higher temperatures.

☐ DO — CONTACT your insurance agent before installing the system. Be sure you're covered in case of fire.

☐ DO — CHECK with your municipality before any work begins. You'll probably need a building permit.

☐ DO — ENSURE adequate clearances are provided as listed in the Ontario Building Code and other guides available at your local library.

☐ DON'T — USE flammable liquids when lighting the fire ...like gasoline, kerosene or charcoal lighter fluids. Wood chips, kindling, shavings or newspapers are the safest startup materials.

☐ DON'T — KEEP any flammable materials near your wood burner.

☐ DON'T — FORGET to clean your stovepipes and flues regularly to avoid dangerous flammable build-up.

☐ DON'T — TAKE CHANCES WITH FIRE. Teach your children about fire safety too. If you have any further questions about heating with wood fuels, contact your local Fire Department, or write for the free guide titled:

NOEL'S NOTES

BY NOEL STOCKTON

Now it's not that I wish to heap a sizzling mass of masochistic coals upon my cranium, but I am about to admit that I cannot become too enthused about Remembrance Day.

The same goes, however, for Robbie Burns Day and Traditional Openings of Bonspiels.

For Burns himself, I have the utmost respect as a poet and as a gentleman.

For Remembrance Day, because of the intimacy it always brings to me with those unfortunate fellows of my acquaintance of whom I was, at the time, inordinately fond, but who were less diligent than myself at dodging the slings and arrows of outraged fortune, I maintain the ultimate affinity.

With the traditional kick-offs of bonspiels, I have no actual quarrel and I can relate to them without hesitation.

Why then should all three of these happenings tend to leave me colder than a February morn?

It's all because of the bagpipes.

Now one Remembrance Day, some years ago, I was persuaded in a moment of uncharacteristic chivalry to parade with the local branch of the Canadian Legion in the small town in which I was then residing.

And in order that I shouldn't disgrace the exemplary image of so dignified an organization, I spent the entire day preceding the frolic scraping the gangrene from my medals and applying Brasso by the fluid ounce from a do-it-yourself spray can, which completely obliterated any distinguishing colour or design from the ribbons, thereby rendering them totally hors de combat for the remainder of their existence.

The population of the town at that time was about 3,000 and it seemed to me that every man, woman and child in that urban census was a member in good standing of the Legion, although only a smattering of them could possibly have ever come face to face with an angry enemy.

Now about that time it came to pass that an enthusiastic group of Legionnaires, veterans and otherwise, huddled together one winter's evening in the musty bowels of the Legion Hall like conspirators on Guy Fawkes Day, and they dredged up an equally diabolical plot.

They decided to form a pipe band. They went ahead with their plans, utterly oblivious to the sensitivity and the well-being of the local populace, especially those who were ill-situated enough to be domiciled within the same hemisphere as the Legion Hall.

To demonstrate the earnestness of their purpose they even went so far as to initiate a series of bingos, raffles and other pecuniary instruments of torture, to raise sufficient lucre to purchase the windy weapons and the appropriate Scottish garb to accompany them.

And so it was that, in spite of the collectively discouraging efforts of the citizenry within hailing distance of the Legion Hall, where weekly torturous practice sessions were inflicted upon them from the bowels of the basement, the Pipe Band was born and disastrously nurtured.

After what seemed to be an interminable riot of time, by dint of sheer perseverance and the expenditure of an excessive volume of wind, the Pipe Band began to achieve a certain degree of ediorcity which rendered it almost tolerable, and from that day forward it never failed to impose itself upon every parade and Official Opening from townmarket to Nantucket, with an annual special on Fall Fairs, Funerals, Official Openings, Remembrance Days and Santa

Exhibition

The water color and oil paintings of artists from across eastern Ontario will be highlighted at the East Central Ontario Art Association's (ECOAA) 21st annual juried art exhibition which will be held this year in Peterborough at Sir Sandford Fleming College's Brealey Campus No. 3 - 30.

The show, displaying the works of ECOAA members, will feature paintings by both novice and experienced artists.

The East Central Ontario Art Association was formed in 1960 to help encourage and develop the region's artists. The Association's juried art exhibition is held in a different eastern Ontario community each year.

This is the first time the Brealey Campus has hosted the exhibition.

The November 3 show begins with a wine and cheese reception at 8:30 p.m.

Claus Parades.

Sometimes, midweek, their ranks would be miserably depleted, and it was not uncommon for the Pipe Major, who was a High School principal and had plenty of free time on his hands, to lead the parade resplendent in kilt and cockade, white spats gleaming over picturesque Argyle stockings, followed faithfully by a single pair of pipers, both of whom were old and valued customers of the Unemployment Insurance Commission and were, therefore, ready, able and willing to appear at a moment's notice, and who would gallantly strive to make up for the deficiency of the rest of the gang by excreting sufficient racket to compensate for the entire mob.

There was one memorable occasion, in the midst of the Santa Claus Parade early in November, when the Pipe Major, twirling his long pole and grinning from side to side like a grandmother at a christening, flicked the pole a trifle too boisterously into the ozone with a magnificent gesture, but somehow failed to retrieve it on the downward plunge.

The knobbly end caught Santa smartly behind the left ear, causing him to vacate the sleigh drawn by two cardboard reindeer and seek solace from the local druggist through the services of his First Aid Kit. The damage was nominal, but the cardboard reindeer, painstakingly and lovingly fashioned by members of the local Lions Club, were compelled to complete the journey to the North Pole alone and unattended, while Santa himself repaired to the Legion Hall for the purpose of obtaining further medicinal ministrations.

There was also the time when, by some regrettable display of over-indulgence, one of the two faithful followers had to be ex-communicated when he became rather polluted after a particularly thirsty parade in a neighbouring town to commemorate the Official Opening of a new Liquor Store: on the way home in a chartered bus he polluted his new, expensive uniform rather unwisely, as well as causing a considerable mischief to the blue and beige upholstery of the bus.

As luck would have it one member of the Pipe Band was also the proprietor of the local dry cleaning establishment, and he took care of the uniform after a bit of a struggle, while the local Fire Chief thoughtfully loaned the services of four firemen and an eight inch hose to pacify the irate owner of the chartered blue and beige bus.

But I began to tell you about the time I had carelessly committed myself to be present on that Remembrance Day Parade.

My home at that time was in direct line of fire for the Pipe Band as it navigated, never too steadily, from the Legion Hall to the marshalling point in the lumber yard close by and, it being a Sunday morning, I was enjoying the co-operation of my lovely wife in the sanctity of our front bedroom, the one overlooking the street and therefore most vulnerable to the impending clamour.

But I should explain to you that this was something of a rare experience, as my wife frequently enjoyed a timely headache, was often too pooped to participate and was always conscious of the children being awake at all hours of the night, the morning, midday or early afternoon, whenever the occasion happened to be, and even when they were at school.

But particularly on a Sunday morning. On this occasion, however, the affair was going like clockwork, and in the novelty of the moment I had quite naturally overlooked my commitment to the Remembrance Day parade.

Suddenly the serenity of the unfamiliar scene was pulverized by the strident cacophony of a wailing banshee like a chorus of constipated cats at a concert, as the Pipe Band came a-swinging around that corner, full of joy and moonshine, in full regalia, kilts a-swirling, scattering the Bluebells of Scotland indiscriminately in all directions.

The thing was, of course, that their tempo was not in tune with mine! To add to the utter confusion they arbitrarily shifted, without warning, to a scratch tattoo on a tiny drum, which had practically no tempo at all.

I mean to say, I've heard of the rhythm system, but this was ridiculous!

And just to make matters worse, as they swung past the window, having completely obliterated the obligato, as you might say, they really excelled themselves. They broke out once again into a bewailing "Oh Where, Oh Where, has my Bonnie Lassie Gone!"

And I was left there wondering the same.

But after all it's an ill wind that blows nobody any good, and I did manage to miss the parade.

I was just thankful they'd never learned to play the TIGER RAG!

EDUCATION

S.S.F. has drilling

Responding to the increasing demand throughout Canadian industry for skilled, experienced drillers, Sir Sandford Fleming College's Frost Campus in Lindsay has developed a series of short, practical on-site courses in blasthole, exploration, geotechnical, and water well drilling.

Designed to encourage educational institutions and contracting firms to provide practical, hands-on training to their students and personnel, the new one week courses will allow participants to experience first hand the actual conditions found at major drilling sites.

"We have all the necessary equipment on campus to provide useful and flexible custom-designed one week drilling courses", Frost Campus Resources Drilling Co-ordinator Ron Morgan says. "These courses will allow firms and institutions to offer a practical introduction to drilling without the potential inconveniences that may be incurred through long-term training".

Among the equipment used by students are the Ingersoll Rand, Joy, and Gardner Denver 600 CFM compressors and air trac drills for the blasthole drilling course, the Longyear 24 and BBS-2 drills for exploration drilling, the Mobile Drill B-40 in the geotechnical drilling course and the Cable Tool-Bucyrus Erie Number 20.R drill in the water well program.

Each of the four courses will emphasize drilling safety and maintenance, and will also examine a number of areas including the types of bits used in drilling, sharpening, the various drilling methods, and rock and soil testing.

Most of the drilling exercises will be conducted at the College's Frost Campus or at the Standard Aggregates' quarry near Brechin, Ont.

The Sir Sandford Fleming Resources Drilling program also operates a two-year post secondary drilling and blasting program and a 13-week Canada Manpower sponsored personnel upgrading program in drilling and blasting.

GARDENING

Evergreens need fall watering

Evergreens are unusually thirsty this autumn if they haven't received special watering the last few months. A drought is causing many evergreens in southern Ontario to turn brown and to lose needles near the tree trunks.

In the normal regeneration process, evergreens lose three-year-old needles in the autumn. But this year, an excessive number are falling earlier than usual. Although October rains are providing some relief, the amount of moisture reaching the roots is minimal because the ground has been dry for so long. Many concerned home gardeners have contacted the pest diagnostic and advisory clinic at the University of Guelph to find out how to prevent further damage.

Rick Wukasz, diagnostician, advised thorough watering of young and newly-planted trees. They are under stress competing for available water, especially if they are in a new plantation. Older trees should receive a drink as well because they are susceptible to disease and insect attack if weakened.

"This October, place mulch such as wood chips or raked leaves at the base of evergreens", says Mr. Wukasz. "these materials will allow moisture to penetrate and will help insulate the roots at the same time."

Adequate water in the fall helps transport food to the tree roots for winter storage. Insulation prevents complete freezing of the roots that supply water and nutrients for some basic activity during winter.

Extra care this fall can also prevent damage next spring when warm dry winds activate the evergreens and cause them to use extra water. A water reserve built up in the fall prevents drying of the outer foliage.

Information about pest and disease control can be obtained from the pest diagnostic and advisory clinic which is funded by the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food. Write Room B14, Graham Hall, Department of Environmental Biology, University of Guelph, Guelph, Ontario N1G 2W1.

IN BRIEF:

highlights from this week's front page stories

NORWOOD THE REGISTER

In NORWOOD this week the most interesting news isn't. Our reporter, looking for democracy in action, attended the P.U.C. meeting there to hear the discussion on how the installation of water meters was to be implemented. She was apparently stonewalled as the meeting went only fifteen minutes. The members then sat around with their coats for almost an hour before she left. That's what we like, open and above board decision making.

On a more positive note, the Norwood Fire Department celebrated the receiving of their new emergency vehicle from the Norwood Lions with an open house. There were speakers, plaque unveilings and a general good time.

Also in Norwood 16 students graduated at the N.D.H.S. ceremonies. Included were three Ontario scholarship winners.

MARMORA THE HERALD

In Marmora this week we have a feature on logging on Beaver Creek at the turn of the century. Something worth looking at for people who have an interest in the area's history.

An interesting question of road ownership is developing north of Crowe Lake. An access road on private land has been closed and a cottager affected feels the owner has no right to block the road. A new provincial statute prohibits people from deliberately restricting an established access route across private land.

And Marmora and Lake Townships have decided to go to equalized assessment in hopes of spreading the impending heavier tax burden more equitably. It's expected that many undervalued properties will be brought up to par, taking some of the weight off the properties that are now fully assessed.

Marmora's Children's Nursery Centre will be holding a Christmas Mall again this year. Last year's successful event has led the CNC to expand to a total of 35 vendors. The Mall will be in the Lions' Centre from 11 to 7 Saturday, November 24.

And the head lice question drags on. School board and health board administrators promise it will be brought up at their next meeting, but won't predict any action beyond that.

HAUELOCK THE CITIZEN

Havelock Legion held a successful Remembrance Day dinner last Saturday evening with over 100 persons attending. Present were five of Havelock's six World War I veterans, 2 Silver Cross mothers and a World War I nurse. Guest speaker was Duke Hills of Cobourg, District Sports Officer.

A figure skating demonstration by Mike Evans of Peterborough and five figure skating students were present for the benefit of the Havelock Club last Saturday afternoon. About 50 persons turned out to pick up some pointers on the art.

Havelock Old Timers are off to a great start this year with twice the number of players they had last year which was their first season. Games planned for the immediate future are matches with Campbellford Nov. 9 and Bancroft Nov. 13.

Local resident Anne Kriedemann stars in a production of Mame which opens this Friday night in Peterborough. Presented by the St. James Players, the musical follows the original Broadway script. Mrs. Kriedemann plays the part of Madame Branslowski, Russian beauty operator.

Christmas break. One of the requirements of getting the position is that the student must have an eighty percent average or higher and Leigh expects to be able to maintain that average with the special tutoring that they will receive while working in Toronto.

Halloween in Madoc saw the streets full of many little ghosts and goblins, all weighed down with their bags of goodies. The town appeared to escape much of the vandalism that appears to be a part of Halloween, although there were many rotten eggs and some paint on the streets of Madoc.

Madoc's Chapter of the Bombay Bicycle Club made several of the surrounding daily newspapers this week. It is now being called the hardest club in Canada to join and, it is said to be so selective that most people can't even find a member. The Review, however, did manage to get an interview.

HASTINGS THE STAR

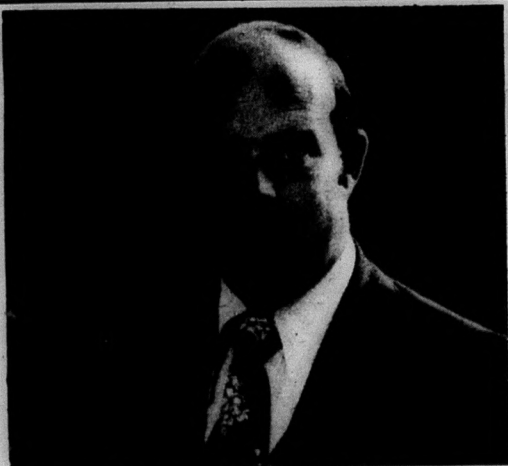

Hastings was very busy last week, especially on Wednesday night when the Hastings Fire Department was called out 11 times to put out small Hallowe'en fires. But despite the rowdiness Hastings Chief of Police felt it had eased off this year and is gradually getting better.

The Lam family from Vietnam arrived on Wednesday afternoon after being picked up at Toronto International Airport. Sponsored by Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, the four family members did not hesitate to join in on Hallowe'en by giving out candies at the door. Thuoe Lam was, however, grateful it only happens once a year.

The digging for the foundation of the new mini shopping complex in downtown Hastings began last week. Mr. Mahoney, owner, says the plans have now been modified changing the structure from a two-storey to a one-storey in order to cut back on costs. Most of the store space has now been rented but the Star was unable to determine their names.

Mrs. Jane Jones, Head Librarian of the Hastings Public Library, stepped down from her post after 18 years. Mrs. Jones was the first librarian of the newly-formed library back in 1961. Mrs. Lynn Preston has now taken Jane's place but an assistant librarian has not yet been selected.

The Hastings and District Ambulance service is looking around for more support these days. Tom Gale is slowly losing confidence in his belief that the area really wants an ambulance. Presently there are 15 volunteers but ideally at least 28 are needed.

I'LL EAT THIS AD

It is a fact. If I can't make you a better deal on a new Pontiac or Buick or lightweight G.M.C. Truck - better than any dealer in town or in the country, I will eat this ad.

That's how confident I am about what I have to offer. And keep in mind I have a very poor digestive system. So don't count on me eating very many ads and do count on a better price, better selection and better service.

Count on it

MADOC THE REVIEW

Two new stores opened in Madoc this week and their addition has got many people talking about the future of the village. Both stores are national chain stores with reputations for good service and excellent products. Terry and Eileen Pigden are the owner-managers of the new Radio Shack store while John Holgate is the owner-manager of the new Dixie Lee Chicken and Sea Food store. Both stores are welcome additions to the village and are bound to enhance our future.

Leigh Bates, a grade eight student from Madoc Public School, will soon be representing Madoc in Queen's Park as one of twenty-two pages that will be employed from November 19 to the

The hand that always helped me, Now lies in death's cold chill. Nothing can ever take away The love a heart holds dear. Fond memories linger every day. Remembrance keeps him near. A faithful husband, one of the best, May God grant him eternal rest. Lovingly remembered by wife Hazel & family. 11 YOU MANS, Frank - In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, who passed away November 11, 1977. His smiling way and pleasant face are a pleasure to recall. He had a kindly word for each. And died beloved by all. Some day we hope to meet him. Some day, we know not when, To clasp his hand in the better land, Never to part again. Lovingly remembered by David and Valerie, and grandsons Timmy & Paul. 11 TENNYSON, Gilbert - Entered into his Heavenly Home Oct. 30, 1967. CATERER, Laura - Entered peacefully into her Heavenly Home Nov. 3, 1976. There is a family who misses you both. And finds the time long since you went. We think of you both daily and hourly. And try to be brave and content. As we loved you both, so we miss you. In our memory you are near. A father and grandfather and a grandmother and great grandma. Too dearly loved to be forgotten, by Jim, Shirley, Laura, Douglas, Debra, Barbara and Willy Tennyson, Dunnville, Ontario. 11 CATERER, Laura - In loving memory of my mother, Laura, who passed away Nov. 3, 1976. In my heart your memory lingers. Always tender, fond and true. There is not a day dear mother I do not think of you. Missed by your son Ray & wife Olive. 11 HINDS, George - In loving memory of my husband George, who passed away one year ago on November 9. We could not say a last farewell. We could not say Good-bye. You were gone before I knew it. And only God knows why. Ever remembered, ever missed by Maggie. 11 BLACKBURN, Gerald (Gerry) - In memory of my nephew who passed away one year ago, November 11, 1978. Rememberance Day. He fought a fight, At last he won. Eternal rest. Always remembered by George & Pauline Brooks. 11	THE Ivanhoe Astros softball team wishes to thank all those who supported our Halloween dance. Special thanks to Val Bahr for her gifts of stoneware; to Hunt-Ingdon Twp. Youth Recreation Committee; the Beulah Cheese Co-op and Reeves' General Store for their generous gifts. 5 WE would like to take this opportunity to say thank you to our family, relatives and friends, for all the gifts, cards and flowers we received on our 50th Anniversary. Tom and Hazel McCann. 5 I wish to say a sincere Thankyou to all who sent me cards, flowers & visits while I was a patient in Belleville General Hospital and since returning home. Reta Pitts. 5 I wish to thank my family, friends and relatives for their visits, cards & phone calls, while I was a patient in Belleville General Hospital. NATURAL HISTORY LEOPARD

PANTHERA PARDUS III-14

Powerful and agile, the leopard is a deadly and efficient hunter. It stalks its prey, creeps to within a few meters, then leaps or dashes at the victim, which is dispatched by a bite in the neck or smothered by a throat bite. In east Africa the carcass is frequently brought up into a tree to protect it from scavengers. Their most common prey are hoofed animals, but

They have a penchant for dogs and monkeys as well. The well-known "black panther", once thought to be a different species, is actually just a dark form of the leopard.

BY SUSAN LEONHARDT

I heard about an old grist mill in Westwood still being used, so I drove out one day to see it.

Westwood is only a little hamlet just eight miles west of Hastings and it radiates a special sort of atmosphere as you drive through. It could be its older homes, or its surrounding fields laying ever so peacefully, or just its size alone which makes it rather unusual.

I drove through the hamlet that day, looking for a grist mill. The Ouse River slowly passed by underneath and as I began to climb up a hill, I knew I had missed it.

Back down again and over the Ouse...still not quite sure.

Ah, there is an old wooden building, it looks kind of abandoned but a light is on inside. I better go in and ask if they know where it is.

Walking up the wooden steps, stuffed bags lay stacked, resting on the outside wall, waiting. Strange, I thought.

Through the front door, open-wide and inviting, I smelled the air and I knew it had to be it.

A man looks through the office window, curiously. He then smiles and greets me and I know it is Bill Quinlon.

Bill operates this ancient mill single-handedly. He grinds the grain, bags it and sells it all year round to the people of Westwood and neighbouring communities.

The mill itself still stands intact as its original structure and it is 133 years old, quite a remarkable feat. It had, although, come close to being destroyed by fire forty years ago.

Bill remembers it this way. It was about mid-winter, around lunchtime when Bill, who was not working at the mill back then, spotted sparks coming from the chimney landing on the roof. Without having a fire department in those days, Bill briskly got help and many pails of water. They were successful.

Two years before the grist mill was built, Henry Fowlds constructed a sawmill on the west bank of the Ouse. His son, James, described it this way in a letter written in 1844: "This summer I came home from Peterborough to assist in building a sawmill on the lot my father purchased last year with a fine creek running through. The land is of good quality and in the heart of a good settlement about three miles from where we are living now". (Obtained from Jean Graham's 'Ashpodel, A Tale of a Township') built an oatmeal mill on the east bank and a store with living quarters above.

"In 1846 they built a gristmill and had it in operation by the next year. The top floor was added to the plan to provide a drill hall, and Captain Wigmore trained the local militia there. The mill had a roughcast finish which was not replaced until 1926 ...

At Westwood, Henry was now able to cut his own lumber, provision his lumbering crews and grind the grain necessary to feed the large number of horses required in his enterprise." (From Ashpodel, A Tale of a Township)

After passing through a number of hands in the years after, Irwin Russell became owner of the grist mill until 1964. His two sons were to look after this particular mill and one in Hastings, but as

Bill recalls, "the boys didn't take an interest in it".

On October 16, 1964 the Peterborough District Farmers' Co-op took over and still owns it to this day.

The sawmill no longer stands and the dam which once drove the wheels at both mills only remains to control water level during the spring thaw.

And there did not seem to be enough water flowing when the grist mill went to electricity 35 years ago. Bill attributes the decline in water supply to the constant cutting down of trees over the years, which had once been able to retain the moisture.

Now the mill has electric light bulbs with an electric grinder but it still remains a very simple, rustic operation.

The ease with which one can run the mill alone is astounding. The grains are dropped into a shaft from outside and are carried up an elevator shaft to bins on the upper level.

Then Bill moves a handle to allow any grain of his choice to fall into a scale where it is weighed and transported to the grinder. The grinder is amazingly small, taking up only a corner of the mill and standing a few feet high.

From there the grains pass through an elevator and fall into a mixer where the various grains are mixed. One finished product is called 'mixed chop' consisting of barley, oats and corn.

Farmers bring their grains in throughout the winter to always assure a fresh batch for their livestock. Bill says the food loses its value if it is ground and left standing. And besides, he would not be able to handle it if it all came in at harvest time.

Bill loves the work, and especially during the cold of the winter. Only the office is heated, the rest is left open to winter whims. "I'd rather work in the cold rooms than sweat in the summer" he explains.

And Bill does not like farming. He has operated the mill now for thirty years and is still going strong. He was born in a house on the road to Warsaw north of Highway 7 and attended SS1 Duoro Public School, a one-room schoolhouse.

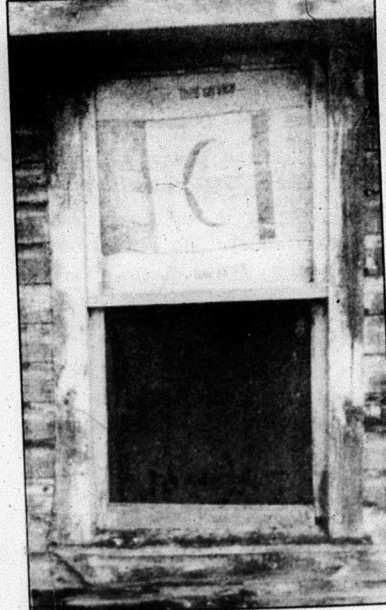

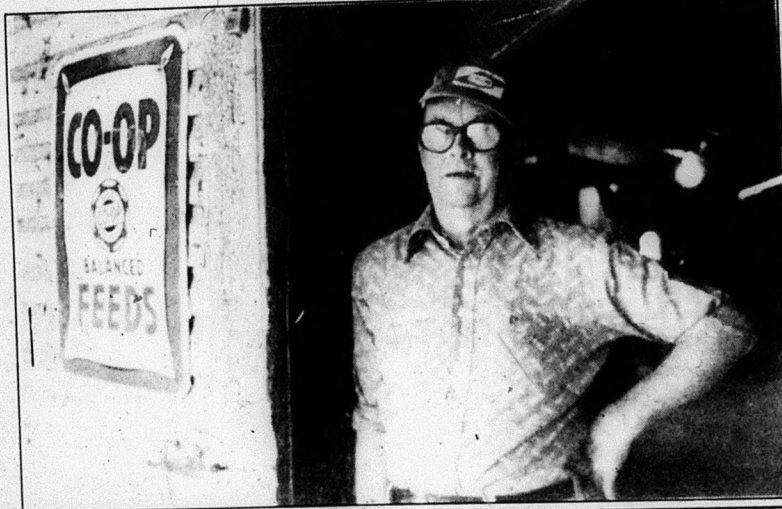

After working on his parents' farm for a few years, Bill went to Brockville to work on construction. But he came back and took over at the "good little mill" in Westwood, as he describes it.

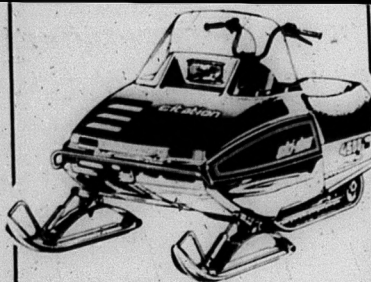

He fears for these mills now, with farmers expanding their facilities and getting their own grinders. "Farmers are going in a big way these days and its killing the like of these little mills" he says.

Nevertheless, for the time being, the mill still serves a purpose in the area. Other products like salt and dry molasses are shipped in from other areas to provide a wide range of products for livestock consumption.

Prices are set up by the Co-op, and they tend to do a lot of fluctuating. An increase three weeks ago has Bill a little bit concerned but he feels they will go down again. "If they don't anybody feeding is doing it just for the fun of it".

So stands the grist mill in Westwood. In the future it may be destined to becoming a treasured museum for people to observe and admire, but up until that time, it is serving the region by providing one of the earliest necessities of life which made

ONE FOOT IN THE FURROW

BY BOB TROTTER

Rene Levesque may be an ogre in the eyes of many people outside Quebec. He may also be a savior of French-Canada. Signs of discontent are appearing in his cabinet and there are people who predict that he will lose his long-awaited referendum. Some of the legislation passed in Quebec would not be considered democratic in other parts of Canada.

However, his government has passed a bill on land use that is one of the toughest in Canada and could be a model for the Ontario legislature. It is important legislation if Canadians want to continue to eat in the generations to come.

Land is like petroleum: it is a non-renewable resource. When the best land in the country is lost to urban sprawl, power corridors, recreation, paved plazas and super highways, that land cannot be reclaimed. It is gone forever.

A new law freezing development of most Quebec farmland and dramatically restricting urban sprawl is being hailed by most farmers in that province as the best thing the Parti Quebecois has done since coming into power.

The law sets aside some four million acres of land in the Ottawa and St. Lawrence river valleys and prohibits nonagricultural uses unless special permission is obtained from a commission -- a land use commission -- created to enforce the legislation.

Dave Barrett, the former premier of British Columbia whose government brought in Canada's first agricultural zoning law, has praised the toughness of the Quebec law.

The legislation was not passed without a fight, mind you. The Union des Producteurs Agricoles fought to beat hell to get the law passed. This organization, as I understand it, has 80 per cent of the 48,000 farmers in Quebec as members. Those members were frightened that the demand for rural land through speculators would soon drive the price of farmland so high that farmers would sell out in droves rather than continue to try to make a living on the land.

The Quebec real estate association fought against the bill. Cutting off the possibility of suburban expansion, they said, has already made city land more expensive, up by 20 per cent. This same escalation has been a fight farmers have been living with for the last 20 years.

The union of Quebec municipalities fears the law will heighten land speculation in urban areas. Doesn't this impossibility of sub-dividing for residential use translate legislation needed

into a monopolization of land? they ask.

Maybe it does. If so, it's worth it. Good farmland in Canada keeps dwindling. If a monopoly is needed to preserve it, then so be it.

At least this province has shown some leadership and foresight in preserving farmland. The ideas have been etched into legislation.

When, then, is Ontario going to enact similar laws?

At this time, about the only thing this province has done in a weak, milksop effort to placate those who would preserve land is an innocuous piece of paper known as Food Land Guidelines. And that's all they are, just guidelines. No legislation to give some teeth to those who get sick to the stomach when thousands of acres of the best farmland in the country disappears every year to the developers' hammer.

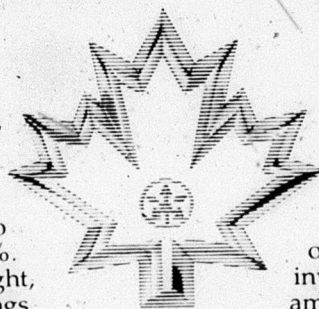

Anyone over 40 in this country is well aware of how huge tracts of land have disappeared into urban sprawl. It cannot go on forever. Perhaps there is enough land left to fill the bellies of Canadians. But the rate of growth does not diminish and more and more acres are being engulfed.

How long can Ontario people wait for the province to take definite steps, legislative steps, to preserve farmland?

INCREASED RATE OF RETURN

The rate of interest on the new Series of Canada Savings Bonds has been increased to 11% for the first year and 10 1/2% for each of the remaining 6 years. The new average annual yield to maturity on the Bonds is 10.59%. Everyone who has already bought, or who buys new Canada Savings Bonds will get these higher rates, even though the bond certificates have the old rate printed on them.

With the new rates a $100 Compound Interest Bond will grow to $202.37 at maturity in just 7 years.

EASY TO BUY

New Canada Savings Bonds are on sale now wherever you bank or invest. You can buy them in various amounts up to a total purchase limit of $25,000. Buy yours today!

SAFE, SECURE AND SIMPLE TO CASH

New Canada Savings Bonds are a safe, secure investment that earns you good interest year after year. They're backed by all the resources of Canada. And they're easy to cash when there's a need.

A CHOICE OF BONDS

Canada Savings Bonds also offer you a great choice. There's a Regular Interest Bond which pays interest each November 1st at the new, higher rates. And a Compound Interest Bond that reinvests your interest automatically, earning interest on interest.

RETURN ON PAST SERIES INCREASED

The rate of return on all outstanding Series of Canada Savings Bonds has been increased to 11% for the year beginning November 1, 1979 and to 10 1/2% for each remaining year until the bonds mature. For Series dated before November 1, 1977 the increased return will be paid through an increase in the value of the cash bonus payable on the maturity date of the bonds. For the last two Series the higher rates will be payable for each remaining year until the bonds mature. Complete details are available where you bank or invest.

Caring for bulbs

Caring for bulbs is a pleasant gardening task in autumn. "Annual bulbs must be stored for the winter while tulip and daffodil bulbs can be planted for indoor winter enjoyment", says John Hughes, horticulturist, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

"First, it's important to treat gladioli, dahlia, and canna bulbs properly now so they will grow next year," says Mr. Hughes. "Home gardeners probably leave some soil attached to the roots of dahlias and cannas. Make sure these roots are stored in boxes or bushel hampers in cool conditions to prevent disease and rot."

After they are cleaned and dried, gladioli bulbs should be dusted with sevin or malathion to control thrips -- small insects that suck plant juices during the growing season. These bulbs are best stored at 5 to 10 degrees C (42 to 45 Degrees F). The basement or fruit cellar is ideal for winter storage of annual bulbs.

Other bulbs -- tulips and daffodils -- are now available at local gardening centers for planting and forcing into bloom. Mr. Hughes suggests planting half a dozen of your favorite variety in a flower pot, about 20 centimetres (8 in.) wide.

To begin, moisten sterilized potting soil thoroughly, and place the pot in the basement for three weeks. When roots appear, place the potted bulbs outdoors under a heavy straw or hay mulch for 10 to 12 weeks. In the new year, bring the pot indoors where warmer temperatures will encourage flowering in two to three weeks.

"Enjoy the burst of spring in your living room then remove the dying blooms, and water the remaining foliage", says Mr. Hughes. "Later in the spring, transplant these bulbs and their foliage to a permanent outdoor location where they can bloom again in two or three years."

ENVIRONMENT

Pitch-In Day

Thousands of Ontario residents will pitch in early next summer on a one-day environmental blitz to beautify Ontario's back-country and byways.

Volunteer pitch-in squads from service clubs, schools and other citizen groups will undertake local environmental projects, including clean-up blitzes to clear litter, refuse and junk from streams, rivers and lakeshores, rural backroads and byways, trails, picnic areas, campsites and other off-the-beaten-path recreation areas which lack regular collection services.

Called "Pitch-In Day", the litter blitz will be held Saturday, June 7, 1980, and is being organized by the 20,000-member strong Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters (OFAH) with the support of the Ministry of the Environment.

Promotion for the clean up campaign will include a major advertising campaign provided by Environment Ontario to be staged in early spring.

Environment Minister Dr. Harry C. Parrott congratulated the OFAH and president Harvey Goldsmith for their initiative in a joint announcement today.

"This concept takes our 'Keep Ontario Beautiful' theme in a new and needed direction for the '80s" said Dr. Parrott. "While we have done a good job of keeping our cities, highways and tourist attractions relatively litter-free, there are areas which lack regular collection services which need periodic clean-up and the pitch in project will assist here."

As I write this, snow is dusting across the meadow and the last fluttering remnants of leaves are hanging faded and forlorn. Once again, the time has come to dust off the bird feeder, and to help our feathered friends through the winter.

The enormous numbers of bird feeders shows a broad interest in wildlife among North Americans. A recent report by the U.S. Forest Service concluded that between 20 per cent and 25 per cent of all Americans regularly feed birds. With each feeder consuming an average of 60 pounds of birdseed a year, those citizens spent a staggering $170 million on birdseed alone in 1974! Small wonder that chickadees can grow fat and saucy even in the depths of winter.

The popularity of bird-feeding has created a wide variety of readily available commercial feeders, or you can make your own tray or feeder. A simple tray can work well, but location is important. While feeders in the open will attract birds, a nearby shrub or conifer, with dense escape cover from predators, is more successful and safer for your birds.

Many excellent birdseed mixtures are also available. Sunflower seeds are a perennial favourite, and will attract woodpeckers, jays, chickadees, nuthatches and finches. Smaller, nutritious seeds and cracked corn are also good, especially if mixed with suet or fat for high energy.

Some foods deserve caution, however. Writing in Nature Canada, John Dennis warns us against one in particular—ordinary peanut butter. Apparently a number of small birds, mostly chickadees, have been found with their gullets so clogged with peanut butter that they had choked to death. This danger can be overcome by adding melted suet and stirring in a mixture of cornmeal and other ingredients to make a safe nutritious mixture.

Dessicated coconut and dry rolled oats present another hazard. Once inside a bird's crop or stomach, the swelling of these dried foods can cause a rupture of the digestive system, and eventually death. However, these effects are likely to occur only when large quantities of dried foods are fed by themselves.

These minor risks shouldn't discourage you from feeding birds. A bird feeder can provide you with endless entertainment and enjoyment, as well as giving you a close-up opportunity to learn your winter birds. Both you and the birds will benefit!

Arsenic causes furor in Moira River watershed

Madoc Village Council will probably be asking the Ministry of the Environment to clean up the arsenic in the Moira River system, within two years, but there is surprising opposition to the idea from Deloro Reeve Doug Lynch.

The action comes as a result of reports revealed earlier this week that forced Ministry of Environment officials to admit that arsenic concentrations throughout the system were above safe levels.

The reports, quoted widely in Belleville, Kingston and Toronto papers and throughout the media have brought a long simmering problem to boil, and rekindled suspicions of the health dangers involved with long term exposure to arsenic. Among this week's actions was a challenge from the provincial N.D.P. to the Ontario government to have the long term health dangers of arsenic investigated.

Madoc Village Councillor Ian Connerty said that he felt that if the government would deal with a potential, short term threat to life and health such as the situation in Mississauga this past weekend, that the government should be prepared to deal quickly with a "known health risk. What we're saying essentially is that the government has admitted, in the press, that the arsenic in the system is above safe levels. Now we're asking that they also say, publicly, that they're willing to clear up the problem they say is there.

However Mr. Lynch said he felt that local municipalities shouldn't interfere in the matter. "The Ministry is looking after it. We have got to leave it in their hands," he said, after admitting that he had reservations about the method in which the ministry had dealt with the matter.

Mr. Lynch expressed the view that the matter shouldn't be stirred up because it would adversely affect tourism in the area. "I think that the least publicity we give to it the better," Mr. Lynch said. (Mr. Lynch was reluctant to allow the Herald to quote him at all on the subject. He originally said that we could use his comments as general information but couldn't attribute them to him. He later acquiesced.)

Mr. Lynch pointed to two resort operators that had, in recent years, complained about the pollution problem on Moira Lake. The net affect of those efforts, he felt, was that it harmed tourism and did little to clean up pollution. Any such move to bring more attention to the situation, Mr. Lynch said, would be "detrimental to the area".

Huntingdon Council concerned with dog problem

The regular meeting of Huntingdon Township Council was held at the Township Hall on November 6th, at 12:30 p.m., with Deputy Reeve Glenn Franks in the chair and Ted Pollock, Ross Twiddy and Agnes Thompson in attendance.

Huntingdon Council has been facing a major problem involving the loss of sheep to dogs and wolves. A large number of claims have been received by council in regards to the destruction of sheep by wolves and dogs and some of the sheep farmers in the area want to see something done to remedy the problem. They feel that the council is paying for the problem but not really doing anything to alleviate it.

Mr. Gary Reid attended the November 6th council meeting to discuss the problem with council. Mr. Reid was upset that he had lost two mature lambs to dogs, and, although he had shot one dog and captured two others, he was not sure that the problem was being solved by destroying the dogs. He confronted council with the argument that council was paying for the damage done by dogs that were allowed to run loose without dog tags but that the burden of recovering the damage was being borne by all the taxpayers in the township rather than the owners of the dogs who were doing the damage. He was also upset that the form used to evaluate his sheep was outdated as of September 15th, at which point the maximum compensation for animals killed by wolves, dogs, etc. had been increased from $100 to $200 and he felt that he had not received full compensation for his sheep. He felt that he not only lost the two mature lambs but that he was also being asked to take the loss of the two lambs that they would have produced this year.

Mr. Reid felt that he knew who the dogs belonged to and that the bill for his sheep should be transferred to that person so that they would be more responsible with any other dogs that they might own. Council sympathized with his problem but felt that proof of ownership of the dogs had to be clearly established before they could approach anyone with the bill. Because none of the dogs involved in the incident were wearing dog tags, they felt that ownership could not be clearly established and that it would do no good to approach an individual for restitution.

Council agreed with Mr. Reid that an adequate system for dealing with the problem had not yet been arrived at and that they were open to suggestions. Some members of council felt that the burden of proof had to be shouldered by those people whose livestock had been killed and that in many cases, these people knew who owned the dogs that killed their livestock, but that they would not present this.

Remembrance Day

November 11th is a day that we set aside to remember those men and women who died fighting for the freedom of our country. On that day, members of communities across Canada gather at cenotaphs in their communities and place wreaths adorned with poppies, the symbol of our remembrance, on those cenotaphs in honour of the many men who are buried in foreign soil. Those men and women made the supreme sacrifice so that those of us who came after could enjoy the peace and freedom that was so important to them.

In Madoc, Remembrance Day followed much the same format as that in hundreds of other communities. People, young and old alike, gathered at various churches to dedicate special services to these victims of war and then marched to the cenotaphs to place their wreaths and pray for the ones who have died. Many of those people remember the horrors of those wars and were also praying that the young people they were watching place wreaths, would never have to experience a similar fate.

That must be a large part of the remembrance ceremony. Yes, we want to remember those who made that sacrifice but we also want to remember so that we can try to prevent a similar circumstance from occurring again. Many of the men and women who died in those wars could not have been much older than some of the young people who were at the ceremonies

"Harm already done to tourism"

However, Mr. Connerty expressed the view that any harm done to tourism was already done and that forcing a public commitment from the provincial government to clean up the operation would be the only thing that could mollify the situation.

The damage is done. They've read about it in the Toronto papers. Now I think if the cottagers and the people that come back to Moira Lake read about the government making a commitment to clean up the lake, they'll be satisfied. But they'll only be satisfied if they think something's being done.

Mr. Connerty also expressed the view that Mr. Lynch's wishing not to disturb the situation when there were potential health risks was dangerous. "It seems irresponsible to be willing our risk our children's health in order to protect tourism."

However, Mr. Lynch questioned the validity of the studies. Reports were commissioned by Ontario Public Interest Research Group (OPIRG), a student funded operation. He referred to the group sarcastically as "people's watchdogs" and said that the charge that the arsenic pollution is a "time bomb" and other statements by the OPIRG co-ordinator, Paul McKay, when the reports were released in the media on Monday were "scare tactics". He questioned the accuracy of the report and said that dredging to clean up the mess, a suggestion of the report and one that Mr. Connerty sees as the solution to the arsenic deposits in Moira Lake, would not work. "Like the issue, it would only be stirred up more," he said.

Mr. Connerty suggested that further tests, including tests on area wells which have not yet been done, should be done, not by the Ministry of the Environment, but by a private environmental group, such as a university, a solution he said had been used in other situations.

Mr. Connerty said that the Ministry of the Environment had not proved trustworthy over this and other matters.

I've been told that the then Minister of the Environment, George Kerr, was up here five or six years ago and told the residents that their water was perfectly safe to drink. A couple of years ago, the Ministry of the Environment was saying that there is no danger from acid rain. They

Letters to the editor

Dear Sir:

Your recent article in the Madoc Review about our club "The Bombay Bicycle Club", was very distressing indeed to our members. At a special meeting held at the Madoc Hotel, and as recording secretary of the club, it is my task to straighten the records.

Firstly, "The Bombay Bicycle Club" is a very old and honourable club that was formed in Bombay, India, by the surviving members of the 1st Indian Bicycle Infantry Battalion that fought so well at the Kyber Pass. The club has flourished to an international organization with chapters in 43 countries.

We are, in Hastings County, a group drawn from all walks of life who are ardent riders and who, unlike most fraternal and social groups, guard our privacy and do not seek notoriety, and I suggest that the person that you interviewed was not a member of "The Bombay Bicycle Club" as we very carefully screen and select new members. Those whose youth was spent in pool rooms, bowling alleys and the air force are not welcome in our club. This type of individual is usually found on the corner reading those dirty girlie books. It is true that some of our older members do not participate in as many riding events, as they once did, but they have formed a very successful choral group that is in great demand at weddings and the better social events.

We are also very active in charitable causes and have for a number of years ran a very successful summer camp for unwed mothers.

I trust, Mr. Lees, that in future, you will print only true news releases from our club and that you will very soon, attend one of our meetings. You will be made most welcome in our lounge, however, as befits a gentleman at a select social event, we do demand that you be properly dressed and clean shaven.

Sincerely,
Tom Holt

Recording Secretary
The Bombay Bicycle Club

Race results

Dear Sir

The Ontario Cycling Association submits these race results as being the true results of the Bombay Bicycle Club Fall Classic. The Fall Classic was held on September 31, 1979, starting at Twiddy's Farm, racing to the four corners in Cooper and back to Ray's Ranch.

First; #1 CCM Exericycle. Second, #2 Jawa 250, Third; #3 Canadian Tire Tricycle. Fourth; #4 Lambretta Scooter. Fifth; #5 Supercycle Excalibur.

Did Not Finish:

#6 Got lost in Hazzard's Corners, #7 Visited the Chapman's in Cooper, #8 Elastic band holding on handlebars broke, #9 Thought the race was to Marmora.

Please print these results in the Madoc Review so that other cyclists might be tempted to join the Bombay Cycling Club. For membership applications see the Membership Chairman, often found at the Lulin's Lucky Dollar or at home.

information to council because the dog might belong to a neighbour. Council felt that without that kind of co-operation from area farmers, there was nothing they could do to improve the situation.

Several suggested remedies did come out of the meeting. It was felt that a holding kennel for dogs captured destroying livestock might force people to come and claim their dogs and thus establish ownership. In this way, before people could reclaim their dogs, they would have to pay for any damages done by those dogs.

Another suggestion was that the township could hire a dog catcher or at least hire someone with the authority to check into the problem and give them the authority to do something about it. Council was divided on this suggestion with some members feeling that they could not support a move that may cause problems for people whose dogs were normally well behaved and may be picked up by a dog catcher when it was allowed out for a short period of time.

Mr. Ed Colden was present at the meeting as a representative of the Ministry of Natural Resources and he felt that livestock owners had the authority to destroy any dogs that were on a farmer's property and that were not being controlled by the owner. This included any animals except deer, caribou and moose. The problem with this suggestion was that, by killing the dogs, you are destroying the proof and further action could not be taken. Mr. Reid informed council that there was talk of forming an association to do something about the problem.

Council reassessed any claims for livestock killed since September 15th, since the livestock value was present, and any claims that were thought to be unfair were adjusted in line with the new maximum rate.

Other Business

By-Law number 2022, being a By-Law to prohibit the obstruction of ditches upon highways and to regulate the installation of entranceways be given third reading and signed and sealed.

Council concurred with the resolutions from the Village of Tweed and the Township of West Carleton re appeals of the new equalization factor and that the above municipalities be notified that council did concur with them.

Council tabled a letter from the Madoc Village Clerk re payment for carrying out the Madoc and District Arena clerical work, with the matter to be discussed at a later date.

A letter from the Hastings County Board of Education was read to council. It expressed the desire of the School Board to change their installment payment on tax requisitions to quarterly. Council decided to have someone present at the meeting on November 15th, at 3:30 p.m. in the County Administration buildings.

A letter from the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Separate School Board was read to council re the new Separate School zones.

The following correspondence was read to council:

- (a) Ontario Good Roads Association - Proposal of names for recognition of long service.
- (b) R.O.M.A. - Annual conference announcements.
- (c) Moira River Conservation Authority - Federal - Provincial flood damage reduction program.

Centurions lose 37 - 20 to experienced Adam Scott squad

Friday, November 9th, was a cloudy, overcast day with the weatherman predicting that the weather would deteriorate as the day progressed. Rain and snow flurries were predicted for the late afternoon and evening. However, at 11:30 a.m., when the busses left Centre Hastings Secondary School to take the junior Centurion football team and their fans to Peterborough to compete in the COSSA championship, the skies were only threatening that bad weather.

The team and their fans arrived in Peterborough without incident and were soon in the dressing room. The atmosphere was subdued, the players dressed in quiet determination. Reporters and television staff were in and out of the dressing room making arrangements for the pre-game show and introductions. It was a complete turnaround from a normal game. This was for all the marbles and, as time went by, you could feel the tension building in the players. Coach Barry Pyear felt it.

As the players completed their last minute adjustments to their uniforms, Coach Pyear called for silence and addressed his players. "All of this T.V. stuff is O.K., but don't let it take your mind off the game. Remember, we are here to win COSSA." A few more words of encouragement and the team left the dressing room to go to the field.

As they crossed the field, you noticed a very big slope from the centre of the field to the sidelines and you could tell that the field would be slick in the centre, where freezing weather had prevented the field from drying out.

The team went through their calisthenics, which were partially interrupted by the arrival of the other team and a swelling cheer from the paragon home crowd. As they went to their bench prior to the game, an Adam Scott cheerleader was heard to say, "They're not that big." As the crowd built up and the start of the game was delayed, remarks kept floating from out of the crowd behind the Centurion bench about the superior Adam Scott team.

The game finally got under way with the Centurions receiving the ball. There was almost no runback and another roar went up from the crowd as a green tide inundated the Centurion ball carrier. The Centurion offense tried a running play through the line as their first offensive effort. The ball was fumbled and recovered by Adam Scott. Another roar.

The Centurion defense, noted for their toughness throughout the year, had difficulty containing a flashy Scott offense and were soon pushed back deep into their own end. Finally, the defense came up with that big effort and stopped the offense after their second down. The Adam Scott field goal team took the field and kicked the ball between the uprights for three points.

The Centurion offense took over the ball. A couple of plays through the line got them the necessary yardage for a first down. Suddenly, on an end sweep, Ted Bergeron broke into the clear with only one defender having a chance to bring him down. Ted raced the seventy yards to the endzone, unchallenged. The convert was good to give the Centurions the lead, 7-3.

Adam Scott could not move the ball on their next series and the Centurion offense again took over the ball. A steady march down field led to another three yard T.D. by Bergeron. The convert was good. The score, 14-3 Centurions. The crowd was quieter.

Adam Scott kept hammering away and finally scored as the first quarter ended. It was now 14-10, Centurions. Early in the second quarter, Adam Scott again marched down field and scored on a thirty-five yard end sweep that saw many Centurions miss tackles and get bowled over by the many Scott blockers. Adam Scott took the lead, 17-14. The crowd was jubilant as the weather began to worsen.

The Centurion offense took over the ball deep in their own end of the field. A pass rush forced a quick throw. The passer was tackled as he threw the ball, which ended up in a Scott defender's hands. He went into the endzone, unmolested. The convert was good, resulting in a 24-14 lead for Adam Scott.

The ball is exchanged several times. The Centurions are pushed deeper and deeper into their own end. Adam Scott scores again to end the half at 31-14. Scott Terrior is carried away on a stretcher. The injury appeared to be in his back or kidneys and he was in a great deal of pain as he was put on the stretcher. He was taken to the hospital where he was eventually given x-rays and released. The injury was diagnosed as a muscle spasm of the kidneys, and although serious, was not as serious as originally feared. Scott was home on Saturday and his mother spoke to us. "He's pretty sore right now and he won't be able to play hockey for awhile, but there won't be any permanent damage."

Ted Bergeron carries two tacklers over the goal line for the second Centurion major, but the momentum that the Centurions had going for them at this point could not be sustained and they were eventually beaten by the score of 37-20.

Adam Scott retired to their dressing room during the half-time intermission, but coach Pyear preferred to keep his team on the field. Immediately after the first half ended, snow flurries began to come down. Coacy Pyear had little to say to his team. The entire coaching staff went around to the individual players to make certain that they were not injured and keep them moving so that they would not get too cold. Coach Pyear could see that his team was having trouble adjusting to the results of the first half and the injury to Scott.

"We may not be able to beat these guys, but don't give up. All I ask from you is that you go out and show those guys that they are in a football game. The same thing happened to these guys last year after they were ahead 12-0 at the half. All we can do is our best."

As the second half started, the snow started coming down in earnest and the temperature was steadily dropping. The Centurions went on the field to prove that they could play with this tough Adam Scott team and, after several minutes of play, you could see that they were beginning to dominate the game. They put together several good series and were slowly forcing Adam Scott into their end. An excellent punt by Adam Scott sailed over the heads of the Centurion punt returners and forced them well back into their end. Adam Scott forced another break to score a touchdown and it looked like the second half would continue where the first half left off. The Centurion defense then went to work and Don Langevin intercepted a pro-pass and ran it into the endzone for a Centurion major. The convert was blocked, leaving the score at 37-20, as the Adam Scott team had failed to complete a two point conversion on their touchdown.

Neither team could sustain a drive with the result that Adam Scott won the game and the COSSA championship 37-20. As the Adam Scott team pointed out, they're number one for this season. Next year, the junior Centurions hope to meet Adam Scott again and, with the added experience gained from Friday's contest, the result could be different.

Barry Pyear and his staff could not hide the pride they had in their team in the locker room after the game. "I am really proud of the way you guys played in that second half. You didn't quit when it would have been very easy to do just that and you tied them on the scoreboard."

Realizing that some of these players would not be with the juniors next year, he said, "I know that the senior coaches are really anxious to get you on their team next year. For those guys who are playing junior next year, we have a good nucleus for a COSSA team next year and we'll be back and show them, then. You can bet that we are going to do some recruiting before next season starts."

Coach Pyear felt that his team did not have the depth of the Adam Scott team and was hoping that his recruiting program would remedy that problem. "We have nine starters, Jeff Rollins, Don Langevin, Bill Morton, Richard Neal, Ted Bergeron, Brian Reid, Andy Ringelman, Matt Hanley and Roger Hannah, coming back next year plus some of the guys who didn't start this year. That gives us a good, strong nucleus to build on and those ball players will be that much better next year."

It was a tough loss for this plucky but well disciplined Centurion team. They have every right to hold their heads high, as far as their desire and sportsmanship are concerned. They did get outscored on the scoreboard but they didn't resort to cheap shots or dirty football. Those of us who have been around this team throughout the year know that they have all the requirements of true champions and are a definite credit to the school. You lost a football game, but you are not losers.

Harry Dennis and Harry McGuire are pictured above holding the certificate of excellence presented to the Madoc branch of the Legion. It read, "This certificate is presented to Branch No. 363, Madoc, Ontario, as an appreciation by our District Commander, District Public Relations Office, for excellency in promoting public relations at branch level and the aims and principles of the Royal Canadian Legion" and was signed by the District Commander, Mr. Merrill Dunn.

Bannockburn sends out its best wishes to Terry and Eileen Pigden on the opening of their new store in Madoc. We hope you have many years of continued success.

Hallowe'en did bring some trouble to our community. It is a tragedy that some young fellow got such pleasure out of putting blue paint down the well of Jack Wilson. After being completely pumped out, the water is still not safe to drink. This news is sad because I felt that our boys knew better.

There is going to be a Regal Party held in my home on Wednesday at 1: p.m. Looking for some great Christmas gifts and cards? I'm sure we have it all here for your inspection. Everyone is welcome to come and have coffee with us.

Congratulations, Mrs. Jean Bully, on the birth of 5 new puppies. We hope they will give you many days of pleasure.

A special welcome home to Mr. Donald McEwen, who has arrived safely from Alberta. It appears he has arrived just in time to prepare his award winning husky dogs for the winter races.

There are a few new landmarks in Bannockburn. The homes of Mrs. Marg Ramsay and Mr. Jack Wilson have been completely re-sided with white aluminium. It looks lovely and sure brightens up the community. H.P. Auto Service also has a very bright, new sign lighting up the business. It amazes me how our town looks better all the time.

We hope the hunters enjoyed themselves while visiting this last week. We had the privilege of having Ron Orsatti and Mike Orsatti visit from Toronto. It's a good time to renew old acquaintances.

I'm afraid I've missed a very important event in the lives of Hans and Sue Tronic. The dedication service of their new daughter, Amanda, took place in the Bannockburn Pentecostal Church on Thanksgiving weekend. I was out of town that weekend but I heard Amanda looked absolutely beautiful in her long dress and hat. Many years of happiness to all of you.

Mrs. Eva Davidson attended the Convocation exercises at Queen's University, Kingston on Saturday Oct. 27th when her daughter Marilyn Mantle received her Bachelor of Arts Degree. After the ceremonies at Grant Hall, a dinner party was held in her honor at the "Sword" in Consequon.

on Sunday, and this must have been a horrible memory for the mothers, fathers and friends of those names that appear on the cenotaph. "They shall not grow old as we grow old", were some of the words expressed at Sunday's service and more than one tear was wrung from eyes that remember those young, lifeless bodies. Yes, we grow old and hopefully, with that age comes wisdom, the wisdom to prevent the repetition of history.

Eldorado

UCW

The pleasant, cosy home of Dora Palmer, on a cool rainy Thursday afternoon was the setting for the November 6th meeting of Eldorado Church Women. Fourteen members were present.

The theme being "Remembrance", President Mary McCann opened the meeting reading a poem about Victory.

Isobel Shaw prepared and conducted the service on Courage, using hymns, Faith of Our Fathers and Onward Christian Soldiers and Scripture Isaiah 35: 1-10. The meditation was on Christian Courage which can be attained through prayer and communion. She concluded with prayer.

The roll call was answered telling a recollection about World Wars I and II with varied information.

Several communications were read: 1. Congregational renewal and planning meeting in Trinity Church Madoc, Nov. 11

2. An invitation to Trinity Church Tea, Nov. 24.

3. Alcohol and Drug Concerns letter - discussion and motion to send a donation.

4. Invitation to a weekend Festival of Faith in Trenton for teenagers. We plan to send two.

It was decided to cater for a near-by Auction sale on November 17.

A report of the Rally held at Eldorado United Church, in October, was given by Winnifred Ketcheson and Minnie Moorecroft, the theme of the day being "Caring and Sharing".

The annual reports were given and installation of officers for 1980 was conducted by Mrs. Creaser. Mary McCann closed with prayers.

A good lunch was served by our hostess, Dora, assisted by Mary and we departed in a gentle rain.

don't have a very good record."
Mr. Lynch said that Mr. Connerty was "one of those people that like to get their names in the headlines," and said that "he better come prepared" to the county council meeting.

... "surprised at antipathy"

Mr. Connerty said that he was surprised at Mr. Lynch's antipathy to the move. He said that, although the support of county council would be preferable, even if Madoc Village was left alone in its demand. "I would be very surprised if a local council puts the provincial government on notice that it wants it to come and clean up a potential health risk, that it wouldn't do it."

However not everyone was as negative to the suggestion of more direct action as Mr. Lynch was.

Marmora and Lake Township Reeve Graham Bell who is the townships' representative to the Moira River Conservation authority, said "I don't think anyone would hesitate in any effort to have the matter cleaned up." (This comment was made without knowledge of Mr. Lynch's position and shouldn't be taken as reflecting on that.)

Mr. Bell said that he had been trying to investigate for some months what was happening vis-a-vis the cleanup operation at Deloro and had met with little satisfaction.

"I don't know why, whether they're afraid that it will scare someone or what, but the ministry is reluctant to tell local elected people what's going on," Mr. Bell said that he had been as far as talking to the minister with no success.

However Mr. Bell said that he didn't think it was a health hazard.

Another township councillor, Bob Empey, expressed the same sentiments. "I don't know why they want to keep it a big secret. Everyone has known there's been a big problem."

"people finally being made aware"

Huntington Deputy Reeve Glen Franks said he was "happy that people are finally being made aware of the problem" although he thought that the municipalities should work through the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Huntington Council passed a motion at its last meeting asking the MRCA to give them more information on arsenic pollution. Like the Marmora Township council, it has received no information back.

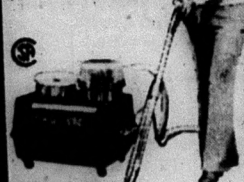

"I think that if the municipalities can have a united front on the authority, we'll get things done," Mr. Franks said he would also ensure that another letter was sent to Hastings-Peterborough M.P.P. Clark Rollins to ensure that the problem was brought up in the house.

Mr. Franks echoed other politicians' feelings that the matter should be made more public. "I feel that the authorities should monitor all the lakes and make the results known to the public."

Ryerson student to do photo essay on Madoc

A Ryerson student, Mark Stegel will be using Madoc as the subject of a photo essay and will be working around Madoc for various periods of time with the consent of the Madoc and District Chamber of Commerce. Mark's objective is to portray the things that make up the Village of Madoc to give an idea of what Madoc is all about and what makes it unique in this area. "When I am finished, I want the people in large cities like Toronto to have some idea what life in a small town like Madoc is all about."

Mark is in his third year of a four year program in Ryerson that will eventually see him graduate with a degree, Bachelor of Applied Arts, and the photo essay of Madoc is one of his projects that will count heavily towards his final mark for this year. Mark's instructor chose Madoc for him because Mark had no roots or prior knowledge of the town. His instructor had visited Madoc on several occasions and thought it would be an ideal town for a project such as this.

The project, as far as Mark is concerned, will consist of taking pictures of the village, its people, the events that those people attend and some of the history of the village. "I enjoy meeting and taking pictures of people and I want to do a good job on this project."

Mark made his first contact in the village through the Chamber of Commerce. A letter was sent out from Ryerson explaining the project to the Chamber and asking for any assistance that they could give Mark. President Bob Bancroft is asking the residents of the village and the surrounding area to give Mark any help that he may require and to make this project as easy for Mark as possible. Mark is taking the project very seriously because it does make up a large portion of his final mark and also because any expenses incurred on the project, such as travelling expenses, film and lodging, are all paid for right out of his own pocket.

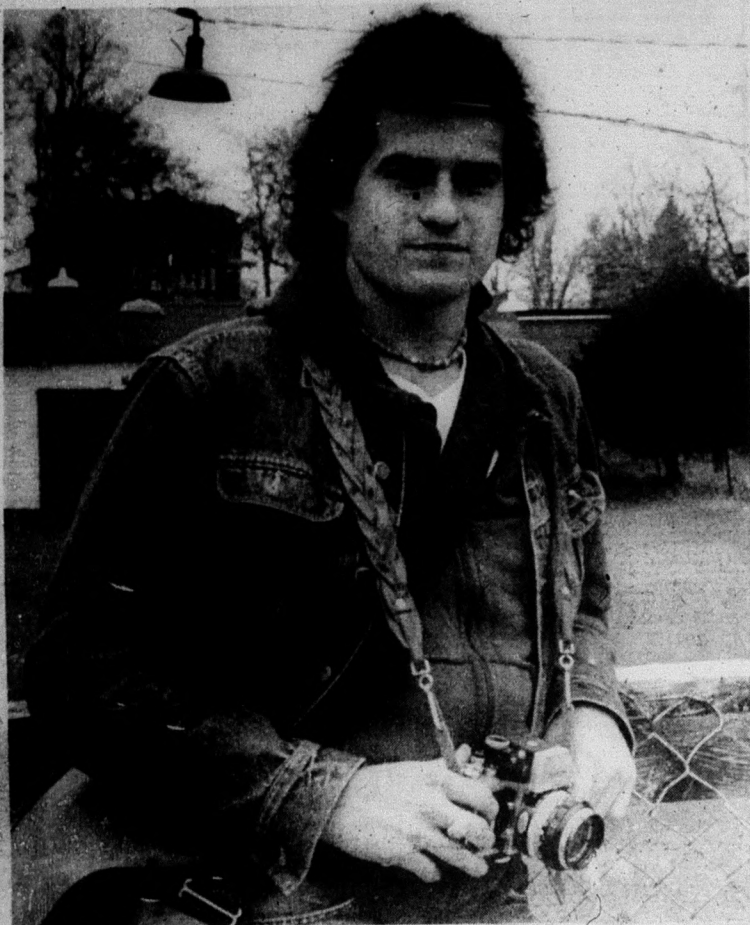

What will the end result of his project be? First, he will end up with a display of approximately thirty large prints that will be displayed in Madoc around the end of March and, if possible, Mark's instructor will be in Madoc for that display. Following that, the display will return to Toronto and will be displayed at Ryerson. "We are given no restrictions as far as the presentation of the project and we spend as much time on the project as we feel is necessary. Other people that I have talked to who have done something similar, spent two one week periods in the villages taking their pictures, but I hope to make at least five trips to Madoc to cover various events and meet the people."

Some of the events that Mark will be covering will include arm wrestling at the Madoc Hotel, the Santa Claus Parade and the Winter Carnival. Bob Bancroft will be his contact person in Madoc and he has offered to give Mark free accommodation at the hotel while he is here.

Mark was in Madoc this weekend to familiarize himself with Madoc and to get names of some of the people that he should contact for his project. He wants to meet, interview and photograph a good cross section of the people, events and buildings in the village and hopes to be able to arrange most of this through the Chamber of Commerce.

To keep abreast of what is happening in Madoc while he is working on the project, Mark will be receiving the Madoc Review and had already garnered some information from the newspaper. "I was in Madoc last weekend and picked up a copy of the newspaper. From it, I learned that many people in this area are interested in the history of the village and I hope to incorporate that and similar information in my photographs."

Mark feels that he can do a good job on this project and thinks that, because he is an outsider, he may show things about the village that those of us who are close to it may not appreciate or even notice. "What I want to stress is that I will need the co-operation of all of the people of Madoc and I want to produce a photo display that will not only please my instructor and myself, but that will also be pleasing to the people of Madoc." If you can help Mark in any way, he would appreciate it and it could have some very pleasant results for the Village of Madoc.

CYCLOCROSS

PARTICIPACTION TAKEN TO ITS LOGICAL EXTREME

On Sunday in Marmora we'll all be out on the streets, cheering for Don Hodgson, Ed Smolinski, Dave Phillips or maybe Ziegried Kock to win the Ontario Cyclocross Championships.

What?

What's this you say that's going to pull us all away from our T.V. football or Sunday afternoon nap (if you can tell the difference). What is it that's going to keep me from going home to visit my mother on Sunday afternoon?

Cyclocross. My Oxford Dictionary doesn't define it, but my friend Dave Viney does. He describes it roughly as the next best thing to suicide, a spectacle that would have drawn the Romans away from throwing Christians to the lions. Briefly it involves grown men on bicycles running and carrying their bikes, occasionally cycling through mud and water, over rocks and up 75 degree inclines. They choose November because it's nice and cold (December is for the national championships. January the internationals). They hope that it rains and then snows, perhaps a little sleet or hail. These people are so masochistic that many consider becoming politicians.

Dave Viney, who wasn't mentioned in the names at the beginning of this story because he thinks he's too out of shape to win, is nonetheless, the president of the Canadian Cyclocross Association and a resident of the Marmora area (actually he lives in Belmont Township and has his business in Marmora Township). He promotes Cyclocross as an exciting and challenging sport and, from the films he has shown us, it's obviously an entertaining spectacle.

He and about 30 other bears for punishment will be doing ten or eleven laps on the course you see below which, if you know Marmora, is mostly very punishing terrain (and that includes the parts on the roads). He expects that the ten lap race will be done in a hour and in that hour we should have some of the best and most novel spectating this side of the sled dog races (who said Marmora gets all the good things?)

David for all his seeming innocent enthusiasm about the sport, has an obvious ulterior motive in this whole business. As the only bicycle repairman in the area, he's looking for a lot of business. Doctors, high risk insurance salesmen and morticians are also watching the event carefully.

Race headquarters for the event is the Embers Restaurant where everyone can meet and talk to the riders before the race. The event gets underway at 2 o'clock and should end by 3 o'clock when awards will be given. Come out and see the fun.

THE ROUTE

The race starts and finishes on Forsythe St., but most of its course is shown at left. Once through the Madoc St. intersection, the race goes left through the empty lot near the Herald office, crosses Main St. and goes through Reginald St. and down the hydro right of way (a steep and rocky drop). Then the course goes along the river road and path (off as much as on) as far as the boat ramp. It doubles back slightly, comes up a steep sandy bank, crosses Main St., again through a lot (behind the Texaco Station), crosses McGill St. goes up yet another hill to Thomas St. Finally they go down hill on Thomas and McGill to the empty lot where the course starts over again. On the final lap they come through the Forsythe - Madoc intersection and finish on Forsythe.

WOODS, WATER AND WILDLIFE

BY RON REID

Are the public becoming too sensitive to the hazards of environmental contaminants? The flurry of controversy over the disposal of liquid industrial wastes, especially PCB's, raises the interesting dilemma of how to reduce the risks of these contaminants in a less-than-perfect world. PCB's, or polychlorinated biphenyls, are one of the most persistent chemicals created by industrial man. Widely used in electrical transformers and other equipment, they gradually escaped into the environment and spread through our waterways and even through the air, because they are so stable, they accumulated rapidly throughout the food chain, and reached hazardous levels in many species of fish, gulls and terns began to suffer deformities and reproductive failures linked to high levels of PCBs and concerns about human health effects were raised.

As a result, PCB's are being banned in Canada and existing uses phased out. But we are left with a very serious disposal problem of at least 60 to 70 thousand gallons of PCB-contaminated wastes sitting in storage around Ontario waiting for disposal. Right now, there are no legal means of getting rid of this hazardous material - its owners cannot bury it, burn it, or even ship it to the U.S.A. for disposal. Containers leak, spills occur, and the risk of illegal dumping increases dramatically as the storage time for PCB's drags on interminably.

Against this backdrop, the Ministry of Environment has proposed the destruction of these materials by high temperature burning in a Mississauga cement kiln. Previous test burns have shown destruction of PCB's to be either complete or very close to complete at these temperatures. But the citizens of Mississauga, and their local elected representatives, appear to have panicked at the mere thought of such disposal, opposing even further test burns by every method available.

Ironically, Mississauga seems prepared to accept the substantial risks of long-term storage of PCB's, but not the small unproven risks associated with its final destruction. The public fear of PCB's is so great that the rallying cry of communities around potential disposal sites appears to be a resounding "not-in-my-back-yard."

The Federation of Ontario Naturalists maintains that the interests of society at large must come ahead of such shortsightedness. The views of Mississauga should be heard, but all those concerned about environmental protection have a responsibility not to endlessly prolong debate while both PCB's and the risks associated with their storage accumulate even higher. At some point, hopefully soon, a decision on disposal must be taken, and those affected should have the grace to accept that decision with maturity and understanding.

EDUCATION

Trent scholarships

A $160,000 bequest to Trent University will be used to provide scholarships for students entering their first year or their honors (fourth) year at Trent.

The money is the residue of the estate of Charles W. Ewing, a Toronto consulting engineer, and came to Trent on the death earlier this year of his widow. The income from the bequest will be used to establish the Ewing Memorial Scholarships, whose value will range upward to $1000.

Mr. Ewing was born in Warkworth, the son of a pharmacist, and moved to Toronto in 1910 with his family. He graduated from the University of Toronto in 1923 as a chemical engineer and worked with the Ontario Research Foundation for several years before establishing his own company.

Mrs. Ewing said, after her husband's death in 1968, that she believed the bequest to Trent was made because of her husband's memories of his early years in the Peterborough region. His family had long been connected with the area: his grandfather, Charles Eldon Ewing, the first white child born in Victoria County (in Eldon Township), later became justice of the peace and a collector of customs in Cobourg.

THE PONY GIRL

an overnight success

BY JEANNETTE MOORE

There was a first ever event at the Norwood Fair this year that deserves more than a passing notice: A little 8-year-old girl named Rochelle Rutherford, driving her 5-year-old Shetland pinto pony and competing against adults, was the youngest person in the history of the fair to take first place in the driving class. She brought in another first for saddle class 46" and under, a second for best girl rider 14 years and under, a second in the halter class for Peterborough County residents 16 years and under and third in the pony race, as well as winning a special prize awarded when the judges were delighted by her appearance in the parade driving her pony cart. Her achievements were just as impressive, considering her age and experience, at the other area fairs throughout the season. Altogether, at Marmora, Madoc, Roseneath, Warkworth and Norwood she picked up a total of 21 ribbons.

The showing she made is even more remarkable when you consider that it was Rochelle's first year with her pony Dusty and that before her father bought her the little Shetland last September, she had never before handled a horse or been on one.

Rochelle got Dusty just two weeks before last year's Norwood Fair and eagerly entered her in some of the pony classes, but the little girl discovered she had a lot to learn, as was to be expected, when the judges placed her at the bottom of the various events. She decided then she was going to win ribbons the next year (she had her eye on a pretty pink one that "would look nice on Dusty") and early last Spring she started working her pony. She also joined her elder sister Rhonda as a member of the local Timbertrail Western Horse Riders. There, her parents say, she learnt a lot by seeking out expert advice from various judges who attend the organization's events and who would take the time to explain their reasons for placing a horse in a certain category.

But knowledge was backed up by hard work, too, and Rochelle, who loves all animals, especially loves her pony Dusty preferring nothing better than working with the little horse each night after school and throughout the two months of summer holidays. And so she won all colours of ribbons this fall, even the coveted pink one which especially pleased her even though it meant placing fifth.

There is one sad aspect about this relationship between the little girl and the little Shetland pony, Dusty, who worked so hard together to achieve show excellence. Dusty has stopped growing and very soon Rochelle will be too big to ride the tiny horse. This has been foreseen by Rochelle's parents who have another pony colt, Jiggs, in the offing - one that will grow to the proper size to meet Rochelle's requirements in three years. In her "spare time" the little girl works with the colt walking him on the halter. She intends to show him in the yearling class next spring.

The farm life that surrounds Rochelle is, of course, a big factor in her love of animals. She is completely involved with the assortment of animals of all sizes and varieties that live on this 50-acre homestead on the outskirts of Havelock. Sister Rhonda's huge St. Bernard bounds to meet you as you drive up the lane followed by Rochelle's beautiful Siberian husky, followed by a procession of mewing kittens and cats of every colour and hair texture. There is never a shortage of kittens, according to Rochelle. Every year she has lots to give away to those less fortunate. And there is never any trouble finding homes for this ever-present brood which two mother cats provide at regular intervals because the Rutherfords don't try to give them away as mere balls of fluff but feed them until they are self-sufficient, endearing good-sized kittens. It seems none are destroyed at birth - even a little kitten born lame can be seen toddling along behind the rest of the cortege. Last year Rochelle gave away 18 kittens and at the moment is looking for homes for six more.

Rochelle's family background also probably has a lot to do with her love for and interest in horses. The family farm originally belonged to William Griffith, a former reeve of Belmont (Rochelle's father's mother's father) and he owned working horses. Her great grandfather, Garnet Rutherford, operated a local dairy at one time and many of Havelock's citizens will remember "Garney and Dolly", who could be seen each morning delivering the milk. Dolly was the horse who pulled the milk wagon and was part of the Rutherford family for many years.

Fred Rutherford, who delivered the mail in the rural areas of Havelock for over 50 years is another of Rochelle's grandfathers. He started his mail run at the age of 12 years, once again using a horse and buggy.

Rochelle's father Ron bought his first horse at the age of 10 with money he saved by collecting pop bottles along the highway. Today he still owns and rides a horse, and, of course, he encourages his two girls in their horse interests. The sign on the door of his pickup attests to his pride in his two girls - It reads "Ron Rutherford and Daughters."

For whatever reason, Rochelle and Dusty have become a winning team who will continue to enjoy each other's company for some time yet. And Ron Rutherford, who paid $90 for Dusty last year, says he wouldn't take $1,000 for the animal now that Rochelle has shown what it can do.

THE WINNING COMBINATION ... DUSTY & ROCHELLE

NOEL'S NOTES

BY NOEL STOCKTON

There was a time, many years ago, when I used to be a bit of a lad.

That's not to say I was ever any kind of a Casanova, you understand, but I did have my moments and I have to admit to a certain suave, debonair approach that stood me in good stead on occasion, when I had both the ambition and the energy to exploit it.

Today, of course, although the ambition is still there, the energy has gone south, as you might say.

But what I had in mind to tell you about this week was the time I was a bit of a dashing Lochinvar and my parents lived next door to this charming family consisting of one father who was as bald as a coot, one mother who was dumpy and vocal, and a daughter named Mary who had enough hair and shape for the two of them, and she was also a ballet dancer of some note.

She was, in fact, a widely sought after commodity and I was on the ground floor because I lived next door to her and I could climb out of my bedroom window and crawl craftily across the lean-to right into her boudoir, if you get my drift.

Now living as we did in each others pockets, so to speak, and our parents being on such friendly bridge playing terms, it was naturally assumed that Mary and I would eventually get together long enough to plight our troth, as it were, thus cementing the association between our two families and making everybody just as happy as a jolly group of devoted in-laws could be.

As it turned out the planned interference on the part of the conniving parents went, like Robbie Burns' plan of mice and men, oft and irrevocably awry.

For running concurrently with this familial fantasy was the affair of Margaret and Jack.

Now my Margaret was at that time being pursued somewhat liberally by a tall blond Apollo of a guy by the rather unusual name of Jack, who was quite definitely of the Robert Redford timbre and would make any normally endowed male pale into insignificance and make him feel operationally inadequate in some areas.

Jack was the type who could vacuum any female off her sneakers at the drop of a hat, or whatever it was he dropped, at any given moment.

I will admit that I was no match for this dimpled Apollo above mentioned, and Margaret would be the first to tell you that as an ardent lover, I would have made a good baker, being as I was more intent on lapsing my leisure hours in diverse clubs and pubs and other institutions of learning, and she has always considered me a lukewarm sort of suitor at best.

Nevertheless, as things worked out, upon the outbreak of war Margaret married me and Mary married Jack, whereupon I went forthwith to Egypt where I dissipated my years in the desert with the British Eighth Army without any outward show of bravado or any conspicuous exhibition of gallantry, while Jack went forthwith to Burma where he distinguished himself no end, darting about the jungle, waving his machete with a careless abandon and wearing his bush hat with the side turned up, just to prove he was no ordinary soldier.

Nauseating, isn't it?

So you can perhaps imagine the situation when, on our first visit to England some years ago, Margaret and I happened to be in London and the thought came to me that we were close enough to pay a long delayed visit to Jack and Mary.

To begin with, I put the suggestion rather tentatively to Margaret, because after all Mary was hardly her favourite person for obvious reasons, but she said it might be a bit of a giggle to see old Jack again, so I phoned and surprised him with the intelligence that we were both in the United Kingdom for a week or two, and well within public transit reach of his domicile.

Naturally he was delighted at the prospect of laying his eyeballs on Margaret once more, although he made a fairly lively effort to disguise his enthusiasm, and he assured me in the same breath that Mary would be just as tickled to death at the prospect of seeing old Noel again after all these years.

Margaret by now was all fired and consumed with anticipatory glee at the notion of meeting up with her former Greek god again, and I was naturally not a little uplifted by the proximity of my former girl next door, the stately, lean statuesque ballerina, with the features and the shape of a grecian princess and a picturesque torso to boot.

So all in all it was with a certain degree of anticipation that Margaret and I and Jack and Mary came to be united, as Margaret and I sallied forth on the Southern Line to the little village in Hertfordshire where they were domiciled.

Now Jack told me on the phone that Mary would meet us at the station and that he himself would return early from the City so he would be home when we arrived.

We came to this wee wayside station, according to directions, and Margaret and I stood there like a pair of piffies at a picnic, surveying the scene of desolation and despair that scurried around us.

There was one doddering old gent with a face full of fiery fungus who had been shovelled off the train, where he stood longingly for the lavatory.

But there was no Mary.

There was a dilapidated porter in a faded British Railways get-up, looking like a refugee from a Halloween orgy, complete with grotty mask and a pair of bronze-coloured braces holding up his pants, who stood with a red face and a blue nose by the gate ready to snatch up our tickets, staring at us the while with bulbous

TOURISM

Tourism is big business

Ring up receipts of $11 billion a year, tourism is one of Canada's largest industries. It includes directly and indirectly more than 80 thousand businesses and employs nearly one in every 10 Canadians. The industry caters to all of us as sometimes tourists or travellers, business persons, conventioners, museum hoppers, restaurant goers or antique store browsers.

Developing the industry would help stem the flow of tourist dollars out of Canada. In 1978, Canadian tourists spent nearly twice as much abroad as foreign tourists spent in Canada.

Tourism is the focus of the latest FACS Sheet published by the College of Family and Consumer Studies at the University of Guelph. FACS Sheets deal with topics relating to families, consumers and business and the hotel and food industry.

The latest FACS Sheet urges careful development of the tourism industry, noting that tourist-related development can be a boon to civic pride and a boost to local economies. Tourism need not be confined to the obvious prime tourist destinations like Ontario Place and Niagara Falls. Every community can draw travellers off the express highways and into town to see local attractions, shop or gas up.

Because tourist development can have violent social, financial and ecological consequences, comprehensive, long-range planning and strong leadership are essential.

THE REGISTER

Over 100 legionnaires and guests attended the annual Remembrance Day dinner in the Legion Hall last Saturday evening.

Guest speaker was Rev. Robt. Dornan of Norwood Pentecostal Church. Nine associate and fraternal members were initiated.

Wreaths were placed at Norwood Cenotaph following a service on Sunday.

A delegation of townspeople attended last week's council meeting to express concern about rising administrative costs. One delegate, Mr. E.P. Godden, said recently he felt it was his civic duty to oppose any expenditure at this point. "It's no longer funny in this day and age," he said. The latest decision to install water meters was especially questioned.

MARMORA

THE HERALD

Residents of both the Marmora and Madoc areas are wondering what to make of the latest revelations about the concentrations of arsenic in the Moira River system. Arsenic has been leaching into the river from the old refining site at Deloro for nearly twenty years and, although the condition of the river has improved over that time, recent studies warn that the area may be sitting on a time bomb. IN BRIEF:

an investigation into the health hazards of long term low level exposure to the arsenic and Ministry of the Environment officials have admitted that the levels are still above safe drinking standards.

Madoc Village is likely to press for a cleanup of the river system in the next two years, but a survey of other area politicians has shown agreement that action of some kind is necessary. One surprising exception is Deloro's reeve, Doug Lynch, who says that the Ministry of the Environment should not be interfered with, even while inferring that he has doubts about the ministry's methods.

Reeve Lynch told the Herald that he felt that cleanups would only make the matter worse, that the survey, which he had not seen, was probably not accurate and that "the least publicity that this thing gets the better."

Madoc Councillor Ian Connerty thought that the negative publicity had already done its damage and that only a promise of cleanup in the area could bring back any confidence from the area's tourists. The politicians also seem to disagree on just how dangerous a health hazard the matter poses.

MADOC THE REVIEW

Members of the Legion and onlookers from around the village attended and took part in the Remembrance Day Services and wreath laying at the cenotaph on Sunday. As always, it was a very somber day and people all over Canada joined together in remembering the men and women who died so that future generations could live in countries that allowed freedom of worship and speech. Many of those people attending the services thanked God that we are now living peacefully and hoped that this would continue.

The Huntingdon Township Council met for their regular meeting and discussed the problem they are having with dogs and wolves killing livestock in the area. Council felt that their hands are tied as far as stopping the problem until people start using their dog tags and until every dog in the municipality is forced to wear a tag. They also felt that those farmers who are losing livestock must realize that proof of ownership of these dogs must be established before Council can take steps to recover the damages from the owners of the dogs. It was suggested that some people in the area might take matters into their own hands and start destroying dogs that appeared on their property.

Mark Stegel, a Ryerson student studying photography, will soon be doing a photo essay of the village of Madoc with the consent and approval of the Madoc and District Chamber of Commerce. It is hoped that Mark will receive any help that he requires to complete his assignment and his prints will be displayed in Madoc around the end of March.

HASTINGS THE STAR

The Village of Hastings honoured Remembrance Day this year with a dinner and dance held on Saturday evening in the Legion Hall. Head table guests included Mr. Fred Morrow, Mr. Jack Sedore and Mr. Sam Hall, all WWI veterans.

On Sunday afternoon, members of Legion Branch 106, cadets and the cub pack marched through the streets and into the Town Hall for the Remembrance Day service given by Rev. Charles Balfour and Rev. Bill Stephenson. Laying of wreaths at the cenotaph followed.

A 17 year old boy in Hastings, Danny Williams, will be travelling to the Canadian Bowling Finals in Vancouver on December 1 after placing first at two regional tournaments. Danny, who bowls in the President's League Division, won a trip out west and to Los Angeles and Las Vegas after winning at the provincial finals in Hamilton. Danny is the youngest member ever to bowl in his division.

Campbellford District High School held its annual Junior Awards night a few weeks ago and this week's Hastings Star lists a few of those who received honour books. Also mentioned are those who were presented with special prizes for outstanding achievements in various fields.

HAUELOCK THE CITIZEN

Remembrance Day was observed with several ceremonies in Havelock. The public school held a program conducted by the senior students on Friday morning at which Rev. J. Neilson spoke as well as many of the students contributing poems, readings and songs.

On Sunday morning the veterans marched from Legion Hall to the cenotaph and conducted a solemn ceremony of remembrance and wreath laying there. Rev. T. Asbell gave the address.

A cake decorating course will be conducted in Havelock Public School starting January 22nd. This week we take a look at the instructor Jenifer Stillman who won first prize at Peterborough Exhibition this year for her sugar icing flower arrangement.

The Timbertrail Western Riders held their annual banquet in Havelock Legion Hall last Saturday night with a large attendance.

The Bulk Food Store has counted off its 10,000th customer since opening six months ago. Mr. and Mrs. M. Post of Marmora won the prize of a free purchase of bulk goods.

THOMPSON, Maurice - In loving memory of a dear husband, father & grandfather who passed away Nov. 12, 1978. This month comes back with sad regret. It brings back a day that we'll never forget. You fell asleep, without goodbye, But our memories of you will never die. Always remembered by wife Dorothy; Gary and Joanne; granddaughters Heather Dawn & Becky; Don & Ruth. -11

LaPALM - In loving memory of our dear father, Raymond, who passed away Nov. 12, 1969 and dear brother Richard, who passed away July 8, 1978. We miss their love and cheery ways. With them we spent our happiest days. In memory we see them the same. As long as we live, we'll cherish their names. Lovingly remembered by Lamoine & David Foley & girls, Annette, Deanna & Michelle; Lamona & Jack Howard, children Scott & Sheri. -11

LaPALM - In loving memory of a dear husband, Raymond, who passed away Nov. 12, 1969 and a dear son Richard who passed away July 8, 1978. When family ties are broken And loved ones have to part, It leaves wounds that never heal. And also a broken heart. The end was very sudden, It made me weep and cry, But the saddest part of all, We never said "goodbye". To those who have loved ones, Treat them with loving care, For you will never know the heartache 'Till you see that they're not there. Always remembered and sadly missed by wife and mother Betty. -11

ELLIS, Carmon - In loving memory of a dear husband, dad and grandpa Carmon B., who passed away Nov. 9, 1976. Ever remembered by his family. -11

NOEL'S NOTES

Why I hate bagpipes

eyes because he had never, in all the seventy-two years he had stood by that gate, seen anybody get off that train.

But there was no Mary.

Over the postage stamp that served as a parking lot by the platform was a severe, plump little body toggled in a calf length skirt while the minis were still in fashion, a bun on the nape of her neck like a constipated schoolmarm, standing beside a square box with four wheels attached to it, and she was obviously keeping a weather eye out for somebody.

Possibly the genial old gent who had now lost himself in the lavatory.

I said to Margaret, that's strange, I wonder where Mary is.

I said where dear.

She said there dear. And I detected the slightest ironic lift of the left eyebrow.

Then she pointed to the little plump bod on the parking lot.

That, said I with derision, is not Mary!

With not a little of the old undisguised delight one hears about, Margaret said, that's Mary dear. Why don't you wave.

So I waved.

And it was!

Now I had cherished this vision of my ballerina for close to half a century, but I had not yet come to regard myself as an imminent material for the family vault by any means, if you get my meaning.

And all that time I had thought of her as the lithe, vivacious curvy little rascal, purveyor of the odd pas de deux, the occasional arabesque, the spasmodic bras bas and all the rest of it, and now here she was, not lithe and leotarded any more, rather like a candidate for a tug of war between the policemen and the fire-fighters, instead of the grande jetee.

I climbed into the car after going through all the salutary motions which the occasion demanded, and I couldn't help noticing the smug, self-satisfied expression on Margaret's clock as she said to me in a trilly sort of voice that was meant to be conciliatory, you sit in front with Mary, she carolled, and I'll get in the back, she says, and then you two can talk over old times!

Oh, I'm not joking.

And all I could think about at that moment was the Greek god; the handsome smiling dial of the Burma Beau, the Tarzan of the Tundra, the Machete Masher, the Robert Redford of the Ramparts, the tall, the fair, the sun-scorched Adonis, and I could visualize him at that moment, sweeping down the driveway to greet his old flame, golden coiffure curled and blown-dry, flowing freely in the balmy evening breeze, his orderly regiment of piano keys flashing like polished sabres in the semi-puce aura of the encircling twilight. I could see again the egg-timer waist, the broad, squared shoulders like the Great Wall of China, all the appropriate muscles, cords, biceps and every sort of nauseating attachment of that nature rippling and cavorting like waves engulfing the Golden Fleece of Jason, all over the scenario.

And I began to question the sanity of this exercise and the whole damn purpose of the excursion.

Especially when Mary says, Jack came home early today, she says, so he could have a bath and change before Margaret gets here.

How about that!

Oh yes, I could see him all toggled out in his best velvet play suit, sporting a ghastly yellow tie and red shirt like an escapee from the Hollywood Squares, and there was Margaret esconced in the back seat, striving to stifle the odd chuckle at the recollection of her flaxen-haired Apollo.

That was why, as we turned into the driveway, I closed my eyes to shut out the abominable scene as Jack the Zipper would come bounding down the pavement like some pixilated Romeo, to greet his old, lost love.

Well.

He came out alright, on cue.

But running he wasn't.

In fact it was all he could do to navigate and squeeze his frame through the bloody doorway, which was about two yards wide.

He was as round as a soccer ball and had about as much hair, and he coughed and spluttered and wheezed like some oxidized barrel organ every time he paused awhile to try to draw himself a bit of breath.

But of course I tried hard not to smile and you can imagine how valiantly I stifled the odd throaty chuckle as I invited Margaret, with a sweeping, courtly gesture, to be my guest and sit next to Jack on the chesterfield, just so they could talk over old times.

Well, I mean to say, I felt fairly generous about the whole deal.

Almost godly, really.

ENVIRONMENT

OFA protests landfill site

The Glanbrook land-fill site poses a danger to the drinking water of rural residents and should not be allowed to proceed, according to Peter Hannam, President, Ontario Federation of Agriculture (OFA).

The 500 acre site is located near Hamilton and will be used as a dump for the city's garbage.

The Environmental Assessment Board in a report made public October 26th, recommended the dump go ahead, in spite of the objections of local people.

Hannam said area residents have real grounds for concern. Leachates, which may be toxic, will seep into the water table contaminating wells. The pollution will not be confined to the immediate area as the dump is located on the headwaters of the Welland River.

Hannam was very critical of the Environmental Assessment Board. He said their investigation could best be described as shallow.

"Some of the information submitted by the Region of Hamilton-Wentworth did not exist at the time of the hearings. Some of the equipment they used was incapable of providing the test results they reported," Hannam said no sound judgement could ever be made on such questionable evidence.

Hannam said the Glanbrook decision should be a warning to all rural residents. The concerns of the local people were completely ignored. OFA's technical submission was not even addressed by the Board. He said that, without major changes in evaluating dump sites, other rural communities could expect similar treatment.

Hannam said there are two ways to solve the garbage issue. The first is to reduce it at its source, and the second is to turn it into a resource by recycling, composting, or heat recovery. The answer is not to dump it in their rural neighbour's backyards.

EDUCATION

New scholarship

A scholarship - summer job package from General Motors of Canada, valued at approximately $5000, has been established for Trent University students in the new administrative and policy studies program.

The award, to be presented annually to a third or fourth-year student in the program with an A average, will consist of two elements:

A $1000 scholarship, and
A four-month summer job involving a special project, for which pay is roughly $1000 monthly.

Harry Kitchen, director of the program, said there are "obvious benefits" to students in such a package, since it offers a student the opportunity to do what amounts to applied research under limited supervision. He said the first GM award should be made in the fall of 1980.

ONE FOOT IN THE FURROW

BY BOB TROTTER

Plead, push, cajole, weep, wail and yell about preserving farmland and only a few farmers will shake your hand and tell you to keep up the good work.

Write one column on the advantages of nuclear energy for peaceful uses and the fit hits the shan.

A couple of weeks ago, I suggested that nuclear energy is the only reasonable solution at this time to the energy problems facing this nation. If Canadians continue to demand a way of life that is luxurious in comparison to much of the rest of the world, then nuclear energy is the only answer.

Those comments provoked a pile of letters from one end of the province to the other. I was sent pages of material against the idea, much of which will take me a couple of weeks to read. And read it I will.

The most intriguing piece of literature was entitled The Birch Bark Alliance, a tabloid-cum-magazine which was difficult to read but packed with anti-nuclear information. Letters came from Dresden, Goderich, Seaforth, Kincardine, Drayton, Stratford, Gilmour, Iroquois, Brighton, Walkerton and Campbellford.

One came all the way from Charlottetown, P.E.I., from a reader in Montague. Most writers, of course, took a stand against nuclear energy. My views suggesting that agriculture should be given a preference when the petroleum shortage comes were met with approval. Everybody likes to eat, it seems.

But to suggest that Canada's Candu reactor is the safest method of harnessing nuclear power brought a storm of protests. I appreciate the letters. I do not know how many other letters were received by the papers who subscribe to this column. For sure, in future, if the mailbag gets empty, I'll just pen another piece supporting Ontario Hydro and the Candu reactor.

It is unfortunate, in my humble opinion, that just as much enthusiasm and support cannot be generated for the plight of agriculture today. It is too bad a group of people weren't just as concerned about the profligate use of good farmland, a non-renewable resource that is being gobbled up almost as fast as petroleum resources in Canada.

And it is a shame, too, that more people do not support agriculture in the fight to organize a system of marketing that allows farmers to compete with multi-national companies throughout the food chain who seem to be able to plant detrimental stories in mass-circulation magazines.

Maybe the fight to save land is too mundane, too unglamorous, for the anti-nuclear bandwagon. It doesn't attract beautiful movie stars like Jane Fonda and what's-his-name, her husband.

I see by the papers that she has jumped

No-nuke is stronger than farmland preservation off the bandwagon to go back to making movies for a while.

I'll probably be hanged in effigy by the editors of the Birch Bark Alliance but I agree wholeheartedly with an editorial in the Globe and Mail recently which stated that Ontario is in danger of being pushed in the chasm of energy shortage by a legislative committee that does not even recognize the chasm is there.

The committee examining Hydro affairs is considering a recommendation that would delay the construction of the four-reactor Darlington nuclear plant.

The editorial states that Ontario has little undeveloped water power, a little inferior coal. But it does have uranium and the technology and experience to produce the safest nuclear power reactor in the world.

Even if the building of nuclear reactors were to go on at the pace Hydro proposes, it is unlikely that they could meet the demand for electricity, especially when electrical cars and trucks come on stream...there is no time to waste."

Alternate methods of energy may be viable in time to come but none has been proven yet. I still think we are stuck with what we've got -- a proven method with the expertise to build them -- until the anti-nuclear lobby can come up with a viable alternative.

Industrial park restricted but work continues

Wayne Hagerman attended council regarding the proposed industrial park draft plan approval he had recently received and questioned them about the changes in the approval. He, as well as all members of council, was under the impression that the draft plan approval from the Ministry would include fifty lots and the buffer zone for the park but that was not the approval he had received. The Ministry had restricted their approval to the building of fifteen houses over a three year period and had included no commercial lots in their approval. Mr. Hagerman asked council if they knew anything about the changes in approval and council assured him that they had expected complete approval of the site and that the municipality would control the building from that point on.

All agreed that the reason for the restrictions on the approval was the amount of water available in the municipality and that the building would have to be restricted to insure that no undue stress was put on the water supply. However, council had expected that they would be responsible for regulating the building after the complete draft plan approval was accepted by the Ministry.

Several other points were also left unclear about the site and Mr. Hagerman agreed to try and clarify these points and return to council for more discussion at a later date.

Jane Thomas proposes contest to make Madoc residents "see"

Jane Thomas, an artist who was born and raised in the Madoc area, sent a letter to the Madoc Review newspaper this week and made an interesting proposal to the paper, the merchants and the residents of the village.

Jane feels that Madocers live in a town with a wealth of architecture and craftsmanship but that they don't really "see" their town. Jane has come up with a plan to make people more aware of their town and we will use her own words to explain the reasons for her proposal and what the proposal actually involves.

"The content of my artwork is people, places, times and patterns in the culture of the Madoc area. I choose this theme to explore because of personal pride and have the desire to transfer my interest and respect. I would like an opportunity to help more people be more aware of their town. Madoc especially has a wealth of architecture and craftsmanship. I would like to help Madocers actually start "seeing" their town."

"This is my offer. On the recent visit home, I shot several rolls of black and white film on details of buildings around the town. I would like to offer the use of 10 negatives to be printed, one each week, in 10 consecutive editions. My intention is that the photos be presented in the form of a contest for readers to guess the identity of the detail. Hopefully, the contest would inspire more people to look around. The negatives would be on loan to the Madoc

Arsenic controversy results in request for more information

Madoc Village Council had several major issues brought before them on Monday and Tuesday night of last week. The arsenic problem at Deloro and its effect on the Moira River watershed has been the subject of much discussion in the past two weeks and was discussed in detail by the council.

The main point of contention appeared to be that no one really knows just what the problem is and what is being done about it. Council discussed the fact that there are conflicting reports about the level of arsenic at various points along the Moira River and in Moira Lake and they felt that they would like to get more information as to the effect of arsenic in the water and also be informed as to what steps were being taken, if any, to solve the problem. Some members of council felt that the problem was being investigated and in the process of being remedied while others felt that these steps were long overdue and should have been rectified long before now. However, no one was certain that the problem was being solved so they thought they should request more information on the topic of arsenic in the river along with the proposed remedies and that councils in the area should be kept informed of the progress of the project. During the discussion on the lake, it was also pointed out that arsenic was not the only problem that should be looked at and rectified. It was felt that a large amount of raw sewage was still being discharged directly into the lake and that the pollution of the lake would not be improved until the cottagers and residents of the lake were made aware of the damage they were doing and another method of disposing of the raw sewage was put into affect.

After a lengthy discussion, this resolution was presented and carried by council. "Because of the health risk from arsenic and other pollutants in the Moira River water table, The Ministers of Environment of the Province of Ontario and of Canada are urgently requested to identify the exact nature of the problem and take any measures that are necessary to correct the problem as soon as possible and that the affected municipalities be fully informed of what actions are being taken in order to protect the health of the residents of this region, both now and in the future." Letters were to be sent to all municipalities of Hastings County for concurrence to the resolution as well as a copy to both Ministries of Environment.

Number two well test inconclusive

Another test had been done by the Ministry of the Environment on number two well and again had proved inconclusive. The test was done on August 23rd including both treated and untreated water from the well, and no chlorinated phenols were detected in the samples. However, the Ministry of the Environment conceded that the tests may not have been taken under the right conditions. "In the past, problems related to taste and odour appeared to elevate with prolonged pumping of the well. Due to this fact, the samples collected on August 23rd may not be the most representative samples." They admitted that the well had not been used for several weeks and that it had been pumped to waste for only a few hours prior to the sampling, resulting in the need for another test at a time when the problem was recurring.

Council discussed the problem and asked the clerk to request another test after a prolonged pumping period in which the water would be pumped to waste rather than into the system. This problem has gone on for such a long period of time with no conclusive results that council decided not to interrupt the drilling plans on other locations, which were thought to be ready to commence this week. They felt that the time of year, the condition of the water table and the whirlpool affect had a great deal to do with whether phenols were detected or not and that until those conditions were met and proven conclusively that taste or odour was not affected, council would continue to search for a reliable water source.

After some discussion with J.D. Lee Engineering, Mr. Brian Whitehead and a member of council, it was felt that the priority of well drilling should be changed from that announced a few weeks ago. It was now felt that drilling priority should be given to the Park St. site, followed by the Tom Deline property and the Whytock property, in that order. It was the general conception that the well site and the site of the water tower could be in the same area of town and that this area would have an excellent chance of producing as much water as the Deline site and was also the furthest away from any prior contamination. Council agreed with this conclusion and expected the drilling to commence as soon as possible.

Sam Danford is screened by one of his defensive players but still manages to make the save. The midgets went on to win the game 9-7 but will have to stay out of the penalty box for the return engagement on Tuesday night in Brighton. Story on page 9.

Coaches Clinic advocates "system"

The Steve Rexe Coaches Clinic proved to be a very worthwhile and enlightening experience for the coaches in the Madoc and District Minor Hockey Association. Steve Rexe was a very knowledgeable and experienced speaker and was able to help the coaches in an area that they feel is weak in their organization, as far as coaching is concerned, and that area was goaltending.

"To choose a goaltender for a team, you should first find out who wants to play. The next important thing about a goaltender is that he should have good balance. Goaltenders shouldn't be treated as someone special on a team. They should do as much skating as other members of the team and you can even give him extra drills, like climbing up and down the first

The most important point that was brought out at the clinic was the fact that the whole minor hockey organization in an area should develop one system and each and every team in that program should use that system. "A player is set back every time he has to learn a new system and teams will suffer at the beginning of a season because their players are trying to learn the new coach's system. If every coach teaches the same system, you don't have that long period of adjustment and you can restrict your practices to the basics rather than working on new drills."

This was another area that Steve felt minor hockey systems could improve. "The utilization of ice time is very important and you should have the maximum number of players participating in your drills." He took a page from the European hockey. "Dry land drills can be very important and you can accomplish more at a practice if you go through your drills in a gymnasium before you ever go on the ice. Shooting practice should also be a big part of a boy's dry land training. Give him five minutes a day of dry land shooting drills and you will see a big difference in his shooting." As a goaltender himself, Steve gave some very good advice to the young shooter. "Your shot should be accurate and on the net because if you miss the net with your shot, you are doing the goalie's job for him."

Steve Rexe admired the coaches attending the clinic because of their volunteer status and proved that he believes in that principle by offering to visit Madoc sometime and work with their goaltenders. He felt that coaches should be out for the betterment of the boys, not the reverse cycle. In case some of the boys should question the competence of Steve Rexe, remember that he competed with Ken Dryden on teams and beat him out several times. As Steve says, "...and of course, Ken Dryden never did anything after that."

On the subject of Ken Dryden, Steve gave us a little insight into the future of this retired Montreal Canadiens' goaltender. "Ken could be the new director of Hockey Canada very soon and I think he will make some interesting innovations in the sport."

There was one thing that Steve was against in minor hockey. "The curved stick was the worst invention that ever came along and if you can get your players to play with a straight stick, you should encourage it and make them practice their stick handling skills. Bobby Hull used to have a great backhand shot until he went to the curved stick but now, even he has trouble controlling the puck on his backhand."

The second night of the two-night clinic will continue this Wednesday night and Clint Davidson, the President of the Madoc Minor Hockey Association, is hoping that more people will take advantage of the knowledge that Steve Rexe can impart to the coaches. The clinic costs only $2 for each two-hour course and any interested person is welcome to attend. There was also some discussion about a hockey school in the area but Steve stipulated that he would not help with the school unless the proceeds went back to Minor Hockey. Nothing was finalized but more discussion on this topic could take place on Wednesday.

Review. I would retain the copyright and ownership of the negatives."

"I have one condition. That local businessmen or individuals show their interest in 'awareness of the town' by donating prizes to the winners or preferably cash donations to the Museum Foundation. This is presented as an offer to the Madoc Review, a challenge to local interest and as a learning opportunity."

Those of us at the Review thought Jane's idea was worthwhile and hope that it will be well received and will get the support it needs to be a success. While I was doing the interview with Jane, I was very impressed with her sincerity about the uniqueness of Madoc and its inhabitants and I have looked on the village with new respect since meeting her. I think she can have the same effect on many more people in the village.

For the project to be a success, we will need the support of everyone in the village and we will need some response from those people. If you would like to see the project in the newspaper, drop in to the office and let us know. Any merchants who would like to contribute prizes can also contact us and we will see if the response is good enough to make the contest worthwhile. If the interest and response warrants it, we will contact Jane and arrange the contest. This contest is for the benefit of Madoc and its residents and should not be passed up. You decide.

shop in Madoc

Madoc now has a flea market to offer to those shoppers who like to go into a store and browse around. The Flea Market held its grand opening on Saturday and will be open seven days a week from now on. Seven dealers occupy the store that was formerly occupied by Golden Era Antiques and several other dealers are on a waiting list to display their goods in case some of the dealers decide to withdraw their booth. The response to the Flea Market has been phenomenal and those dealers with booths already set up were pleasantly surprised by the number of people that came into the store on Saturday. Antiques and knick knacks of all kinds are available at reasonable prices. The organizers are optimistic that the Flea Market will attract a large and varied crowd from Kingston to Peterborough and have dealers from such a large area that they are certain word will get around and attract the people within those boundaries.

4-H organizers justifiably proud

The Hastings County 4-H Awards night was held at Centre Hastings Secondary School on Friday and members of the Hastings County 4-H clubs expressed a great deal of pride in their organizations. But, they readily admitted that their success was due to the help and support of other people.

In her opening remarks, Gwen McAlpine stated, "Hastings County has the privilege of having the most active and enthusiastic 4-H members and this would not be possible without the assistance and aid of the parents, leaders and the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food. We congratulate all the 4-H members on their achievements during the past year and those receiving awards tonight and wish the very best to the senior members who will be leaving the 4-H program and look forward to the younger members continuing to learn and to contribute to their club, community and their country."

Doug Tipper, the Agricultural Representative for Hastings County, gave his own interpretation of the awards and the 4-H club. "The word 'awards' has a literal meaning of giving something in recognition of achievement or merit. It also implies a judgement being made. In the context of awards night, we provide recognition of 4-H members and leaders. In evaluating these, we make judgements on what we've accomplished and what we need to accomplish."

"The recognition tonight will speak for itself. The judgements on where we are going are not readily made. I do see today's economic situation, by what it implies, bringing together once more our rural community. There is no doubt, in my mind, that 4-H work can be one of the integral parts in this movement."

Mr. Tipper also showed great pride in the 4-H clubs of the county when he talked of the ambassadors who travelled to other parts of the country to represent Hastings County and when he was talking about the various competitions that took place this year. "The Quinte Judging Competition is where the four counties join together in one event. Hastings has the biggest entry at 66 and won two of the top four prizes to be presented here tonight. The Quinte 4-H Open Championship Show is a voluntary event. The 4-H member has to make his own entry in livestock and field crop classes. Of the 226 entries, 109 of them came from Hastings County."

Karen Shaw, Mark Robinson, Scott Shaw and Lonny Smith all won top member awards for Madoc 4-H clubs on Friday night. Scott won three separate awards as top member while Karen won four awards. These are just some of the capable hands that are a part of the Hastings County 4-H clubs.

Mr. Tipper also gave the members some reason for optimism in the future. "Finally, I want to say that we're not going back to the old, rigid policies and formats. We are thinking of some of their good things and using the best parts of more recent years. It should give us a positive policy and a program that can be a learning experience, provide for some healthy competition and make 4-H work as much fun as is reasonably possible."

The South China Sea the largest sea in the world, covers an area of 1,148,500 square miles. Its average depth is 4,802 feet.

I.O.D.E. poster and

The Marmora branch of the I.O.D.E. recently announced the winners of their poster and essay contest. All the work centered on the theme, "International Year of the Child".

Prizes in the poster contest went to Leanne McKeown, first and Brian Sanderson 2nd, of Earl Prentice and Connie Wilcox of Sacred Heart. Merit badges went to Julie Carman of Earl Prentice and Treena Stark, Leslie Bedore and Donald Whalen of Sacred Heart.

In the essay contest a full slate of prizes was awarded to both Marmora Senior and Sacred Heart School. Anne Marie Maloney took first in the former, with Chris Carson and Janine Lemas second and third. Tina McCauley, Maria Batsch, Angie Labossiere and Debbie Carson won merit badges.

Dorothy Dies won first prize at the senior school; Gina Lawrence was second, Gord Quinlan third. Merit badges went to Jeanette Seaborn, Wendy Smith, Wendy Horncastle, and Sam McCollon.

Presented below are the top two essays:

The rights of the child

The right to affection, love and understanding. The right to adequate nutrition and medical care. The right to free education. The right of full opportunity for play and recreation. The right to a name and nationality. The right to special care, if handicapped. The right to be among the first to receive relief in times of disaster. The right to learn to be a useful member of society and to develop individual abilities. The right to be brought up in a spirit of peace and universal brotherhood. The right to enjoy these rights, regardless of race, colour, sex, religion, national or social origin.

These were the words used to describe the Rights of the Child when the United Nations made the declaration that 1979 would be International Year of the Child.

The Year of the Child is meant for all children, whether or not they are born in a rich country or an underdeveloped country.

If you were living in Saudi Arabia, India or some parts of Africa and Australia, it would be in those parts of the world where the United Nations would be trying to make life better for children.

The rights of children in some countries would be different from those of children in other parts of the world. In some countries there would be the rights of having decent clothing to wear and proper education.

In all countries children would have the right to a second chance if they bungle something up the first time. They have the right to the same kind of respect from adults, that adults would give to other adults.

When the United Nations made the "Declaration of the Rights of the Child," they used this theme: "Mankind owes to the child the best that it has to give."

Some children don't know that this year is for them, and that they have rights. To children in underdeveloped countries this year is no different than last year or any different from the next.

On the other side of the coin, children who know that they have rights, might take advantage of them and demand more than parents and teachers can give. That is hard for the parents and teachers. It puts an awful amount of pressure on the adults. The children probably don't even realize it, though.

In other countries that aren't democratic, children's rights would be much different than ours. They might have special privileges that we wouldn't have, while we might have privileges and rights that they wouldn't have.

Children are lucky and they don't even realize it. They have kind, loving parents to look after them when they are sick, to put a roof over their heads, to put food on the table and put a shirt on their back.

The Year of the Child is drawing to a close, so try to remember children's rights and try to make the rest of their year a good one.

What Marmora means to me

My town means a lot to me because there is something for everyone. For the older people there's old time dances, bowling, bingo, ice skating, curling, hockey to play and watch and card games. For the teenagers there's swimming lessons, dances once in awhile, roller skating, bowling, pinball, jobs, and in the winter there's ice skating, skiing, ski-dooing, hockey, curling, sleigh rides and hay rides. For the younger children there are also a number of things to do. They can go for swimming lessons, play in the parks where there are teeter-totters, swings and other things to play on. They also can go skating, sleigh riding, on hay rides, hockey and, if they get thirsty or hungry, there is a snack bar right at the beach, which would keep them away from the highway traffic.

The people in Marmora are very nice, they would do anything to help you if you got into trouble. There are a few restaurants including a fairly new one owned by Chinese people and the food is great!! Stores such as 5 to $1.00 and Jack's Bargain Centre have a great deal to provide us with, we should be very thankful to them for their service. We should also be very thankful we have a bank to keep our money and other valuables in.

Unfortunately we have a fire every now and then, but luckily we have a very competent volunteer fire department to aid us.

A year ago, we used to have a running mine but it closed down due to not enough ore to keep them going much longer. Many men worked in the mine which meant they all had to leave the mine and go where jobs could be found such as Bethlehem Steel Workers. This caused many people to move out of Marmora only to make the population decrease but in the past year I feel we have gained just as many if not more people to our little town of Marmora. I used to live in Toronto until we moved out here to Marmora, much to my amazement, I have found that I enjoy and am fascinated at the prosperous little town of Marmora.

Some people think forced deposits or "bottle bills" on beverage containers can solve the litter problem, but, in fact, non-refillable bottles and cans have little to do with litter. What forced deposits can create is higher prices. In the State of Michigan, which recently passed a bottle bill, consumers are paying an average of 36 cents more per six-pack for soft drinks and 30 cents more per six-pack for beer than consumers in neighboring states.

OBITUARIES

Rose Ann De Gruchy

Rose Ann De Gruchy of R.R. 2, Marmora died in the Belleville General Hospital on Saturday, November 3 after a short illness. She was 74 years of age.

Mrs. De Gruchy was born in Seattle, Washington, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson, Horatio Darling. She had resided in Toronto before coming to Marmora 23 years ago. She was a housewife, educated at Loretta Abbey in Toronto.

She leaves a sister, Mrs. Doris Picard, and a nephew, Hugh Picard.

Mrs. De Gruchy rested at the Cassidy Funeral Home where services were held on Tuesday November 6. Rev. J.P. Cary officiated and interment was in Sacred Heart Church. Pallbearers were Ralph Empey, Don Empey, Wayne Parauik, Pete Flynn, Mike Lynch and Keith Lynch.

Sarah Jarvis

At St. Joseph's Hospital London, Ont. on Tuesday Nov. 13, 1979 Sarah (Sadie) Margretta Jarvis, of London, passed away. She was the loving sister of Bertha (Mrs. Gordon Love), Madeline (Mrs. Donald Love), both of Madoc, and Muriel (Mrs. Charles Reid) of Marmora. She was also the loving friend of Angus Hunter and Margaret (Hunter) Deacon, formerly of London, and dearly loved by many nieces and nephews. Miss Jarvis rested at the George E. Logan and Sons Funeral Home, London. Services were held at Metropolitan United Church, London, on Thursday Nov. 15, 1979 at 1 p.m. Rev. R.M. Boyd officiated. Interment service was held at O'Hara's Cemetery, Madoc Township on Friday Nov. 16, 1979 at 1 p.m. with Rev. A. Creaser officiating. Friends who wish may make memorial donations to the Kidney Foundation.

For almost 200 years a festival called the Fiesta of the Radishes has been held each December 23 in Oaxaca, Mexico.

1) Deputy Reeve Kramp requested time to remark on his verbal resignation. After relating his reasons, Deputy Reeve Kramp retracted the resignation and agreed to remain in Office for the balance of his term.

2) Councillor Ash gave a report on the recently completed Five Year Road & Streets Program (which is attached to this report). Discussion ensued which included the need for a new 1/2 ton truck. It was suggested that because to purchase was not on the Budget that consideration would be given to call tender now with payment in the new year under that Budget. Council approved the Five Year proposed program as submitted by the Committee on Roads. Carried.

3) Mr. Bruce Tapley and Mr. Don Kirkpatrick attended Council regarding the proposed Smoke Alarm By-Law and stated that they were against the By-law because they did not like to be told when and what to do. They related that many in the Village felt the same way. They also stated that in principle they thought smoke alarms are a good safety measure. Reeve Deline thanked them for appearing before Council.

The third reading of the Smoke Alarm By-law was next on the agenda with discussion over the implications covered in depth.

4) Pigden - Connerty: Moved that By-law no. 1036 being a Smoke Alarm By-law be given its third and final reading and passed this 13th day of November 1979. Recorded Vote Connerty, Pigden, Deline - Yea; Kramp, Ash-Nay. Carried.

4) Doug Pigden, Jim Kellar and Bob Hawley of the Madoc Hydro Commission attended Council and related the proper procedures to follow when Council has or gets a request to install street lighting. Their inspectors require that all requests must have Council approval which is sent to the Hydro Office. They in turn will get the contractor to install the light. Reeve Deline thanked them for coming out and telling council of the necessary steps to follow.

5) Councillor Connerty also reported that the Recreation Committee is no longer required as all clubs are working quite well on their own. Councillor Kramp stated that he is working on the details to revamp the operation and will have more details for the December meeting.

6) Councillor Connerty reported that he is working with the local post master for delivery of the Skills Catalogue.

5. A motion was passed that the Madoc postmaster be requested to obtain permission to distribute in Madoc post boxes, free of charge, the 'Skills Catalogue' published on a non-profit basis by the Village of Madoc for the good of the community. Carried.

7) Reeve Deline stated that he was appearing at the County Board of Education meeting and will report the decision about their possibility of going to four billings for tax requisitions.

8) A letter from C.T. Rollins re the possible need for a controlled intersection at Hwys. 7 & 62 was discussed with council feeling more information was required and that they felt a need existed. Letters were to be sent to the OPP and the Ministry of Trans. & Comm. for three year accident and traffic count reports.

9) Councillor Connerty reported the problem of pedestrians crossing the By-pass to get to the Arena. After Council talked about the danger the following resolution was presented: That Madoc Township be notified of the village's concern for the safety of the pedestrian traffic crossing Hwy. 7 at the county road.

Senior Citizens' Club meeting

The Sr. Citizens' Club 473 held their church hall. There were 56 members present. The president Mrs. Alma Blackburn opened the meeting with a poem on "November" and "A boy's mother". O Canada was sung and all were welcomed to the meeting. The birthday song was sung for the November birthdays. Miss Mary Taylor read the minutes. The club enjoyed the trip to Quinte Mall and to the show the "Magnificent Obsession". There will be a bus trip to the Warkworth Penitentiary the 7th of December. A Christmas program will be put on by the inmates. The members should be at the church at 11:30. The zone meeting will be Dec. 3rd in Wellington. Mrs. Irene Lake read the correspondence.

A thank you card was received from Mrs. Dora Roushorm. There will be a bus trip to the Quinte Mall Nov. 27th and to the show "San Francisco". The actors are Spencer Tracy and Clark Gable. Our next meeting will be Nov. 28th.

The program was led by Irene Gordon. A minute's silence was given in memory of the veterans that lost their lives at war. A poem was read "Remember the men who came back". Mrs. Goldie Holmes sang "What made the war and what ended it", and "Our Brother". Mrs. Margaret Post read "In Flander's Fields". Mrs. Clara Stevenson sang "Faith of our Fathers" accompanied by Mrs. Margaret Donly at the piano. Mrs. Nina Chapman read "Remembrance Day" and "Nov. 11th Sunday". Mrs. Keitha Moorcroft read "Why wear a poppy". Mrs. Gerald Donaldson favoured all by playing a guitar and singing "My Country" by Tommy Collins. Mrs. Keitha Moorcroft read a poem "Today" for Allan McCoy. Mrs. Irene Gordon read "November Birthdays" and "Lest We Forget". Gerald Donaldson played and sang "Where are all the flowers gone", "My Father's Farm" and "Poor Folks". "Grandma's Whistle" and all joined in on "What a friend we have in Jesus".

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Keitha Moorcroft. Sorry to hear Mr. Ed Gates is in Belleville Hospital. The meeting closed with God Save the Queen. Lunch was served and a social half hour was enjoyed by all.

Sunday, Nov. 11th, is the day we remember our Comrades who gave their lives so that we can live in a better world with hope and peace for all man kind.

Our day started out with a very fine turnout of Legion members, Ladies Auxiliary, cadets, Scouts, Brownies, etc. marching from the Legion to our Padre's Church, (Rev. Adams) Trinity United, for service at 11 a.m.

Your secretary had the pleasure of joining with the choir of the church under organist and choir director Carol Brett for the service.

A very inspiring sermon was given by our Padre based on The Price of a Miracle.

I should say here how nice it was to see from the front of the church our parade coming into the church under Parade Marshall Comrade Don Ash and the Colour Party under Sgt. at Arms Pat Willman.

Following the service in the church, the parade formed up outside to move off to the Cenotaph, for the laying of the wreaths.

At the Cenotaph our President, Comrade Harry Dennis, acted as M.C. and our Sgt. at Arms's daughter, Miss Willman, led the singing of O Canada and The Queen, and Rev. Adams said the benediction. Many thanks to Mr. Bruce Allan for playing the last post.

Following the service at the Cenotaph, the parade moved off to the Legion where a social hour was enjoyed by all.

At this point, I would like to thank the Legion Members, Ladies Auxiliary under

Minor Hockey receives badly needed funds

The Madoc Minor Hockey Association received a needed boost this week when they had a total of $700 donated to them by the Kinnettes and Kinsmen. Sonny Osborne received the cheques and thanked the clubs on behalf of the 135 boys registered in the hockey program this year. "Our registration is up drastically this year and we have four teams in the Trent Valley League. The ice bill for two weeks of hockey was $1,100, so we can use all the help we can get."

Above, Kinnettes Karen Smith, Donna Love, Sandra Brownson and Carol Anne Kramp present a cheque of $200 to Mr. Osborne. The Kinnettes raised the money from the Summerfest booth.

Sonny Osborne receives another cheque for $500 from the Kinsmen Club for the Madoc Minor Hockey Association. Bob outstanding play of goaltender

The Madoc midget hockey team, behind solid goaltending by Sam Danford, skated away with a 9-7 victory over the Brighton midgets on Thursday night. Allowing seven goals would not seem to indicate that a goaltender had a particularly good night, but Sam kept his team alive early in the game and allowed them to build up a 6-2 lead after two periods of hockey. Sam consistently stopped the first shot, and often two or three rebound shots, to hold Brighton off the scoreboard while the Madoc midgets were regaining their composure after taking a large number of penalties.

Both teams came out and played relatively conservative hockey, although both teams had good chances on the opposing net. Sam Danford made several spectacular saves at this point, while his counterpart in the Brighton net was also forced to make saves to hold the Madoc shooters off the scoreboard. It wasn't until the dying minutes of the first period that either team was able to score and it was Brighton who notched the first marker at 2:32 on the clock.

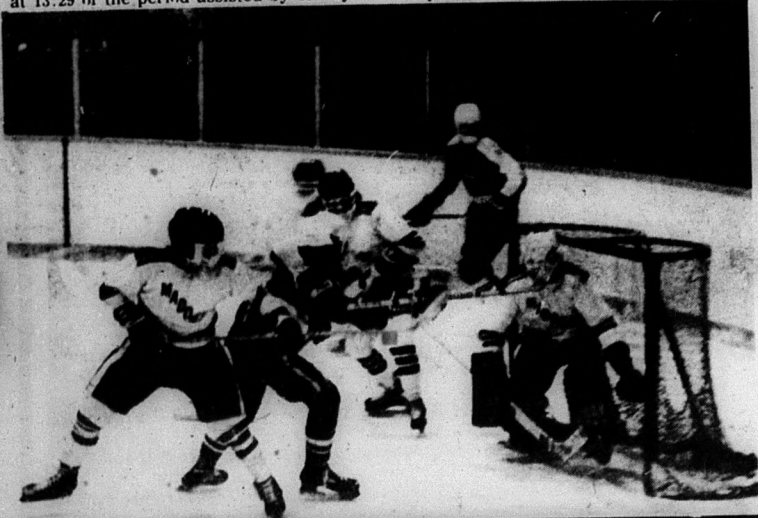

This goal seemed to act as the spark that got the Madoc squad going and, in a span of 21 seconds, Madoc notched two goals to end the period with a 2-1 lead. Andy Ringelman got the first goal, assisted by Randy Gray at the 1:09 mark and Robert Empey then scored at the forty-eight second mark, assisted by Darryl Love and Andy Ringelman.

The beginning of the second period saw the Madoc squad continue to put pressure on the Brighton team and add four more goals in the period, even though they spent much of the latter half of the period playing a man short. Darryl Love scored at 13:29 of the period assisted by Randy

Gray and Andy Ringelman. Randy Gray notched the second marker of the period at 7:53 and was assisted by Andy Ringelman. Thirty-five seconds later, Randy Gray scored again with Ringelman and Bryan Willemsen assisting. Brighton brought the score to 5-2 when they beat Sam Danford at 3:37 on a power play. Randy Gray completed his hat trick a few seconds later, assisted by Craig Reeves, to round out the scoring for the period.

In the third period, Madoc took eighteen minutes of penalties which allowed the Brighton team to make a game of what to this point looked like a rout for Madoc. At 19:12 and 15:18 of the period, Brighton notched markers to bring the score to 6-4 in favor of Madoc. The Madoc squad settled down for several minutes and again got on the scoreboard. Randy Gray collected his fourth consecutive goal with an assist going to Brad Love. Bryan Willemsen followed suit less than three minutes later with a solo effort. Madoc then got in penalty trouble and Brighton came back with two quick goals at 5:59 and 4:44 to make the score 8-6. Andy Ringelman rounded out the scoring for the home team on a solo effort at the :44 second mark of the period before Brighton scored the last goal of the game at the :30 second mark. Madoc had played most of the period at least one man short several times.

They managed to fight off the comeback by the Brighton team but will have to stay out of the penalty box if they hope to win the return match in Brighton on Tuesday night. The midgets looked impressive when they stuck to hockey and have the potential to do well in their league. Very few fans attended the game and missed a very entertaining hockey game.

meeting with Mr. Hagerman to go over several areas of the proposal.

11) A letter of replay was received from the OPP re Vendors at Hwys. 7 & 62 stating they (OPP) would watch for the problem and deal with it if it return.

12) A letter from Blue Cross related a change in coverage policy was coming from OHIP. To continue supplementary coverage the rates would jump drastically. Council advised that if the Village employees wanted the coverage the employee would be responsible for the extra premium cost.

13) Councillor Pigden reported that he had had a discussion with Mrs. Hilda Anderson re the possible expansion of the Council Chambers which might include her apartment. She requested the use of the apartment for the winter, which received concurrence from Council.

14) The Clerk reported that Mrs. Mary Crane requested that the Village look after the clearing of her lots with the costs being billed to her. Council agreed to this proposal.

Reeve Deline reported that at the last meeting October 24th, 1979, three catch basins were approved by Council with two to go to the Kramp property to alleviate water problems. An on site meeting was held with Daryl Kramp, Jim Hase of J.D. Lee, Reeve Deline and Foreman Crawford. The result was that no installation would take place.

15) Before the approval of the account payments Councillor Pigden declared conflict of interest in requesting payment of the Fire Dept. bills as one of those included a bill for work he had done on the Relay Equip. through Pigden's Radio.

2. A motion passed that accounts are approved for payment. Councillor Pigden, abstained from voting.

16) Village Foreman Percy Crawford attended Council and gave a report on the upcoming work and present status. The Bolens tractor required extensive repairs in the area of $1000.00. Being cheaper than replacement the Council gave approval for the repairs. He also stated that a new snowblower was required and at this received Council approval.

4. The Village of Madoc will purchase a new snowblower as to the requirements from Hulins Garage.

17) Mr. and Mrs. Dale Smith attended Council with a request to build a house on McKenzie Street. Council related that they would have to obtain a Minor Variance of Plan and will be required to apply through the Committee of Adjustment for this.

18) Council reviewed, discussed and requested filing of the following correspondence:

- a) Ontario Good Roads Association
 - b) ROMA Annual Conference
 - c) Letter from Phil Kellar re barking dog complaint
 - d) Ministry brochure of Group Homes
 - e) Metric Training Package.
- The Roads Committee was asked to look into the letters received about Structural Analysis of Bridges and report at the next meeting.

19) The Madoc Review Newspaper wrote to Council asking to be able to get special parking arrangements for Tuesdays for the loading and unloading of the truck. Council was not able to concur with the request and a letter was to go out to that effect.

9. By-law no. 1037 being a By-law relating to Owners and Drivers of Taxis be given its third and final reading and passed this 13th day of November 1979. Carried.

new rector

Madoc Anglicans installed their new rector Sunday November 11th, in the new form of an ancient ceremony. Paul Michael Kompass designed his own Induction service, drawing on innovations from both Canadian and U.S. sources.

Members of the congregation came forward on cue with "parts" to play as readers and representatives, culminating in applause and a shout of "Welcome".

Presided over by the Rt. Rev. Henry G. Hill, Bishop of Ontario, assisted by the Venerable Michael Caswell, Archdeacon of Ontario, and by the Rural Dean, the Rev. Alan W. Lauder of Stirling and Canon Alfred Smith, Honorary Assistant, Christ Church, Belleville. In attendance were the Rev. Clive Clapson of St. Thomas, Belleville, and the Rev. Jack Howard of Marmora.

Paul Kompass came to Madoc in September from St. Simon's in Oakville. In addition to Madoc, he serves also the churches of Bannockburn and Millbridge, and in the short time he has been here, with his wife Kathy and three young sons, has established himself warmly and firmly.

by JOANNE LAKE

Welcome home Travis Hannah. It's nice to see you're feeling better and home from the hospital.

The Anglican Church in Bannockburn will have its annual bake sale and bazaar on Saturday Nov. 24th beginning at 10:00 o'clock. I've been there and tasted their goods, and boy, are they ever good goods. Everyone is welcome to attend.

We were sorry to hear about Mr. Donaldson having a heart attack last week. We sincerely hope he recovers soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Kennedy enjoyed an evening of delicious dining at Mothers Restaurant this week. The Kennedy's will soon be leaving the Pentecostal Church in Madoc. We wish them all the success and happiness in the world.

Everyone mark on their calendar these two dates. Dec. 18th at 8:00 p.m. is the Township school's Christmas Concert and Dec. 23 at 7:30 is the Bannockburn Pentecostal Church Sunday School concert. Please mark these down and plan on attending. A lot of time and effort goes into these concerts by the children as well as the parents and teachers. It will only be as successful as you make it. See you there.

VILLAGE OF MADOC

Notice of Application

The Corporation of the Village of Madoc is to be making Application to the Ontario Municipal Board for Amends to its Land Use By-Law. It is suggested all residents of the Village read the following proposal.

Tom Deline
Reeve

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

Notice of Application to the Ontario Municipal Board by the Corporation of the Village of Madoc for approval of a by-law to regulate land use passed pursuant to Section 35 of the Planning Act R.S.O. 1970.

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Village of Madoc intends to apply to the Ontario Municipal Board pursuant to the provisions of Section 35 of the Planning Act for approval of By-law Number 1025 passed on the 1st day of October, 1979. A copy of the By-law is furnished herewith and a note giving an explanation of the purpose and effect of the By-law and stating the lands affected thereby is also furnished herewith.

ANY PERSON INTERESTED MAY, within twenty-one (21) days after the date of this Notice, send by registered mail or deliver to the Clerk of the Village of Madoc notice of objection to approval of the By-law or part thereof giving details of all or the portion of the By-law to which you object, and detailed reasons thereof, and shall indicate that if a hearing is held the objector or an agent will attend at the meeting to support the objection.

ANY PERSON wishing to support the application for approval of the By-law may within twenty-one (21) days after the date of this Notice send by registered mail or deliver to the Clerk of the Village of Madoc notice of his support of approval of the said By-law together with a request for notice of any hearing that may be held giving also the name and address to which such notice should be given.

THE ONTARIO MUNICIPAL BOARD may approve of the said By-law but before doing so may appoint a time and place when any objection to the By-law will be considered. Notice of any hearing that may be held will be given only to persons who have filed an objection or notice of support and who have left with or delivered to the Clerk undersigned, the address to which notice of hearing is to be sent, and similarly, to any person who has filed a request for a change in the provisions of the By-law.

THE LAST DATE FOR FILING OBJECTIONS WILL BE DECEMBER 12th, 1979.

DATED AT THE VILLAGE OF MADOC NOVEMBER 21, 1979.

Mr. Doug Parks,
Clerk-Treasurer,
Village of Madoc,
Box 310,

THE CORPORATION OF THE VILLAGE OF MADOC AN EXPLANATORY NOTE TO BY-LAW NO. 1025

The following is a summary and explanation of By-law Number 1025 which amends By-law Number 986, a comprehensive Restricted Area (Zoning) By-law affecting land in the Village of Madoc.

The effect of this By-law is to alter By-law 986 by making revisions to certain parts of Plate 'A' Zone Map as shown on map enclosed.

The purpose of such alterations is to resolve a number of objections to By-law Number 986. If you submitted an objection to By-Law No. 986 it is requested that you give careful attention to this amending By-law. Should the attached By-law satisfactorily resolve your objection it is requested that written notice be given to the Clerk of the Village of Madoc withdrawing such objection.

The changes of this amendment on the properties involved are shown as:

1. Lots 29 to 35 inclusive on the south side of Furnace Street shall be in Zone D rather than in Zone R-1.
2. Lots 4 and 5 on the west side of Wellington Street shall be in Zone RU rather than in Zone R-1.
3. Lots 2, 3, and 4 on the west side of Prentice Street shall be in Zone D rather than in Zone R-1.
4. Lots 2, 3, and 4 on the east side of Francis Street shall be in Zone D rather than in Zone R-1.
5. Lots 36 to 40 inclusive on the north side of Furnace Street shall be in Zone D rather than in Zone R-1.
6. Plate 'C' provisions for Residential Uses Corporation of the Village of Madoc shall be changed to read as follows:

- (a) Column B, Line 5 under R-1 shall read one acre rather than 22,000.
- (b) Column B, Line 8 under R-1 shall read 150 feet rather than 120 feet.

VILLAGE OF MADOC BY-LAW NUMBER 1025 BEING A BY-LAW TO AMEND FURTHER THE CORPORATION OF THE VILLAGE OF MADOC LAND USE BY-LAW NUMBER 986

WHERE AS by reason of Section 35 and Section 35a of the Planning Act, R.S.O. 1970 Chapter 349, and amendments thereto, the Council is empowered to pass Restricted Area By-laws.

AND WHEREAS there have been enacted By-law number 986, being a Restricted Area By-law, and By-laws numbers 992, 996 and 1,001 amending the same.

AND WHEREAS it is desired to amend further said By-law number 986. NOW THEREFORE the Council of the Corporation of the Village of Madoc enacts as follows:

THAT the said By-law number 986 of the Corporation of the Village of Madoc be and it is hereby amended as follows:

1. Lots 29 to 35 inclusive, on the south side of Furnace Street shall be in Zone D rather than in Zone R1.
2. Lots 4 and 5 on the west side of Wellington Street shall be in Zone RU rather than in Zone R1.
3. Lots 2, 3 and 4 on the east side of Francis Street shall be in Zone D rather than in Zone R1.
4. Lots 2, 3 and 4 on the west side of Prentice Street shall be in Zone D rather than in Zone R1.
5. Lots 36 to 40 inclusive on the north side of Furnace Street shall be in Zone D rather than in Zone R1.

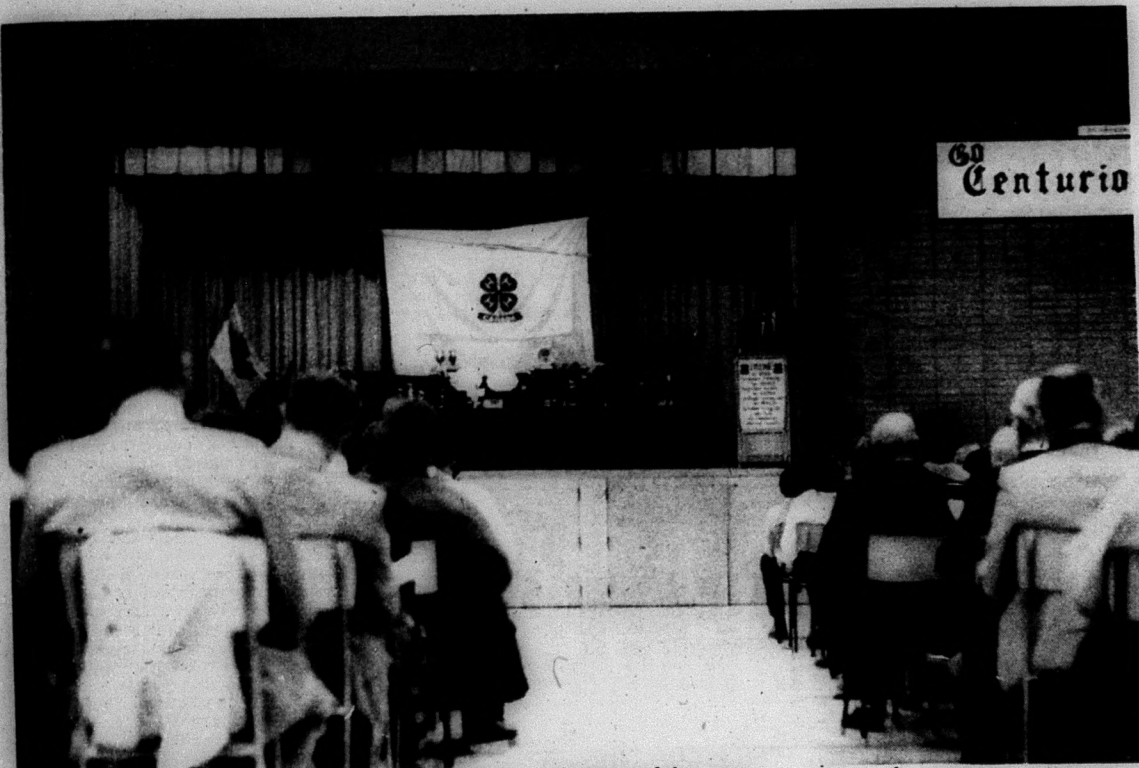

Plate "C" - Provisions for Residential Uses Corporation of the Village of Madoc - shall be changed to read as follows:

- (a) Column B, Line 5 under R1 shall read one acre rather than 22,000.
- (b) Column B, Line 8 under R1 shall read 150 feet rather than 120 feet.

READ A FIRST, SECOND AND THIRD TIME AND FINALLY PASSED
THIS 1st Day of OCTOBER 1979.

County 4-H Awards

Doug Tipper addresses the audience at Centre Hastings Secondary School on Friday night. He talked about the ambassadors to other parts of the country with great pride and felt that the Hastings County 4-H clubs were some of the most active in the area.

As the program said, this was a night for awards and there were a great many of them given to the Hastings County 4-H clubs. A several tiered table was festooned with plaques, trophies, trays, envelopes and various other awards to be presented on this night. If we were to try and publish all of the awards that were presented, we would have no room for anything else in this paper. We will deal with only the major winners of awards and only hope that we do not miss anyone. We acknowledge all who won awards and wish them future success but we will be dealing mainly with those who won awards in our particular areas.

In the Madoc 4-H Calf Club, Mark Robinson won the Madoc Agricultural Society Award as the top member. Ken Yarrow presented the award to him. The Marmora Agricultural Society award for the top member was won by John Brownson and was presented by Gordon Jones.

In the Madoc 4-H potato and field crop competition, Karen Shaw won the Elizabeth Sager Wood trophy, presented by Allan Sager to the top first year member in the potato club. Wilfred Forestall presented the Wilfred Forestall Award to Scott Shaw as the top member in the corn club, while the Madoc Co-operative Association Award was presented to Scott

Shaw by Allan Gavin as the top member in the grain club. In the Eldorado 4-H Maple Syrup Club, Scott Shaw was the top member and received the Ontario Maple Syrup Producers Trophy from his mother, Mrs. Isabel Shaw, while Karen Shaw was the top novice member and received the Shaw's Eldorado Award from her father, Mr. Cyril Shaw. The Madoc-Eldorado 4-H Snowmobile Club saw two members tie for top member. The Sateloma Ranch Award was presented by Wilfred Smith and shared by Scott Shaw and Lonny Smith. In the county presentations, Karen Shaw won the Clarke T. Rollins, M.P.P. Award as the outstanding first year girl member.

Vincent Brennan, who seemed to be on stage for every second award, closed the program with a speech in which he felt the 4-H programs helped young people to continue the work of self-development. "I remember being a new member of 4-H, many years ago, and contrary to my belief then, there is a lot more to 4-H than just completing a project. There is the opportunity to meet other people, travelling within your area and province, the judging and the opportunity to travel to other parts of the country. (He had represented Ontario in Alberta this year.) You truly 'learn to do by doing' which helps you to choose the life you wish to pursue after 4-H."

Mr. Brennan went on to say that he thought with the calibre of leaders in the 4-H organization, "...it can't help but get better. The organization is in good hands."

I read an article in the Globe and Mail this week about psychology in sport and after attending the COSSA football championship in Peterborough on Friday, I am starting to believe the effect that it can have on a team. At first, I didn't see that it was actually happening because, like most other people involved in that competition, I got swept along by all the hype that goes with a game of this magnitude. However, after seeing what took place and the result of the game, I realized that psychology had played a major role in the game.

I think several things contributed to the fact that the junior Centurion football team lost that game. The major reason that many people will give for that defeat is that the Centurions did not play as well as the Adam Scott team and, true as that may be, I think there were some very good reasons for that result.

First and foremost to me is the fact that the game was played on Adam Scott's field. The home team 'advantage' was prevalent from the outset of the game and had various effects throughout the game. Playing on a field that is strange to you is a factor in itself but, when that field is surrounded by several hundred fans who are cheering for the other team and those fans make a point of letting you know that they think you are the inferior team, has a very damaging effect on the positive attitude that a team likes to take into a game.

The home team can generally muster more of that fan support and in the case of a school, they let their students out of school to support the team. This was the case in Peterborough. Although there would have been in the neighborhood of one to two hundred fans from Centre Hastings at the game, they were relatively insignificant when compared to the much larger numbers of Adam Scott supporters. Also, the Adam Scott supporters lined the inside of the field that the benches were located on while the Centurion fans were mixed with the crowd on the other side of the field. From standing near the Centurion bench for most of the game, you could hear very clearly some of the derogatory comments directed at the Centurions as well as the many cheers of support for the Adam Scott team. Because the Centurion supporters were on the other side of the field, and the weather was bad, you could hear very little of the supporting cheers from our fans. As the first half progressed, it became quite evident what kind of effect this was having on the Centurions.

The television, radio and newspaper reporters were also something that the junior Centurions were not used to coping with. Before the game, T.V. personnel visited the dressing room and advised the team that they would be introducing themselves to the television audience and it wasn't long before many of the players were thinking more about that than they were about the game. They were in a whole new environment from the games that were played at Centre Hastings, where the crowd would be a good one if there were one hundred spectators and they would be getting good coverage if one reporter showed up.

To me, that game should not only be a learning experience for the team, it should also be a learning experience for the fans of the Centurions. During our writeups of games in the regular season, we have mentioned several times the importance of having fan support. In a game as important as this one, the fans can play a very important role in the success of their game and the fans should be aware of that role.

Your team was being bombarded by hype that was putting more importance on the individuals than they realized. A team's fans can bring them back down to earth by surrounding them and keeping a lot of the extra hype from getting to them. Make them aware that they are still playing for their school and that no matter what happens during the game, that support will still be there.

Fans should stay as close to their team as possible in a game like this so that they hear that support and are thus in the environment that they are used to being in. At the game in Peterborough, the Centurions were mainly surrounded by Adam Scott supporters who were doing everything in their power to distract the Centurions' attention from the game. Had they had more of their fans near them blocking out that distraction and cheering them on, I really think that they would have done better in that first half.

I am not saying that their fans should be antagonizing the Adam Scott fans. Fighting over a football game, no matter how important, is the height of the ridiculous and is not the way that our teams, who have good reputations as sportsmen who do not resort to cheap tactics, should be supported. But, if the fans are surrounding the team, they can drown out some of that noise from the other fans and can supply some friendly faces for the team when they come back to the bench.

I came away from Peterborough with the very positive impression that our team will again be involved in similar circumstances next year. They will have a lot of tough games between now and then and will be facing a lot of teams who will try everything in their power to prevent them from returning to COSSA. However, I think the junior Centurions learned a great deal at that game and were humiliated enough to want to compete in COSSA again and bring back that trophy. Adam Scott had had a similar experience last year, which only made them that much more determined to win this year. That experience and the support of their fans made the difference in this year's game. They were tough and determined, but they were not a better team than ours. They had just been through it before and never lost sight of their objective. If we learn from our experience this year, we can do the same thing next year, whether it is Adam Scott that we meet or not.

The one thing that I want to stress in this editorial is that we have to learn from the experience so that we can defend against the same thing next year. I don't mean that we have to use the same tactics if we are the home team but that we should remember what we learned and see that it doesn't affect our team the same way. You, the fans, are probably the most important part of a game like this and you can make or break your team. Give them the type of support that you would like to get if you were on the team and that team won't let you down.

The junior Centurions have a long time to think about that game and, from the looks of determination that I saw on many of the faces leaving that dressing room, they will use that time to their advantage. The determination will be there as far as the team is concerned. The fans have to support that team and help carry them back into COSSA next year.

I am certain that our fans cared every bit as much about our team as the Adam Scott supporters did for their team. I know that many fans were as emotionally drained after that game as the players themselves. We had all of the ingredients, we just didn't mix them properly this year. Everyone from the newest grade nine student to the oldest grade thirteen student, has to ensure that the pride that was so evident this year, is used properly next year and it has to start from day one and go right through until the captain of the team accepts that COSSA championship trophy.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Beginning with the January 2nd, 1980 issue, the classified advertising rate will be increased from 7 cents per word to 10 cents per word and the minimum charge from $1.50 to $2.00.

The rates for Classified Display advertising will increase from $3.30 per column inch to $4.40 per column inch.

This increase in rates is represented by the substantial rise in costs of all materials (chemicals, typesetting paper, newsprint and labor costs over the past 4 years since our last rate increase.

As some of you already know a classified ad placed in any of our individual local papers (Madoc Review, Marmora Herald, Havelock Citizen, Norwood Register and Hastings Star) runs in all 5 of these papers at the one rate.

This gives every ad over 6,500 circulation reaching approximately 20,000 people in this area, tremendous coverage for a very small expenditure.

Our advertisers have indicated an excellent response on their ads and we know that we can continue to serve our regular customers well and look forward to being of service to those of you who have not yet taken advantage of our "action" classified section.

However, we shall continue to allow a 20 per cent discount for all prepaid advertisements run in our classified section.

Townson - Robinson wedding at Wesleyan

The Wesleyan and Free Methodist Church, Madoc, was the scene of a pretty fall wedding on Sept. 29, 1979, when Rev. Lawrence Mack united in Holy Matrimony, Patricia Anne Townson, daughter of Mrs. Audrey Townson of 233 St. Lawrence St. E., Madoc and the late Albert Townson to Douglas Brian Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Robinson, R.R.1, Madoc.

The bride entered the Church on the arm of the groom's father and was given in marriage by her mother.

The dark haired bride was radiant in a floor length white gown fashioned by herself with rounded neckline and lace insert. The full length sleeves were elasticized at the wrist. To complement her ensemble, a full length attached train fell gracefully to the floor. Completing her outfit a three quarter length veil, trimmed with lace and attached to a sequined cap, adorned her hair. Her bouquet was of orange and white polyester roses.

Joanne Rivers was matron of honour for her sister in a floor length lime green gown with ruffled neckline and sleeves

For the reception at the Kiwanis Centre, the bride's mother received her guests in a floor length, pink flowered, sheer interlock gown, with shoulder cape and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother assisted in a street length jade green interlock gown, with a corsage of yellow roses.

Master of ceremonies for the occasion was Mr. Ken Burns, R.R.1, Madoc. He was the uncle of the groom.

Following the reception, approximately 250 people enjoyed dancing to Disc Jockey, Lawrence Turcotte.

Out of town guests were from, Toronto, Brighton, Belleville, Marmora, Tweed, Warkworth, Campbellford, Oshawa and Madoc.

The happy couple are now residing in Madoc.

and a line skirt. Her bouquet was yellow and white polyester roses.

The bridesmaids were Debbie Reynolds, friend of the bride, Marilyn Townson, sister of the bride and Wendy Robinson, sister of the groom, all of Madoc. Their gowns were identical to the matron of honour, with the exception of being peach in colour. They each carried peach polyester roses.

The bestman was Gary Robinson of Madoc, brother of the groom.

The ushers were: Grant Robinson, Madoc, brother of the groom, Ron Burns, Belleville, cousin of the groom and Shane Winterburn, Madoc, friend of the groom.

The groom was attired in a dark brown tuxedo, with a rose boutonniere taken from his bride's bouquet.

The bestman and ushers wore beige tuxedos with trim and trousers of dark brown. The bestman wore a yellow boutonniere and the ushers wore peach boutonnieres to match the bridesmaids.

Wallpaper was invented in the early 16th century when someone, probably in Italy, observed that the decorated paper used for book linings might look attractive on the wall.

McGarvey - Lloyd nuptials

St. Andrew's United Church in Marmora was the scene of a military wedding on August 11, 1979, when Roxanne Elizabeth McGarvey and Master Corporal Warren E. Lloyd were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony with Rev. Tilley B. Ashell officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald McGarvey of Marmora and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Lloyd of Elmwood Drive, R.R. 4, Belleville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional gown of silk jersey knit with a high rolled pleated neckline, front V-lace insert with daisies, and long sleeves. The skirt flowed out to a chapel length train from the hemline. Her Juliet cap with seed pearls and daisies held in place her three tier silk illusion veil with daisies scattered over it. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of peach roses, white and peach miniature roses and baby's breath with white lace ribbon.

Janet McGarvey, of Belleville, sister of the bride was maid of honour. She wore a delicate mint green jersey gown with double spaghetti straps and empire waist. The matching lace jacket had capelet sleeves. She carried a silk bouquet of yellow and white daisies, mint green jasmine and baby's breath with a green velvet ribbon.

Bridesmaid was Janice Watson of Belleville, sister of the bride. Janice wore a gown identical to that of her twin sister, the maid of honour. She carried a matching colonial bouquet.

Kristin Gerber of Cobourg, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She looked charming in her long white and green flowered eyelet dress with tiny pinch pleats around the bodice and the bottom of the skirt and eyelet lace around the neckline and cap sleeves. She carried a white basket of miniature flowers and baby's breath to match the other attendants.

Best man was Master Corporal Ivan Deveau of Ottawa. Master Corporal Alex

Marin was head usher. He was assisted by the Honour Guard, Cpl. Lyle Grams, Cpl. Dave MacPherson, Cpl. Leo Lynam and Pvt. Ray Parmiter.

Little John Lloyd of Belleville, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer. He carried the rings on a white satin pillow with green ribbon. He wore a green and white checked jacket with green trousers, mint green shirt and tie. His boutonniere was a miniature rose. The groom, best man, usher and Honour Guard were all dressed in dark green uniforms of the Armed Forces and all wore white gloves. The guards wore white web belts. They all wore boutonnieres of white carnations. The attendants are all comrades of Mr. Lloyd's from the Ottawa armed forces base.

Mr. Ronald Moffat was organist. A trio - Susan Mitchell, Linda Sanderson and Donna Walker sang, "Morning Has Broken" and "Hear My Prayer". During the signing of the register they sang "There Is Love". They were accompanied by Mrs. Robert Sanderson at the piano.

The church was beautifully decorated with large baskets of silk flowers, a candelabra with white candles, white daisies and green fern.

The bride and groom were piped out of the church by Douglas Burns of Belleville.

cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother received the guests in a gown of delicate bronze jersey with a blouson bodice and capelet sleeves and gold coloured accessories. Her corsage was made of white roses with tinted centres.

The groom's mother wore a full length peach gown of polyester silk with a figured poncho type cape and white accessories. Her corsage was made of tinted white roses and velvet ribbon.

A dinner and dance was held at the Marmora Community Centre. Mr. James Lloyd, brother of the groom, was master of ceremonies. Terry McGarvey, brother of the bride, proposed a toast to the bride and groom.

The bride chose as her going away outfit a flowered chiffon dress of mint green with a gathered cape collar and an over shirt and white accessories. Her corsage was made of tinted roses and baby's breath to match her dress.

Following a wedding trip to Eastern Ontario the couple have taken up residence in Ottawa.

Out-of-town guests were present from Ottawa, Toronto, Oshawa, Dunnville, Kitchener, Barrie, Peterborough, Cobourg, Belleville, Corbyville, Napanee and Inuvik, North West Territories.

Question: What has the Shah of Iran's illness to do with the Ontario chicken producers' march in Ottawa November 9th? Answer. It resulted in their failing to make their point to President Carter as planned. You don't get it? Well, it goes this way. If the Shah had not gone to the United States for an operation, the Iranian students would not have seized U.S. hostages in Iran and President Carter would have arrived in Ottawa on schedule November 9th when the chicken farmers paraded before the Parliament Buildings to protest the federal government's recently announced decision to increase imports of chickens from the United States. It seems like a very remote chain reaction, but the events followed each other just as closely as did the events following the downfall of the Liberal Government and the appointment of John Wise as Agricultural Minister - the one responsible for the new import policy.

This was the second time the farmers had gone to Ottawa to protest since the government handed down its import figures, and they will continue to go to Ottawa and protest, says Norwood chicken farmer George Terpstra, who with six other farmers from this area joined the delegation from across Ontario on November 9th.

"I am not as badly hit as some of the others", he said. "I merely remodelled an old barn at a cost of about $4000 but a lot of the other farmers have put on extensions to their buildings which will cost them $50 or $60,000."

Bob Bailey, also of Norwood, is one of the farmers to have just completed an addition to that cost which he foresees standing idle now that the new regulations have been handed down. It is not exactly clear to the average chicken eater just how increased imports will cause Ontario chicken growers to have buildings standing idle. I called on George Terpstra and Bob Bailey to try to have it explained and find out what all the beefing about chicken imports is about.

Import quotas growing

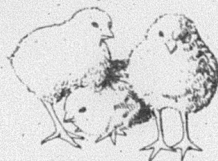

It's because, based on figures of population growth and increased consumption we had all been given projected higher quotas of chicken for the future by the marketing board - and it was because of these promises of higher quotas many farmers have gone ahead with expansion", explained George Terpstra. "We also have a national agency which was started back in '74 to try to set the percentage of imports at 1 per cent and to make these imports available to all processors in Canada, not just the processors and retailers who brought in U.S. chickens from 1976 to 1978". This 1 per cent has been promoted by other groups as well as farmers - The Ontario Chicken Producers Marketing Board, The Canadian Chicken Marketing Agency, The Ontario Federation of Agriculture, The Canadian Federation of Agriculture, The Ontario Poultry Processors Association, The Canadian Egg & Poultry Processors Council, The Christian Farmers Federation of Ontario, The Retail Council of Canada, The New Democratic party and the Liberal Party of Canada, but with the advent of the new government that figure has been thrown out and their announced import quotas as recently handed down are: October 22 to December 31, 1979 - 8.75 million lbs; 1980 - 48.5 million lbs; 1981 - 52 million lbs; 1982 and on - 6.3 per cent of Canadian production which could be as high as 70 million lbs. As well, the government has made it easy for importers to get supplemental quotas and this could drive imports as high as 100 million lbs. in the same year.

The quotas will be given completely to importers of record, or to those processors and retailers who brought in American chicken from 1976 to 1978. This means that almost all imports will come into Ontario because even though the quotas are supposed to apply to all Canada, imports in the past have been 75 per cent from Ontario. Of that 75 per cent, two firms have received the major portion - Maple Lodge Farms, to whom most of Ontario's chicken farmers ship their poultry, and Loblaw's. "When they (Maple Lodge) have a market for chicken, the government allows them three days to find them in Ontario. If not available, they can go to the States for them. Chickens are being trucked in over the border every day. We've been sold down the river to the United States and our marketing is being dictated by them", said Bob Bailey. "And it's not just the chicken farmers who suffer. When we want chickens we can't just call on the hatcheries without their having prior planning".

Ottawa puts the squeeze on Ontario's chicken farmers

BY JEANNETTE MOORE

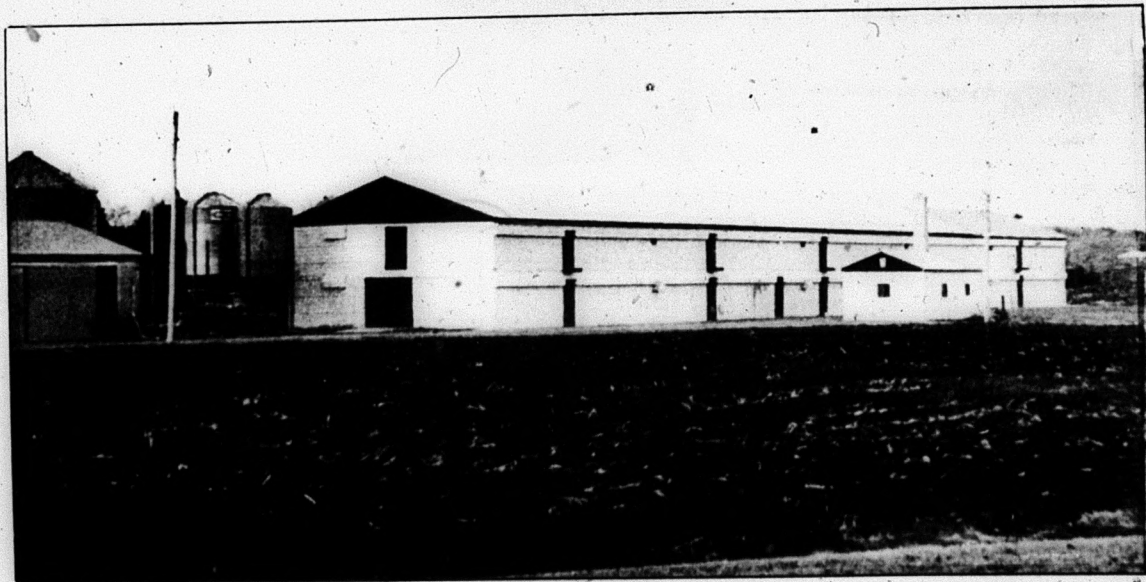

New agriculture minister finds farmers' agency "unrealistic"

The new Minister of Agriculture, John Wise, finds the 1 per cent quota as planned by the marketing board and farmers unrealistic. On a recent CBL farm report program he went on record as saying the new quotas are "a fair deal". On October 25, Liberal M.P. Eugene Whelan called upon the government to renegotiate quotas with the U.S. and "if the U.S. refused, to take them to GATT (General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade) asserting if we did go Canada would win. To this Mr. Wise replied that we would lose if we took U.S. to GATT.

And so the 700 chicken farmers of Ontario, roused to action by a Wainfleet, Ontario farmer, Lou Nieuwland, have been besieging Ottawa with their requests. On November 9th they were met in Ottawa by NDP member Lorne Nystrom, Peter Hannam of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, Albert Van Donkersgoed, Christian Farmer's Federation of Ontario, and Hazen Argue of the Senate Agricultural Committee. John Wise, the Minister of Agriculture was out of town that day and sent a representative Mike Wilson, International Trade Minister to speak to the farmers. "But it was just the same old run around", said Bob Bailey. "And we were disappointed that Jimmy Carter wasn't there. They are always talking self-sufficiency for Canada but by the government not making imports available to all companies they have placed the majority of processors (who have supported our agricultural economy by buying Canadian) under the severe pressure of competing with American chicken being brought into Canada below the costs of our production. Farmers in Ontario are being forced to leave 3,000,000 square feet of barn space empty because of the high amounts of chicken being imported. Farmers and processors will be slowly squeezed out of business and it will not be long before Maple Lodge and Loblaw's will control the whole chicken industry. The people of Canada must realize that such an agreement will hurt consumers in the long run and damage the economy as well. We have the facilities to grow all the chicken for Canada's requirements but for some unknown reason the government feels it is not very important to be self-sufficient in food. The whole agreement seems to be aimed at pleasing two giant companies and keeping the Americans happy rather than being supportive of Canadian agriculture and Canadian people."

George Terpstra stands before the barn which houses his chickens. He has not added to this modern building but not trusting the forecast higher production quotas, remodelled an old barn at a cost of $4,000.

Below is the housing for Bob Bailey's chickens. At the far end a slightly darker roof indicates where he extended facilities at a cost of $60,000.

On family reunions

I don't know if you've ever come home from a war. If you have you'll understand a little about what I'm saying when I tell you it has its ups and downs.

Naturally you're delighted to see your family again; as a matter of fact you're damn glad to see ANYBODY again, and they in turn are fairly pleased to see you.

Many of your old friends are, anyway, and one or two of your relatives.

When you first arrive home from the war they're all fighting over you, just like the enemy did, wanting to take you prisoner and have you come to dinner.

After a very short while, however, they start fighting over who's not going to have you for dinner at all, ever.

Now I've noticed that whenever Margaret and I go home to England to see my family, we walk into the room expecting the massive hello bit, and they all are greeting each other like Stanley and Livingstone, slobbering and drooling over each other and weeping buckets, and I'll swear they haven't set eyes on each other since the last time we were there.

And they all live in a radius of five miles. When I finally staggered home from the war in 1946, Margaret naturally wanted me all to herself, for some reason, and my mother did likewise, if you get my drift, so it was like being a piece of rag on a long rope in a tug-of-war, with Margaret heaving away on the one side, and my mother yanking away at the other.

Take for instance that first New Year's Eve. It was my mother's intention to invite all the family for the Big Re-Union on New Year's Eve as not only I, but my three brothers were all home from the war too, so it was going to be quite a convention.

I have these three brothers, you see, all of whom distinguished themselves with some degree of heroism, having engaged themselves enthusiastically in the affray, whereas I had been no more than a reluctant participant in the business from start to finish.

My sister too had excelled herself: By some totally incredible series of circumstances she had been more than instrumental in discovering a German Spy while she was working in the censorship office in Whitehall, and as we hadn't been all together since before the outbreak of hostilities, my mother was determined that we would all be home so she could tell me about the deeds the others had done while I'd been vacationing in the desert in the Middle East with Montgomery, and in Europe with those young and fancy women of an easy virtue who were flogging their fortunes in Brussels, Paris and Berlin.

My mother was of the belief that she should have first call upon my person due to the fact that she had generously bestowed the benefit of birth upon me initially, whereas Margaret was of the opinion that the seven shillings and sixpence she had personally forked out for the marriage licence gave her the right in fee simple to my undivided ministrations.

But being as she is of a compromising and agreeable disposition, she willingly conceded, after a four day and three night pitched battle, that our first New Year's Eve would indeed be spent at the family mansion.

In spite of it all, it was hardly a success, and the New Year emerged, fresh and innocent, in an atmosphere of polluted jollity slightly soiled by the picturesque accounts of the bravery of my brothers, and the wisdom of my sister, that completely deprived the occasion of any sense of joy.

In the ensuing months that separated the aforementioned tragedy from its successor twelve months later, Malcolm, our son was born.

He was excessively tiny at the time and demanded a fair share of his mother's attention, so that when the next New Year's Eve finally limped exhausted to the finish line, there was no way that Margaret could accompany me to the family hearth to participate in the inevitable annual holocaust.

But being the stout companion that she is, she insisted that I should go alone to the bash while she would valiantly stay at home with the newly born babe and see the New Year over the threshold with a solitary bewilderment.

This she repeated with a fetching sigh as I was on the point of departure, allowing her shoulders to droop dramatically in the manner of Sidney Carton doing his far, far better thing.

With some misgivings therefore, and not a little apprehension, I wished her a happy New Year at approximately eight pip emma and dutifully reported to the maternal pad, where I spent the entire evening in a pillory of remorse, rather like the miserable sinner who hogs the first few pages of the Anglican prayerbook.

When I returned to the bosom of my family at some ungodly hour of the New Era, the fresh new year had apparently dribbled painfully in, and Margaret and the innocent babe were sleeping gainfully, locked in each others arms like two orphans in a thunder storm, as only the wronged can do, both of them wearing the most soul-searing, woebegone expressions of reprehension expressly imprinted there for my singular benefit.

So that accounted for the first two New Year's Eves following my release from military confinement.

Fortunately the next twelve months passed, as they sometimes do, without any further conceptions on Margaret's part, and the New Year number three descended

CYCLOCROSS IN VALES MARMORA

Marmora has had its first taste of cyclocross and, from all available evidence, it thoroughly enjoyed it.

Around 200 people took advantage of unseasonably warm weather to watch as Don Hodgson, a student at Sir Sandford Fleming College, easily rode away with first place in the Ontario Cyclocross Championships.

And most of those people seemed to enjoy and marvel at the spectacle, as evidenced by the fact that the crowd seemed to grow throughout the race.

The race started just after 2 p.m., as scheduled, and Hodgson had completed 12 laps of the gruelling mile and three-quarters course before 3:00 p.m. He took an early lead and steadily increased his advantage throughout the race, lapping some of his competitors as many as four times. Only four other racers finished on the same lap as he did, completing the course. (All racers crossed the finish line when the leader had completed 12 laps, regardless of how many times they had covered the course).

Second place went to Dave Philips and third to Dennis Miserski, both of Toronto. Blair Hagerty of Hamilton was the top junior, finishing fourth overall. Top woman in the race was Anne Solomon. Altogether more than 20 racers took part.

Most Marmora people were impressed by the obviously superior conditioning of the athletes as they rode and ran, carrying their bikes over a course that, as more than one spectator pointed out, most of us would find tiring to walk. Particularly taxing was a section of the course that had the racers carrying their bikes up a long sandy hill from the river to Main St., then up again across McGill to Thomas. From there was the only "easy" part of the course, a breakneck ride down McGill that ended in a turn.

The race will be used to determine the Ontario team at the Canadian Cyclocross Championships in Vancouver next week. Hodgson, the winner here, is given a strong chance to win that race. Also participating there will be Marmora's Dave Viney, who organized but did not participate in Sunday's event.

Viney said he was pleased with the local response to the event and hopes to run it in Marmora again next year. Judging by the way it's caught on, we might see a far more organized and more widely promoted version in the future.

CSA advises using only approved hockey masks

Last season 12 hockey players were legally blinded compared to eight in the previous one according to reports received by Dr. Tom Pashby, a Toronto ophthalmologist and chairman of the Canadian Standards Association (CSA) Committee on Protective Equipment for Hockey and Lacrosse Players.

During the 1977-78 season, Pashby received reports of eight eyes legally blinded, while the 1978-79 statistics show 12 eyes lost. None of the players injured were wearing hockey face protectors - a fact which disturbs Pashby who has been treating eye injuries to hockey players for over 30 years.

"The youngest victim to lose an eye was 19 years old and the rest were in their 20s and 30s," explains Pashby. "The younger players are forced by their leagues to wear face protectors, but the older players are playing pick-up hockey and are not required to wear masks. The result is more injuries to the older players."

CSA has published standards for face protectors and tests and certifies them. So far, the program is voluntary, which means that non-certified masks can be sold next to certified ones.

"The wise hockey player should buy and wear a CSA certified hockey mask. Look for the mark before you purchase", says Pashby. "The statistics certainly prove the success of this program. For instance, last year there were 42 eye injuries reported, the year before 53, and in '74 and '75, before face protectors were widely used, we had 253 eye injuries and 42 eyes lost."

Pashby also suggests goal tenders not wear moulded masks because current models fail to meet CSA standards.

Over the last three hockey seasons, 12 goalies received eye injuries. They were all wearing moulded masks. Of these 12, five eyes were legally blinded. Moulded masks, especially those not custom made, do not provide adequate protection.

"The new CSA standards have been improved and now offer sufficient protection for goal tenders. We're also concerned with the number of dental claims. We will be investigating these to see what improvements can be made."

WOODS WATER AND WILDLIFE

Winter bird watching

November's cold winds have pushed most of our familiar summer birds on their way southwards. But amongst the stark greyness of southern Ontario's woodlots, so recently stripped of their autumn finery, another migration is just arriving. Many birds of the Arctic reaches or the northern coniferous forests find our area to be the ideal wintering spot.

This past weekend we welcomed back perhaps the most characteristic of these winter visitors - snow buntings. Swooping and swirling across the snowy fields, these whitish "snowbirds" seem to almost disappear, only to reappear a second later as the black patch in their wings is turned towards you. Like other finches, snow buntings are seed-eaters, and weedy fields can regularly attract large flocks.

Another of our winter birds has been here for weeks now - the slate-coloured junco. This sparrow-like bird is handsomely outfitted in soft grey above and off-white below, with striking white flashes on the tail when it flies. The incessant trills and twitters of the junco, which breeds in a broad range across central Canada, are a familiar sound around many winter feeders.

Not all winter birds are so subdued in colour. The evening grosbeak, so named because of its massive seed-cracking beak, has a dusky yellow body with contrasting black wings and white shoulder patches. Its cousin and oftentimes companion, the purple finch, is actually brighter than the name suggests, with a rich rosy hue.

The roster of winter arrivals continues to grow. Northern shrikes, robin-sized predators with the bizarre habit of impaling their victims on thorns, are a relatively rare find. So are crossbills, whose erratic wanderings occasionally bring large flocks to southern Ontario. Much more common is the golden-crowned kinglet, the midget of the bird world, whose olive-green drabness is accentuated only by a yellow stripe down the top of the head. These hyperactive little birds, whose summer diet is largely insects, somehow survive even the harshest winter storms deep in evergreen thickets.

For those who enjoy birds, November often seems like a bleak and dreary month - the end of the fullness of summer. But don't put away your binoculars and bird books till spring - a whole new set of feathered friends is just arriving. With the help of a well-stocked feeder, lots of warm clothes, and plenty of patience, winter can be an interesting and rewarding season to learn more about Ontario's birds.

upon us with the customary summons to the ancestral lean-to once again hovering over our craniums like the avenging sword of Democles.

But I should tell you that this time Margaret was doing what any of you would be doing at this stage. She was digging in her heels with a heavy fist, and she was explaining to me in implicit terms and with an icy, exaggerated politeness, that as she has already sacrificed, with some reluctance she might tell me, all claims to my marital indulgence for the last two years of New Year's Eveing, she had no intention of perpetuating the performance, and that this year we would both be jolly well staying at home and that I would leave the house in the traditional manner, at five minutes prior to the midnight hour bearing on my person a chunk of coal and a loaf of bread, and that if I had imagined for one cotton-picking moment that she was about to sit home alone with the baby one more time while I went gallivanting all over hell's half acre, I could just sit back and give it another think.

When she finally paused for a bit of breath, as she sometimes does though not too often, we had decided unanimously that I would stay home.

My mother, my heroic brothers and my psychic sister who had unmasked the Spy, quite by a colossal fluke, I might add, were all made totally and irrevocably aware of our decision and they were all duly informed that no amount of cajoling, persuasion, pleading or tantrumming on their part would in any way serve to bend Margaret's resolve in the matter.

And in this vein the Great Day fell upon us.

I stayed home stoically, like the splendid, thoughtful, devoted husband and father that I have always told you I am, and by way of compensation I carefully stocked the refrigerator with a comely selection of Newcastle Brown Ale and the best Bass' Bitter, to which I am particularly prone, and I managed to consume a fair portion of the potion during the course of the evening.

And at ten minutes to midnight, I latched onto a chunk of coal and a loaf of bread and I betook myself without.

There I shallied, shivering in the crisp night air. The bells had not yet started to chime. Margaret was within, her eyes glued to the clock and her ears festooned on the radio and waiting for Guy Lombardo to break into Auld Lang Syne.

I broke into a sweat. And the reason I broke into a sweat was quite a natural one. For I had consumed the odd cask of Newcastle Brown Ale, along with the Bass' Bitter, and you are undoubtedly aware that a liquid diet of the immensity of my capacity has a way of demanding an exit visa at the most inopportune moments, and no excuses are acceptable.

Not even on New Year's Eve.

At midnight. So all of a sudden I was presented with this pressing need to pay my respects to the fluid demands of a capricious nature.

Whereupon I took up my stance on the top step and I proceeded to spray the asparagus, rotating from side to side to spread the good tidings in a slow, sweeping arc, in the manner of a lazy lawn sprinkler.

What I didn't know, however, was the fact that my watch was five minutes slow.

And just at that precise moment Guy Lombardo decided to spray the living room with his Auld Lang Syne and Margaret, with a magnificent, inspired gesture, releasing all the pent-up ardour of three years' accumulated frustration of happy new-yearing, flung wide the front door with a grandiloquent flourish of trumpets and french horns at the very moment that I was about to terminate my third expansive sweep to the north-west.

She came a-running down the steps, her arms extended in a truly endearing manner, exclaiming in a loud, resonant screech...HAPPY NEW...OUCH!

And S-W-O-O-S-H!

With the impact of the Poseidon Adventure she received it right slap squarely between the Lang and the Syne!

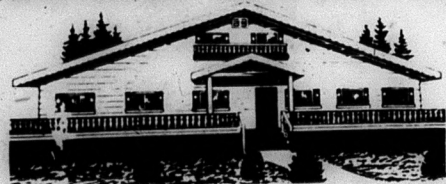

Winter Road Reporting service

The Ministry of Transportation and Communications has announced that its Winter Road Reporting Service for the public will go into operation on November 5.

The Road Information Centre at Toronto and the Ministry's district offices throughout the province have up-to-date information on the condition of all provincial and secondary highways 24 hours a day, seven days a week during the winter months.

Information on winter road conditions may be obtained around the clock by telephoning MTC offices in Ontario. In Kingston the number is (613) 544-2523; in Port Hope (416) 885-6351; in Bancroft (613) 332-3621.

CAMPBELLFORD STIRLING TRENTON

IN BRIEF:

HAVELOCK THE CITIZEN

The Havelock Council has passed a bylaw outlawing domestic animals in the village. Several complaints about chickens being raised within the town have brought about this action on the part of councillors.

Deputy-Reeve Jack Whitney, a fire prevention-minded village resident who spends much of his working hours telling Forest Industry firms how to prevent loss from fire, himself suffered a serious house fire last week. Although a smoke detector was within five feet of a blaze that was smouldering for hours in an outside wall, smoke did not enter the house in sufficient quantities to set off an alarm until 20 minutes after firefighters arrived at the home. Damage was estimated at $5 to $10,000.

A new photo lab opened in the Havelock Plaza last week. Jim and Diane Greenhalgh, a young Havelock couple, are starting "The fastest photo service Havelock has ever had."

MADOC THE REVIEW

Madoc had a very unique proposal made to them this week. Jane Thomas, a well-known artist in Alberta who was born and raised in the Madoc area, has offered to supply ten negatives that she took on a recent visit to Madoc of detailed portions of buildings in the village so that people in Madoc can become more aware of the village. These negatives will be published in the Madoc Review, if we get support for the contest, with the proceeds going to the winners of each week's photograph or to the Museum fund. Jane hopes that the contest will make the residents "see" their village and also hopes to contribute to the building of the museum in the village.

The Madoc Council had several important issues to deal with last week. The arsenic pollution of the Moira River and Moira Lake was discussed at length, with nobody knowing for sure if the problem was being corrected or not. They decided to ask for more information on the problem, what was being done about it and to be kept informed on the progress of the cleanup.

When we shop Canadian, Canada makes it.

When we shop Canadian, it's more than a good idea. It's a great investment in our country's future. Every time Canadians buy their own products, they give Canadians work. Right here in Ontario, manufacturing industries employ about one million people. That's 25% of all the jobs in Ontario.

When we shop Canadian, we strengthen the economy of our province and our country.

By purchasing products that say "Made in Canada", we're developing and maintaining the industrial strengths we need to compete in world-wide markets.

And we're helping ourselves right here at home by strengthening Ontario's resources and assuring our future growth.

So the next time you're buying something, look for the symbol that says "Made in Canada".

William Davis, Premier

Steve Rexe held a coaches' clinic in Madoc this week and he made several suggestions that the coaches felt could really improve the teams and the calibre of hockey player coming out of the Madoc Minor Hockey Association. His suggestion of a uniform system throughout the organization was the most important suggestion. Everyone agreed that this would make coaching and learning much easier for all involved.

John Gibb of Roseneath has plans of setting up a motel-restaurant-tavern four miles south of Hastings on Highway 45. Percy Township Council and the Regional Planning Board have approved the plans so far, but the final word is still awaited from the Ontario Municipal Board. If approved some time this winter, Mr. Gibb hopes to begin construction by next spring to finish off by the end of the summer.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church of Hastings celebrated its 125th anniversary this past Sunday with a special service and fellowship hour. Mrs. Scott Fife spoke to members on the history of church services in Hastings and the various ministers involved.

Scott Bennett of Hastings has decided to take up a new life with the Armed Forces. This week's Hastings Star looks at some of Marmora Village will approach Marmora and Lake Townships to form a joint property committee that will study all the available land within and in the area immediately surrounding the village as possible industrial park site.

Norwood District High School students raised $1200 for the United Way with a unique project - a Wake-a-thon. Twenty-five students danced, sang, played volleyball and cards, watched T.V. and listened to music for 50 hours under the watchful eye of chaperones. Norwood is in the running for a United Way Trophy for the school raising the most money per capita.

Norwood District Chamber of Commerce is helping the village celebrate Christmas with a giant Christmas Tree in the town hall.

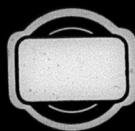

The Norwood Curling Club has kicked off a long season of bonspiels. Robert Young of Ennismore was the big winner in the Men's Open Knockout event.

Also in Norwood this week is the story of Bessie Watkins; Bessie, a Norwood resident is the ultimate craftsman - at a number of different skills, including needlework, ceramics, quilting and host of other things.

MEMORIALS

MENZIES, Alice - In loving memory of Alice Menzies, who passed away on November 21, 1972.

May the winds of love blow softly, On a quiet peaceful spot: Where the one we love lies sleeping, And will never be forgot. Your life was love and labor, Your love for your family true, You gave your best for all of us, What more could a mother do. No length of time can dim the past, Too many memories hold it fast; Today, tomorrow, our whole life through, We shall always love and remember you. Lovingly remembered by son Murray, daughter-in-law Wynne & family. -11

MENZIES, Alice - In loving memory of Alice Menzies, mother and grandmother, who passed away Nov. 21, 1972.

Two tired eyes are sleeping, Two willing hands are still. For one who suffered far too much, Is resting in God's will. You never said goodbye to us, For perhaps it's just as well. We never could have said goodbye To one we loved so well. Always remembered by Gordon, Nellie & grandchildren. -11

REWARD - Lost, female, lassie collie. No identification collar. Children's pet. Phone 613-472-3103. -14

CARDS OF THANKS

WE want to express our thanks to our friends, relatives and neighbours for their many acts of kindness after Gerald's death. To Dr. Parkin, The Rev. Snegrove and the Howden Funeral Home a special "Thank-you". May God bless you all for the support you have given us. Audrey McFaul and family. 5

WE wish to convey our most sincere thanks to all relatives, friends and neighbours who sent flowers or made memorial donations to the various charitable organizations. We also appreciated those who sent cards, food, made visits and offered prayers at the time of our mother's passing and during her illness. Special thanks to the doctors, nurses, clergy, church ladies and Brett Funeral Chapel. Lois Noyes and Clare McKay. 5

A sincere thank you to my family, relatives & friends and to Rev. Stephenson and social clubs for their visits, cards & flowers while I was a patient in the Civic Hospital. William Wassell. 5

WE would like to express sincere thanks to friends and neighbours in Havelock & district for the many expressions of flowers & sympathy. Special thanks to Rev. George Phillips & Brett Funeral Chapel. George Scott & family. 5

OUR sincere thanks to everyone who helped in any way to brighten our day while we were in Campbellford, Belleville & Kingston hospitals & since coming home. We appreciate all your kindness. God bless you all. Fred & Elma Bennett. 5

JOE & Velea Harnden wish to thank family, friends from surrounding areas, for making our 25th Wedding Anniversary such a happy event. Your smiles, gifts & best wishes are a treasure we will always remember. We were also blessed with the gift of a grandson delivered at Brockville hospital, Nov. 6, named Joseph Carl Derry. Again thank you all so much. 5

THE family of the late Delina Herrington wish to express their sincere appreciation to all relatives, friends & neighbours for floral tributes, charity donations, sympathy cards & for those who brought food. A special thank you to Rev. Father Kay & Rev. Father Perdue, Brett Funeral Chapel & Dorcas Rebekah Lodge. Everyone's kindness will always be remembered. 5

WE sincerely thank our many friends who helped in so many ways in the sudden passing of our dear sister Betty Trumble. The Leonard Family. 5

I would like to thank my friends, neighbours & all the Sr. Citizens at 47 Wellington St., Madoc for cards, letters, flowers & donations I received while a patient in Belleville General Hospital. Special thanks to Drs. Truman and Derry & to Rev. Adams & Mr. Creaser for their visits. Also thanks to my son Don, my daughter Valerie and their families for all their kindness. Dora Roushoun. 5

MANY, many thanks to Drs. Dowd, Meade, May, and the nurses, staff of room 259 St. Josephs Hospital, Peterborough, also Ministers, neighbours, friends who called to visit me while I was a patient in hospital, and the very nice cards, flowers, gifts, etc. God bless you all. Bill Cowell. 5

I WISH to thank my friends, neighbours & relatives for cards, calls & flowers during my stay in Belleville General Hospital & Blue Spruce Haven. Luella Bristol. 5

WORDS cannot adequately express our sincere appreciation for all the donations, floral tributes, cards & gifts of food brought to the house during the loss of our loved one, Betty, Trumble. A special note of thanks to Dr. Parkin, Cec Neal and ambulance attendants. Many thanks also to Stanley Kerr, Garnet Howden & John Wilson. Deep appreciation to Rev. Howard and the staff of the McConnell Funeral Home. The Trumble Family. 5

Hodgson headed for Olympics

The man who will take Ontario's Cyclocross hopes to the Canadian Championship and possibly on to the world is an all round athlete who likely will represent Canada as a cyclist in the Olympics.

Don Hodgson, a Peterborough area resident who is taking a computer technology course at Sir Sandford Fleming College, easily out-distanced the field on Sunday to win the Ontario Cyclocross Championship in Marmora. The outcome of the race was never in doubt and he lapped all except four of his competitors, sometimes several times, to cover the gruelling 20-mile course in just over 58 minutes.

Hodgson will very likely represent Canada at the Olympics as a cyclist (though not in Cyclocross, which is not an Olympic sport); his presence at the International Cyclocross Championships in Europe late in January is also likely, although far from assured.

because "It's a pure sport. It's pure movement, riding: there's just you out there and the same, constant motion."

Right now too, with the Olympics approaching, cycling will become his whole life. "I'm supposed to graduate this year, but training camps for the Olympics begin in January. I may miss most of the semester."

Meanwhile this week he's off to B.C. with the hopes of the Ontario Cyclocross community pinned on him and a whole new following of Marmora fans who admired his skill and endurance on Sunday.

"If one person goes to B.C. (site of the Canadian Championships) and really dominates, really shows some outstanding ability, then the money's there, the government could find the money to send one or two men to the international championships," he said after the race on Sunday.

If anyone is sent to represent Canada, it will be Hodgson, who impressed spectators with his steady, tireless pace. After the race he said he felt he could have gone at the same pace over a course which most of the riders obviously found extremely taxing. "If I had been pressed it would have been different. I was never pressed." The same qualities which helped him to win easily here make him the favourite in British Columbia next weekend.

Not bad for a man who sees cyclocross mainly as a way to keep in shape for the regular cycling season.

"This allows me to keep fit longer; the Cyclocross season runs two months longer (than the regular cycling season) and it's a good way to keep fit."

Hodgson has been a cyclocross champ ever since he started. He finished second in the Ontario championships last year, the first time he raced cyclocross, and second in the nationals the week after that. This year he has raced about ten times, finishing first most of the time and usually in the top three (he dropped out of one race).

How does a man get to become a champion cyclist? Hodgson has only been racing for five years: his start at 18, is a little late for a cyclist he explained; usually competition begins at 16, once the bones have begun to harden (it's considered dangerous before that). But he has been riding a bicycle "nearly all my life". "When I started high school, we moved out of the city (Peterborough) and I rode in, 3 or 4 miles. For years I rode at least 10 miles a day almost every day through the summer."

Besides cycling, Hodgson has played lacrosse and hockey but he prefers cycling

GARDENING

Gardening under glass

Gardening under glass is a practical way to capture the sun's winter rays. Glass containers enhance the natural beauty of plants, allowing a clear view of leaf and root growth.

Bob Fleming, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food horticulturist, suggests that fruit-jars make versatile terrariums because they come in all shapes and sizes.

"Choose old-fashioned, wide-mouthed jars for a nostalgic effect," he says, "and wash them thoroughly. Dry the jars completely before adding two to three centimetres (1 in.) of coarse drainage material and two to five centimetres (1 to 2 in.) of potting soil. Then scoop a hole and position small, slender plants in the centre. Cover the roots with soil and tamp gently."

Ivies, fittonia, artillery plant, and baby's tears thrive in these glass containers, but Mr. Fleming says many plants can adapt to these surroundings. Place the jars in bright, indirect light and water the plants sparingly. Covers will limit the amount of evaporation from the containers and will reduce the need for frequent watering.

Any glass container can be transformed into a miniature landscape with some ingenuity. Glass loaf pans can be used to produce a mountainside effect when filled with smooth river stones and a branch of

Cleaning up before winter

The growing season may be over, but there's still plenty of work to do in the garden, says Russ Gomme, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food horticulturist. Annual flowers often spread out during the summer, taking over the grass around the flower beds. Use a sharp spade to trim and re-shape the edges of flower and shrub beds so they will look their best next spring.

November is also the last chance to protect tender perennials from winter damage. Hill up roses by bringing the soil up around the crown of the plant. "Some home gardeners may wish to use mulch to protect tender plants," says Mr. Gomme. "Soil, peat moss, compost, or moderate amounts of sawdust spread around the plants will help prevent winter damage. If you have been trimming evergreens, use the boughs as mulch."

Providing the soil in your garden isn't soaking wet, there is still time to plant flowering bulbs, including tulips, for color next spring. Many gardeners plant clusters of six or more bulbs to achieve a natural effect. Before the winter sets in, Mr. Gomme recommends removing leaves and plant tops to discourage rodents. For extra protection against rodent damage, paint shrub stems and tree trunks with repellants.

Don't forget to protect trees and shrubs from snow damage. Heavy snow can break long boughs. Mr. Gomme suggests tying together or loosely wrapping trees or shrubs with burlap. "Don't use plastic garbage bags to wrap evergreens," he warns. "The plastic causes greater temperature fluctuations than normal, resulting in harmful freezing and thawing."

After the garden jobs are complete, clean tools and rub with oil to prevent rust. Empty the gas from the lawn mower and oil the spark plug holes.

ENVIRONMENT NOTES

Mercury discharges into water have been reduced by more than 99 percent in Canada since chlor-alkali mercury liquid effluent regulations were proclaimed in 1972 to help protect our environment.

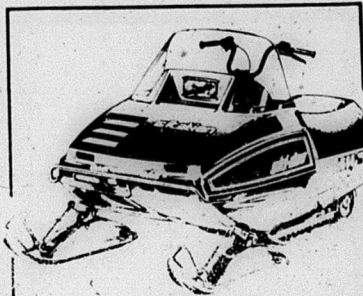

Canadian regulations limiting the amount of phosphorus in laundry detergents has reduced the level of detergent phosphates discharged into water by 80 percent, improving Canada's environment.

Sulfur dioxide emissions can be reduced, but it will cost money. In Eastern Canada, it would take at least $350 million annually to cut emissions by 50 percent. In the northeastern United States, the total would be more than $5 billion a year for similar reductions. But it would improve our environment.

echeveria. Plant the echeveria in its own glass pot and place it in the corner of the rock bed. To create a glacial pool beside it, add a shallow glass dish filled with water. A layer of blue aquarium gravel at the bottom of the pool gives a colorful tinge.

Another scene could be a desert plateau in a glass casserole, 6 cm. (1 1/2 in.) deep. Sprinkle a thin layer of clean gravel over the bottom to aid drainage, and then fill the container with commercial cactus potting mix. Gently ease several types of cactus into place.

For the festive season ahead, place a short, thick candle among the cacti for decoration. A glass pie plate can serve as a centerpiece when a wreath of baby's tears is planted near the edge and a candle is enclosed in glass in the center. Start your plants now, so they will be established in time for Christmas.

ONE FOOT IN THE FURROW

City dwellers ignorant of agriculture

Abysmal is the best way to describe the ignorance with which agriculture is met by most city-bred people.

Right now, a bit of a controversy is raging in our area because a retired clergyman and a former mayor of the county seat mentioned in a letter to the editor that he deplored the way farm marketing boards control all prices and all production of all farm products.

The letter brought a lot of support out of the woodwork and even out of the back forty. It prompted a few city people to read a few facts about farmers and farming because letters to the editor are well read. Even the local agricultural representative got into the act to refute what the clergyman's letter had said.

It is just another example of the misunderstandings about farming that most people have today. Fifty or 60 years ago, almost everyone had some connection with agriculture. Farming was considered a respected and honorable occupation by the majority of Canadians.

It's different today. Not only do people consider farming a second-class occupation but few even attempt to understand it. I should qualify that statement: Not all citizens of this country outside of agriculture consider it second class but the vast majority have little respect for it.

And it is uninformed people who make it even more difficult.

Farmers have enough problems dealing with weather, crop problems, disease among herds and flocks and all the other vicissitudes of a modern farm without battling blabbermouths who wouldn't know a Holstein from a Hereford. Or trying to undo the innuendoes spread in national magazines such as the Reader's Digest. (See the lead story in the October issue.)

As far as I know, only half a dozen farm products are on the quota system yet every product gets tarred with that brush by people who should know better.

It is time the people of this country realized the value of agriculture. When you consider that 43 cents of the gross national product is generated by agriculture, you get an idea of how precious this industry is.

Many people think that farmers spend half their time walking to the mailbox to pick up subsidy cheques yet this country spends less money on agricultural subsidies and agricultural research than any other in the free world.

Farmers have been forced into organizing their own marketing boards just to remain in business, to bring some order into the market place. You'll find that most of them would abolish marketing boards if they could get the same deal without them.

No other sector of the economic world is more fiercely independent than farmers. They would gladly go it alone if they could.

They have had to organize because a single farmer trying to market his products is at the whim of the multi-national companies who don't really give a hoot if agriculture is kept on a sound marketing basis. All they are interested in is a good profit picture and a pay-off to their shareholders.

Yet farmers get accused of crying wolf. They get accused of living off the public purse through grants and subsidies. They get accused of being nothing but cry babies.

But no other sector of the economy produces more. Annual increases in agricultural production are far ahead of any other industry. No industry contributes more to the gross national product and the balance of payments than farming.

For the most part, though, farmers are considered by the city-bred citizens of this country as bumpkins who don't know their elbows from an elephant. Agriculture can't afford high-priced public relations people to rebuild their image. So farmers will continue to produce food and contribute to the national economy as unsung heroes in this technically-oriented nation.

Seems a shame, doesn't it?

The first watches produced about 1580 had only hour hands since their movements were too slow for minutes.

Coaches clinic successful, results could be rewarding

The second night of the Steve Rexe coaches' clinic was even more successful than the first and again came up with some very important suggestions for Madoc's Minor Hockey Program. Mr. Rexe, throughout the clinic, stressed the fact that a hockey program like Madoc's should incorporate system into all levels of the program and stick with that program. He feels that the results won't change drastically for the first year or two, but by the third year, the players, coaches and fans should be watching a very exciting brand of hockey, that will put Madoc's Minor Hockey at a par with any other teams that they may compete with.

Steve again made some important suggestions for the coaches and players of the minor hockey system in Madoc. "Develop your system and stick with it, teach your teams the fundamentals, shorten the rink for your younger hockey players as much as you can and then be inventive as coaches. Because you see

Santa Claus Parade goes ahead despite bad turnout

The Madoc and District Chamber of Commerce had a very disappointing turnout for both the executive and the general meeting that was held on Thursday night. Because of this poor turnout, no decisions could be made although the few people who did attend discussed some of the events that will be taking place in the near future.

The Santa Claus Parade was the main topic of discussion with plans being finalized for the parade, which takes place on Saturday, December 1st, at 1 p.m. The committee, made up of Harry McGuire, Dave Copperthwaite, Jean Aylsworth and Bessie Tebworth, have worked long and hard at organizing this parade and it appears that their efforts will pay off with a very interesting and successful parade.

The parade will consist of floats from Green Thumb Greenhouses, Ivanhoe Cheese, Kramp's, Land O' Lakes, the Royal Canadian Legion, both public schools, the high school, Bill Taylor, Drain, Don's Taxi, Madoc and Huntingdon Fire departments, Bell telephone and Madoc Printing and Publishing. Horses have been entered in the parade from Bob Smith, Gord Johnston, the Downey Brothers and Bob Bonter. Burrell Bateman is supplying a bus for the Senior Citizens entitled "Yesterday's Kids" and sled dogs will also be entered in the parade.

The Army and Navy Pipe Band from Belleville will supply some of the music for the parade while other music will be supplied by some of the floats. The parade wouldn't be a true parade without the inclusion of the Cadets, Scouts and Guides and it is hoped that majorettes from Campbellford and Stirling will also take part. If the weather permits, antique cars could also take part in the parade.

And, of course, somewhere in the parade, Santa Claus will attend with a float drawn by Sam Danford. The Legion will supply hot drinks and food for the children who participate in the parade and candy canes will be given to the children of Madoc following the parade.

First year Beulah cheesemaker best in area

Ken Preston displays some of the hardware that he brought back with him from the British Empire Cheese Show that was held in Belleville this year. The trophy was for the highest aggregate score at the show, the plaque was for the highest scoring cheese from Central Ontario, while the silver tray was for the highest scoring cheese at the show. This was Ken's first year as cheesemaker at a cheese factory that was in its first year of operation. Ken was the Reserve Grand Champion at the show.

Mr. Gordon Donnan, the president of the Beulah Co-op Butter and Cheese Company, is very proud of his cheesemaker and the product he produces. There is a very good reason for this pride. At the British Empire Dairy Show, held in Belleville last week, Ken Preston was the Reserve Grand Champion of the show, which makes Mr. Donnan very happy because Ken is his cheesemaker.

The feat of placing second in the British Empire Dairy Show is even more amazing to Mr. Donnan because Ken Preston is in his first year as a cheesemaker at the Ivanhoe cheese factory. "Yes, I guess you could say I'm happy about the fact that we placed second; especially since this is our first year of operation in the new factory and since this is Ken's first year as cheesemaker. We haven't been that close to winning in quite some time and, even though we have a new cheese factory, all of the credit has to go to Ken."

Ken Preston also expressed some satisfaction in his accomplishments as a first year cheesemaker. "I was really proud of the fact that we won the award for the best finished cheese at the show because that is an award that normally goes to the older cheesemakers." Ken has worked at the Beulah cheese factory for about six and one half years but only took over as cheesemaker this year. "The new equipment and factory took some getting used to but it is nice to work in a well laid out and designed factory like this, which is not always the case in an older factory where additions are built around the original building. It has just been a good year for us!"

Ken came home with an impressive array of awards and prizes but was most happy with the silver tray for the highest scoring cheese at the British Empire Dairy Show and the award he was given for having the best finished cheese at Belleville. With a score of 98.35 out of 100, he brought home nineteen awards, trophies and gifts from the different companies who deal with the factory. Included in these awards were two trophies, two silver trays, a plaque, an electric can opener, a mini deep fryer and a steak-knife set, plus several cash awards.

The cheese was judged on flavour, texture, closeness, colour and finish and resulted in Ken's score of 98.35. Grand Champion of the show was Laurence Lalonde of Balderson Cheese Ltd. Balderson.

Head lice control tightened

The Hastings County Board of Education will be more strict in ensuring that children who are found to have head lice or are suspected of having them will be isolated from other children as a result of pressure from Marmora parents.

Board superintendent Frank Tate told the Herald last week that principals will be given special instructions in the following

Santa Claus Draw

Ticket sales for the Santa Claus Parade Draw have been slow this year with the result that there are still a lot of tickets available for those of you who have still not purchased one. The draw is sponsored by the Madoc and District Chamber of Commerce and will be held at Wilson's on Saturday, December 1st, at 1 p.m.

Tickets are $1 each with five prizes, including a $200 first prize, and four other prizes to be donated by merchants. Tickets are available at various outlets in Madoc or from members of the Chamber of Commerce. Buy your tickets as soon as possible so that you do not miss out on this golden opportunity to get an early Christmas gift compliments of the Chamber of Commerce.

1) If a principal finds head lice on a child or is suspicious that a child has head lice he is to isolate that child.

2) If it is possible, the principal is to get the child home "in any way possible, including driving the child."

3) When the child returns to the school, he will be checked again; if there is any suspicion of head lice, the child will again be sent home. Mr. Tate said that the child will hopefully be checked by a Public Health Nurse, but, if that is not possible, he will be checked by the principal.

The procedure, particularly the last point incorporates a good deal of what the parents were asking for and reverses an earlier stance by the board and its principals that they could not exclude a child from school if the parent said the child was being treated, even if they thought the child had not been treated.

The parents had asked that a child be required to have a doctor's certificate to return to school, in order to prevent children with head lice from coming to school and infecting - in some cases - re-infecting other children. Mr. Tate said that, while the board could require doctor's certificates, they would have no legal basis, because head lice, although highly contagious, is not considered dangerous and therefore not classified as a communicable disease. "We know that, if anyone challenged it, it wouldn't stand up. We have been told by our legal experts that it would have no basis under the act (The Education Act)."

The Education Act does provide the power necessary to allow principals to exclude, from class, children whose presence they feel would create physical or psychological stress for other children. This is the basis for the new stance.

The new procedure (much of it is simply re-emphasis of the board's present policy) came as a result of sustained pressure from a group of Marmora parents, mostly mothers. The group, alarmed at an unusually prolonged outbreak of head lice, and concerned about the way it was being handled, particularly in the Earl Prentice School, approached the Board of Education and Hastings County Health Unit for improvements in the procedure on the way the matter was handled in the schools.

Although it appeared at first that they would receive little satisfaction, the new procedures would seem to be, in substance at least, the changes they requested.

be at the same spot," he said with a slight smile. Of course, he wasn't telling the newspaper where that spot was.

The Big Buck contest has become increasingly more popular since its inception in 1976. In that first year, Robert McQuigge won $62, Raymond Henley won $98 in 1977 and Robert Nickle won $162 in 1978. Along with the increased entries in the contest, Harry Brown of Madoc Sports up from 280 last year to 350 this year. As you will notice from the winners of the contest each year, our own local hunters have proved more than adept at getting that big buck and the big bucks that go with it. If Keith had also entered the added another $450 to his prize money.

Junior Girls B-ballers edged out of Bay of Quinte

The junior girls basketball team was defeated 39-30 in the Bay of Quinte final this weekend. It was a disappointing loss for the girls and their coach that left them physically drained and more than a little demoralized.

The girls had placed second overall in the Bay of Quinte league standings in which they faced tough, competitive teams. There was a three way tie for second but the juniors were finally ranked second on the basis of their victories over their competition. The girls, because of that second place ranking, were into the semi-finals, where they would meet Brighton.

The game against Brighton was preceded by a game between B.C.I. and Trenton. B.C.I. won the game after three minutes of overtime but were extended to their limit to defeat a Trenton team that would not quit. The juniors then took the floor against Brighton and established an early superiority that they held throughout the game. Their lead, generally eight to ten points, would sometimes dwindle to five points before the girls would again establish superiority. Brighton kept the pressure on until half way through the fourth quarter, when the junior girls went to their strength to win the game 50-32 going away.

At the halftime mark of the game, the juniors were leading by the score of 18-8. Brighton came back at the beginning of the second half to narrow the score to 18-12 before the juniors scored their first points of the third quarter. At the end of the third quarter, the juniors were still leading by a 23-15 score and, as the fourth quarter began, Brighton was slowly eating away at that lead. The juniors adjusted their game with about five and one half minutes remaining in the game and began putting a press on the Brighton squad. The press worked extremely well, forcing Brighton to make mistakes in their end that catapulted the junior girls into a 39-21 lead. Having established a system that worked for them, they continued the press for the remainder of the game to win easily. This game ended shortly after 1:00 PM with the final against B.C.I. scheduled to take place at 6:00 PM.

This game, in Yvonne Mabo's words, "...was a comedy of errors. The game was called very closely by the referees and we got in foul trouble early. It got to the point where we couldn't play our type of game and we didn't play up to our potential." Because the game was called so closely by the referees, both teams did not play the aggressive brand of basketball that could have made this game the best of the season. Both teams were disappointed in that the game became very boring. "We would rather have lost a close exciting game that was at least good entertainment for our fans."

Coach Mabo felt bad about the loss because she felt her team had worked hard throughout the season. "Those kids were a better team than they showed in that final game. They worked so hard throughout the season and were disappointed about losing that final game because they felt they had let other people, their fans, down. Also, we had beaten B.C.I. in regular season play and we still think we are the better team. We just didn't play well and we didn't deserve the victory."

Despite the loss, coach Mabo felt her team had a good season and was justly proud of their dedication and effort. "They worked very hard all season and it is just too bad that our only bad game was the last one we played. We had great support by the parents and teachers and that is what bothers the girls more than anything."

To the girls on that team, their season ended on a sour note but I suspect the fans are no less proud of them. The disappointment is shared by the many students, teachers and parents that followed them faithfully through the season but their pride, determination and hard work was a source of great pride that all involved and cannot be forgotten because of one loss.

Marmora unlikely to have own police force

It appears unlikely that Marmora will opt for its own police force after representatives of the Ontario Provincial Police talked to council and business association representatives Tuesday night.

Sergeant K.S. Cain and Corporal John Mitchell of the Madoc detachment of the OPP attended council to discuss the policing of Marmora with the council members and the conclusion drawn by almost everyone at the meeting was that Marmora would not likely have better coverage from its own police force, nor would it be able to have a police force unless it were willing to spend a lot more money.

Sergeant Cain told council and others present that he felt it was unlikely that the Ontario Police Commission would allow Marmora to have a one or even three man force. "Although I don't want to speak for the Ontario Police Commission, it is my understanding that they will not allow the creation of forces that small any more. Existing small forces will be allowed to continue.

Councillor Lionel Bennett, under whose jurisdiction the matter falls, had suggested to council it might consider a one man police force. The business association had also requested that the matter be reviewed.

But the OPP's comments and information obtained over the past few weeks from area municipalities which have their own police forces, such as Tweed and Stirling, indicate that the cost of having a force, particularly if it had to be as large as four or five men, would be prohibitive. The officers also expressed the opinion that it does not necessarily result in superior coverage.

Corporal Mitchell pointed out that Tweed (with a 3 man force) does not always have a policeman on duty; there are often shifts where the O.P.P. is only informed that someone is "on call". He said that the O.P.P. only goes into Tweed at a time of emergency or when requested by the village. In comparison, there is always one police car patrolling the Marmora area and the police can usually come promptly, he said.

Other advantages of the O.P.P. system as put forward by the officers:

1) If the police have to send extra men in on some problem that is not an emergency (such as extra patrolling done last summer when there was trouble at the hotel) this is done at no cost to the village. If Marmora had its own policeman and needed extra help to solve a special problem (not an emergency such as a riot or a robbery) it would be charged for it.

2) The O.P.P. communication system means superior co-ordination of the various units: Corporal Mitchell used the example of the Becker store robbery in Marmora a few weeks ago. The thieves were apprehended by a Campbellford O.P.P. officer shortly after the hold-up because of the ability of the force to transmit the information of the hold-up quickly. Such facilities are not available to individual community forces.

3) Also not economical for small forces is special training for emergencies, such as evacuation, procedures that, according to Corporal Mitchell all O.P.P. officers are trained in. "A small force cannot afford the time or the money to send an officer on one of these courses," he said.

4) The O.P.P. can call on neighbouring detachments - Belleville, Campbellford, Bancroft - both for long term and short term problems. And, although not all its men are on duty at a time most of the force, now up to 21 men, can be called in in extreme emergencies on short notice.

Sergeant Cain also pointed out that the detachment has the right to ask for more men from the government as it feels it needs them. Thus the Madoc detachment has grown from 11 to 21 in the past 13 years.

A number of specific problems were discussed, including the one that precipitated the meeting - the increased rowdiness and drinking on the front street through the summer months and the feeling by the businessmen that something should be done to curtail this.

Sergeant Cain explained that the police force works largely in reaction to complaints: if it received a series of complaints on the problem, it could put on a special push to do something about it; he used the example of the special patrols on the Hub Hotel this summer, that resulted in 23 convictions in court last week, and seemed to put a halt to the problem of fighting and rowdiness at the hotel. Corporal Mitchell said that he felt it was a success.

At the beginning of the meeting Corporal Mitchell and Sergeant Cain produced statistics to show that essentially Marmora and Madoc - where the detachment headquarters are situated - receive similar coverage from the force. The number of criminal occurrences and the number of clearances and clearance rate (where someone is charged or dealt with in another way) was shown to be similar.

Sergeant Cain told the meeting that "except for the fact that the majority of the officers live in Madoc and so have a higher profile, there really is no difference between the two towns."

After the meeting business association representatives - Bob Maynes, Scotty Cook and Sheila Golden expressed satisfaction with the meeting, as did members of council. It was generally thought that it was something that could be repeated at least once a year in order to reinforce communication between the O.P.P. and the village.

CHSS Curlers triumph in Trenton

The boys curling team, skipped by Dale Martin, romped to an easy 10-2 victory over the Trenton curling team last Wednesday night. The team is intact from last year with Scott Shaw, Mark Robinson and Rick Price backing up Martin.

The team did very well in competition last year but expect tough, competitive curling throughout the year. "We have our same team back again this year," said skip Dale Martin, "and we know that other teams have new players on their teams, but you still have to curl consistently well to win."

Wrestling and gymnastic practices are now taking place. Both teams did well last year and will have to get good efforts from the team members to continue their winning ways.

Vankoughnet pleased with gun legislation review

Hastings-Frontenac M.P. Bill Vankoughnet had one of his campaign promises fulfilled this past week when Solicitor General Alan Lawrence announced that he will be asking for a review of the present firearms legislation.

Mr. Vankoughnet campaigned on the fact that the gun legislation placed too great a burden on rural people in order to try and control guns in urban areas.

In an interview last week Mr. Vankoughnet said that he felt the present gun laws held people "guilty until proven innocent" since they required all gun users not just criminals, to register their guns for a fee. He said that he felt that the bureaucracy was an unnecessary burden for the "lawabiding citizen" and unfair to people such as farmers who traditionally carry guns. He also said he felt that the present legislation gives "sweeping powers" to the government. "That makes me suspicious," he said. "And the fact that it came in under Mr. Trudeau makes me even more suspicious."

Mr. Vankoughnet said that he didn't know how the law would be amended, but he did feel that, if guns had to be registered, "they could be done without fee or bureaucratic system."

He also suggested that stricter punishment of criminals - including the introduction of capital punishment would be more effective and less eroding of individual freedom than strict gun control.

Mr. Vankoughnet sits on the Standing Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs which will conduct the review of the firearms legislation.

Discipline committee seeking submissions

The Hastings County Board of Education's Discipline Committee is looking for input from outside the board.

To that end it is sending out questionnaires to students, teachers, administrators and parents; it is also asking individuals and groups interested in putting their opinions forwards to present briefs on the subject.

The questionnaires will be sent to all principals, vice-principals, superintendents, a random selection of two hundred teachers, a large cross section of students from grades five to thirteen and parents in each school area. The questionnaires have a slightly different wording for parents, staff and students but basically cover the same issues so the comparisons can be made. School custodians, secretaries and bus drivers and individuals who work with and for students, will also be asked to contribute opinions and ideas to the committee.

Persons or groups that would like to present a brief to the committee are asked to contact Frank Tate, Superintendent of Instruction, 156 Ann Street, Belleville. Dates for submissions may be sent to Mr. Tate, at any time.

The Discipline Committee began its work in May 1979 and plans to present a report containing recommendations and guidelines on discipline procedure in the schools to the Board of Education by June 1980. An interim report will be presented on this December 17.

CHEETAH

ACINONYX JUBATUS III-15

Easily tamed, and capable of speeds up to 40 kph, trained cheetahs, the world's fastest land animal, accompanied the ancient Sumerians on hunting expeditions around 3000 B.C. and were also utilized for this purpose by the Pharaohs of Egypt as well as William the Conqueror.

Once plentiful across most of Africa, much of Asia Minor, and India, the cheetah has been hunted to extinction in India, and the only significant populations left are in the game reserves in eastern & southwestern Africa.

In the wild, their most important prey are medium sized hoofed animals - gazelles, impala, waterbuck and the like. Having eaten their fill, cheetahs rarely return to the kill and will eat carrion only under dire circumstances. Weighing only about 60 kg, they avoid the large predators such as lions, leopards, hyenas and wild dogs.

Co-operative store gets sales award, adds new service

The new Madoc Co-operative store has met with success in their sales department and added a new service for their patrons. Mr. Earle Helps received a plaque for the UCO President Management Award which read, "Presented to Earle Helps, Madoc Co-operative Association, for leadership in sales achievement 1978-79. Mr. Helps credited his success in sales directly to the new store which has given the Madoc Co-operative more room for stock and display purposes. When asked if he could have won the award in the old building, Mr. Helps replied with a chuckle, "It's not very likely."

Ralph Holland is also pictured with Mr. Helps and he is showing that he is now a member of the Co-op Feed Certification Program. It read: "The feed division, United Co-operatives of Ontario, certifies that Ralph Holland has complied with the requirements for certification as a Feed Technician and is fully qualified to make recommendations to Co-op patrons on their feed program based on information in the Co-op feed manual." Mr. Holland took a six month correspondence course last winter, to achieve the certification.

Around the village

By Jean Asselstine

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Reid, of St. Lawrence St. West, spent the past week vacationing in Acapulco.

Jennifer Sprague spent the weekend of Nov. 17th with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sprague and sisters Jane and Jill.

Michael Paul Fleming, youngest son of David and Debbie Fleming, was baptized at the Nov. 18th Sunday morning service in Eldorado United Church.

Lou Phillips, after being a patient in Belleville General Hospital, spent last week in Toronto visiting relatives.

Mrs. Audrey Johnston and Mrs. Mae Reid enjoyed a golden opportunity recently when they spent two weeks touring with the Lindsay Minor Midgets in Sweden. They stayed in the town of Landskrona, but the boys played in different towns each game and won 5 out of 6 games. Jeff Reid, grandson of the two ladies, plays for the Lindsay team.

Recreation Centre meeting

The Madoc and District Recreation Centre Committee have come up with a new method of making money for the arena that will also supply advertising for the business people of the community. Signs, advertising the various businesses in the community, can now be placed in the arena at a cost of $100 for the first year and $150 for the next four years.

The signs will be strictly regulated by the committee as to size and quality, with the above price including the hanging of the signs. For more information, contact a member of the Arena Committee.

ARENA COMMITTEE BUSINESS

Six loads of gravel from Madoc Township were spread on the parking lot to get the water away from the arena and the parking lot was graded.

A letter was sent to Cash and Carry complaining that the pump was not working properly.

The resignation of Greg Rosnuk as arena manager was accepted as of November 25th, 1979, and he was requested to pay back the fee for the managers' course. Jim Daniels, Acting Rink Manager for the balance of 1979, gave a report on some of the findings and was to give his proposals at the next meeting.

An interim audit of the arena accounts to November 25th was to be done, along with a year end financial statement with the overdraft to be billed to the three municipalities at the rink percentage agreement.

Maurice Goulah was appointed Secretary-Treasurer and was given signing authority in place of Jim Daniels.

The signing authority was taken off the canteen account with the result that it was closed and all monies were to be transferred to the capital account.

The next meeting takes place on the 18th of December.

Madoc W.I.

The November 16th, meeting was well attended, with 18 members and 2 visitors. Wee Brian Phillips brought his grandmother, Lou Phillips, who had just been discharged from hospital. Best of Health, Lou.

Mrs. Lottie Bailey, convener on Family and Consumer Affairs, had the program, "Speaker - Parental Effectiveness". The meeting opened with the Mary Stewart Collect, and the Institute Ode. The roll call, "Ways to teach children to respect people and their property," was well answered.

The Minutes were approved as read, and the financial statement given. Re: last month's meeting, to think of projects to which we could make a donation: it was decided to give $100.00 to each of the following: The Arena; Jaws of Life; Minor Hockey Club and the Figure Skating club. The Madoc ladies enjoyed their visit to Eldorado W.I. on Nov. 13., and we hope to reciprocate by inviting these ladies to our pot-luck luncheon in January.

Miss Ada Adams gave a summary on the Crewel Embroidery Course, which was a great success, given by Mrs. Vera Bailey and herself. The course was well attended and we learned a lot from our teachers. Ada and Vera worked very hard prior to and during the time we spent with them, and we would like to say "Thank You" teachers. Summary Day will be Tues. March 11th, 1980. Mrs. Vera Hill introduced our guest, Miss Valerie Clark, Home Economist, who showed slides on "Fashions for the Full-Figured Woman" and on "Crewel Embroidery". Miss Clark also had some cushions and a framed sampler to show us. They were lovely. It was a great program, and we thank Miss Clark for taking time to visit with us.

To limber up, a song "If you're happy" was sung, and Mrs. Irene Gordon conducted a question and answer contest, which included lots of laughs. The meetings closed with "O Canada". The days' hostess was Mrs. Alma Winslow, and with co-hostesses Ms. Jean Keene and Linda Sexsmith, served a lovely lunch.

VILLAGE OF MADOC

Notice of Application

The Corporation of the Village of Madoc is to be making Application to the Ontario Municipal Board for Amends to its Land Use By-Law. It is suggested all residents of the Village read the following proposal.

Tom Deline
Reeve

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

Notice of Application to the Ontario Municipal Board by the Corporation of the Village of Madoc for approval of a by-law to regulate land use passed pursuant to Section 35 of the Planning Act R.S.O. 1970.

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Village of Madoc intends to apply to the Ontario Municipal Board pursuant to the provisions of Section 35 of the Planning Act for approval of By-law Number 1025 passed on the 1st day of October, 1979. A copy of the By-law is furnished herewith and a note giving an explanation of the purpose and effect of the By-law and stating the lands affected thereby is also furnished herewith.

ANY PERSON INTERESTED MAY, within twenty-one (21) days after the date of this Notice, send by registered mail or deliver to the Clerk of the Village of Madoc notice of objection to approval of the By-law or part thereof giving details of all or the portion of the By-law to which you object, and detailed reasons thereof, and shall indicate that if a hearing is held the objector or an agent will attend at the meeting to support the objection.

ANY PERSON wishing to support the application for approval of the By-law may within twenty-one (21) days after the date of this Notice send by registered mail or deliver to the Clerk of the Village of Madoc notice of his support of approval of the said By-law together with a request for notice of any hearing that may be held giving also the name and address to which such notice should be given.

THE ONTARIO MUNICIPAL BOARD may approve of the said By-law but before doing so may appoint a time and place when any objection to the By-law will be considered. Notice of any hearing that may be held will be given only to persons who have filed an objection or notice of support and who have left with or delivered to the Clerk undersigned, the address to which notice of hearing is to be sent, and similarly, to any person who has filed a request for a change in the provisions of the By-law.

THE LAST DATE FOR FILING OBJECTIONS WILL BE DECEMBER 12th, 1979.

DATED AT THE VILLAGE OF MADOC NOVEMBER 21, 1979.

Mr. Doug Parks,
Clerk-Treasurer,
Village of Madoc,
Box 310,
Madoc Ontario
K0K 2K0.

THE CORPORATION OF THE VILLAGE OF MADOC AN EXPLANATORY NOTE TO BY-LAW NO. 1025

The following is a summary and explanation of By-law Number 1025 which amends By-law Number 986, a comprehensive Restricted Area (Zoning) By-law affecting land in the Village of Madoc.

The effect of this By-law is to alter By-law 986 by making revisions to certain parts of Plate 'A' Zone Map as shown on map enclosed.

The purpose of such alterations is to resolve a number of objections to By-law Number 986. If you submitted an objection to By-Law No. 986 It is requested that you give careful attention to this amending By-law. Should the attached By-law satisfactorily resolve your objection it is requested that written notice be given to the Clerk of the Village of Madoc withdrawing such objection.

The changes of this amendment on the properties involved are shown as:

1. Lots 29 to 35 inclusive on the south side of Furnace Street shall be in Zone D rather than in Zone R-1.
2. Lots 4 and 5 on the west side of Wellington Street shall be in Zone RU rather than in Zone R-1.
3. Lots 2, 3, and 4 on the west side of Prentice Street shall be in Zone D rather than in Zone R-1.
4. Lots 2, 3, and 4 on the east side of Francis Street shall be in Zone D rather than in Zone R-1.
5. Lots 36 to 40 inclusive on the north side of Furnace Street shall be in Zone D rather than in Zone R-1.
6. Plate 'C' provisions for Residential Uses Corporation of the Village of Madoc shall be changed to read as follows:

(a) Column B, Line 5 under R-1 shall read one acre rather than 22,000.

(b) Column B, Line 8 under R-1 shall read 150 feet rather than 120 feet.

VILLAGE OF MADOC BY-LAW NUMBER 1025 BEING A BY-LAW TO AMEND FURTHER THE CORPORATION OF THE VILLAGE OF MADOC LAND USE BY-LAW NUMBER 986

WHERE AS by reason of Section 35 and Section 35a of the Planning Act, R.S.O. 1970 Chapter 349, and amendments thereto, the Council is empowered to pass Restricted Area By-laws.

AND WHEREAS there have been enacted By-law number 986, being a Restricted Area By-law, and By-laws numbers 992, 996 and 1,001 amending the same.

AND WHEREAS it is desired to amend further said By-law number 986.

NOW THEREFORE the Council of the Corporation of the Village of Madoc enacts as follows:

THAT the said By-law number 986 of the Corporation of the Village of Madoc be and it is hereby amended as follows:

1. Lots 29 to 35 inclusive, on the south side of Furnace Street shall be in Zone D rather than in Zone R1.
2. Lots 4 and 5 on the west side of Wellington Street shall be in Zone RU rather than in Zone R1.
3. Lots 2, 3 and 4 on the east side of Francis Street shall be in Zone D rather than in Zone R1.
4. Lots 2, 3 and 4 on the west side of Prentice Street shall be in Zone D rather than in Zone R1.
5. Lots 36 to 40 inclusive on the north side of Furnace Street shall be in Zone D rather than in Zone R1.

Plate "C" - Provisions for Residential Uses Corporation of the Village of Madoc - shall be changed to read as follows:

(a) Column B, Line 5 under R1 shall read one acre rather than 22,000.

(b) Column B, Line 8 under R1 shall read 150 feet rather than 120 feet.

Clerk-Treasurer.

certain things being done as far as lineups and positions are concerned doesn't mean that those are only ways to do something or that it will work for your team. If you do something out of the ordinary that other teams are not used to seeing, the element of surprise will often work for you and there are certain things that you can get younger hockey players to start doing now that will make them better hockey players and make them a real asset to any team that they play with in the future.

Fundamentals were stressed by Steve on Wednesday night. A team that is strong as far as fundamentals are concerned, like the Montreal Canadiens, will win championships as long as the whole team is fundamentally strong and they play as a unit. Playing as a unit will come with the development of a system within an organization and when the coaches teach good, sound fundamental hockey, you are well on your way to producing a winning team.

One of the more important pieces of information that Steve gave the coaches was that young hockey players cannot be expected to make the long passes that older hockey players sometimes get away with, so he advised that the coaches teach their players to shorten the rink by playing closer together and completing short, crisp passes.

Steve has become very involved with the Belleville Bulls and he gave some interesting insight into the organization of the Bulls. He predicted that the Bulls would be owned totally by local interests in the near future. Ten businessmen from Belleville are expected to own the team within the next week or so.

After talking with many of the people involved with the Bulls, Steve was confident that he would be able to persuade several of them to come to Madoc and work with the various teams and coaches on any problems that they might have. He also told those attending the clinic that he expected all minor hockey people in this area to be invited to Belleville to a Bull's game after which time they would be invited to a hotel for an evening on the Bulls, at which time they would be informed of a hockey school that will be run in Belleville sometime next year. The school will run for six weeks and will cost $60.00 per week. The officials of the Madoc Minor Hockey Association are hoping to be able to send some boys from Madoc to the school at no charge, but the details will have to be worked out at a later date. Another interesting point about the school is that coaches from the area will be able to attend and run the workouts, which will include some dry land training techniques.

Steve has also consented to come back to Madoc, possibly between Christmas and New Years, to work with the goaltenders of the various teams. He has expressed a desire to help in any way he can with minor hockey in Madoc and is hoping to get back to Madoc towards the end of the season to see a few of the teams in competition. He feels that the Belleville Bulls can contribute a great deal to the minor hockey organizations in the area and he hopes to be able to contribute whatever he can to improve the calibre of hockey being played and taught in the areas that the Bulls might eventually draw from.

Steve Rexe is optimistic about the future of minor hockey in Madoc and has also given the coaches a more positive attitude

As soon as the players and teams develop that attitude and improve their skills, Steve is certain that hockey players from this area will be asked to attend tryouts with the Bulls.

Fuller 4-H Report

The seventh meeting of the Fuller 4-H was held November 20th at the home of the McEathrons. The vice-president, Pauline Switzer, opened the meeting with the 4-H pledge and then read the minutes of the previous meeting. They then had a quiz on everything they had taken throughout the club. Jeanne Sararas and Toni McEathron worked on the exhibit while Pauline Switzer and Julie Rollins worked on their coaters. Pauline Switzer closed the meeting.

Julie Rollins moved that the meeting be closed and Toni McEathron seconded the motion. They plan to meet on December 8th at the leader, Barbara Sararas' home for a hot dog lunch and catch up day.

Sea life photographic exhibit at R.O.M.

A recent scientific expedition to a remote coral reef in the Indian Ocean and the rare and colourful sea-life which is found there is featured in a photographic exhibit opening at the Royal Ontario Museum on December 1.

The fascinating display records the work of Dr. Alan R. Emery and Dr. Richard Winterbottom of the ROM's Department of Ichthyology and Herpetology who, last winter, took part in a survey organized by the British Armed Forces Expedition Trust to the isolated Chagos Archipelago in the Central Indian Ocean.

The ROM team (the only Canadians who participated in the expedition) returned with over 1½ tons of specimens representing 550 different kinds of fish including 20 - 30 fish species new to science. The scope of the collection establishes the ROM as an international resource centre for studies on Central Indian Ocean marine fish. Duplicate specimens will be exchanged with museums around the world, and the 3,000 documented colour slides, taken by the ROM team, can also be used for research purposes and publications.

The ROM exhibit documents Dr. Emery's and Dr. Winterbottom's trip with photographs of their living quarters and laboratories on the uninhabited atolls and their various collecting methods. There are stunning underwater shots of the Chagos fish which range in size from a shy ½ inch coral goby to a curious 8 foot white tip shark along with descriptions of their habits and habitats.

The display also features one of the newly discovered species of damselfish and the step-by-step method of scientifically describing and naming a new species - research currently underway at the ROM. Part of the research entails extensive study of literature as far back as 1758 to determine whether the fish have ever been described.

Altogether 'A Remote Coral Wilderness' presents an absorbing view of one of the last under-water frontiers of the world; it's a must for underwater and fish enthusiasts and all those who have ever dreamed of escaping to a coral island.

Blackout caused by accident

Last Monday night, November 19th, Donna Elaine Lee was westbound on the old Marmora road at approximately 9:50 p.m. She lost control of the 1973 Ford she was driving, struck and broke off a hydro pole. She sustained minimal injuries. $1500 damage to the car and was charged with careless driving. The striking of the hydro pole resulted in the loss of hydro to both Madoc and Marmora for about three and one half hours.

Among the Burmses, long necks were once fashionable. Brass or iron rings - each about one-inch thick - were put around necks, stretching them as long as 14 inches.

CHSS Report

Inter-house council elections

The numerous events going on at C.H.S.S., recently, have not produced anything of the teeth shaking, glass breaking magnitude, however, activities presently taking place promise to be worthy of mention.

It's the time of year again when all available wall space (window space too) is occupied with poster promoting candidates for leading positions in the Inter-House Council. Contending this year for President are Leonard Hall and Rene Carson.

Candidates for Vice-Presidents are Brenda Hyde, Mel Rose and Janice Brinson.

A new wave of Intra-mural activity is being directed at students in the form of pinball (not mechanical) for girls, pushball for Junior boys and European Handball for Senior boys.

A fitting way to start a series of teacher profiles to follow in the up coming weeks is to begin with the source of almost all Intra-mural activities available to Centuri- on students, Miss Vicki Fulcher.

Staff Profile

Miss Vicki Fulcher

Originally from the West, Miss Fulcher was born in Saskatchewan. She lived in the Yukon Territory for four years, a period which she claims to have enjoyed very much. Her secondary school education in Ottawa was followed by attendance at Carlton University. Being a Raven (the university's representative symbol) presented no problem. Her name, often misspelled and mispronounced "Vulture" (an act of which I am addicted to committing) fit right in with the bird scene.

As a teacher, Miss Fulcher is a Centurion through and through. Her seven years spent in the occupation have been entirely at CHSS. Although she has taught basically Physical Education, she has also ventured into the History department this year, a move which she terms as "interesting and challenging". She views teaching as stimulating and demanding and feels "the constant interaction with young adults keeps one on one's toes- especially when teens are more aware and conscious of contemporary issues".

Her favourite pastimes, in my opinion, reveals a great diversity of character. Easy going and determined, she enjoys sports. Having previously coached basketball, Miss Fulcher is engaged this year with Senior Girls Volleyball and Junior and Senior Girls soccer. Musical interests include whistling (it appears to be a family trait) and the flute. She also enjoys reading.

The base around which the whole Intra-mural system here at the school revolves, Miss Fulcher sees her main objective as being "the encouragement of all students in recreational activities". Intra-mural include almost all extra curricular recreation i.e. Winter Carnival sports (not on the inter-scholastic level) etc.

She (Miss Fulcher) feels the response to date for planned activities has been excellent. She added that she enjoyed working with Intra-mural student leaders.

A dignified and responsible person who looks down on no one, she is in my opinion a model human being... as is the case with most of the staff members at Centre Hastings Secondary School.

Her popularity with students can be attributed to her ability to easily communicate with anyone in a direct and pleasant manner, and the positive atmosphere her attitudes generate.

She lives in Madoc, and shares her abode with a more human than canine family.

St. Boniface: distinctive charm and atmosphere

ST. BONIFACE

by Claude R. Lemieux

Until its amalgamation with Winnipeg in 1972, St. Boniface, Manitoba, was the largest French city in Canada outside Quebec.

It has kept its special charm and is still distinctively French and Roman Catholic in character.

Its history, like that of Winnipeg, goes back to 1738 when Pierre de La Verendrye, fur trader, soldier and explorer, built Fort Rouge at the junction of the Assiniboine and Red Rivers, where Winnipeg now stands.

De La Verendrye and his two sons were the first white men to reach what is now Manitoba. His son, Jean-Baptiste, was murdered by Sioux Indians two years before the construction of Fort Rouge. One of several forts eventually built in the immediate area.

The explorer, born at Trois-Rivieres, Quebec, opened much of the West to the fur trade and a monument in his honour stands in a small park on Tache Avenue, opposite St. Boniface Hospital.

Another man who has left an indelible mark on Manitoba and Saskatchewan is Louis Riel, the Metis leader hanged in Regina in 1885. Riel, who was born in St. Boniface in 1844, was president of the provisional government formed in 1869 in opposition to Canadian Confederation without consultation. His grave, in the St. Boniface Basilica churchyard, is a tourist attraction.

Near the simple granite stone marking his grave, is that of another legendary figure of the early West, Joseph Norbert Provencher, first Roman Catholic bishop of St. Boniface. He built the first basilica in 1818 but the church was destroyed by fire and rebuilt six times.

Following the 1968 fire, the front part of the stone basilica remained standing. It was preserved and a modern church was built behind it.

Just a block away, at 494 Tache Ave., the St. Boniface Museum contains several items of interest concerning de La Verendrye, Riel, Provencher and many other area pioneers. The museum, in the old Grey Nuns' convent built in 1846, is the oldest building in the Canadian West. During the intervening years it has served also as an orphanage, an old people's home and a hospital.

The museum was opened in 1966 and is operated by the community of St. Boniface. Admission is free.

In front of the old convent there's a monument made of several millstones once the property of Louis Riel's father.

Displayed inside is the first church bell in the Red River district. It is dated 1819 and was given to Bishop Provencher by Lord Selkirk, founder of the Red River Settlement.

Many of the souvenirs, handcraft and other artifacts are displayed in tableau form. These include old furniture, clothes, tools, utensils, miniatures, photos, documents, religious articles, Indian artifacts and others.

The chapel is a museum by itself while halls are decorated by maps, plans and paintings of former St. Boniface mayors.

St. Boniface remembers its impressive past with pride and intends to remain the "largest French city in Canada outside Quebec".

Besides its museum, basilica, monuments and parks, the community offers some of the finest and most enjoyable dining establishments in Greater Winnipeg.

La Vieille Gare, 630 Des Meurons St., serves excellent French cuisine in an old redecorated railroad station while the cocktail lounge is in an adjoining railroad car.

La Grenouillere, 150 Provencher Ave., also known as The Froggery, serves good food in a typically French Canadian atmosphere.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Beginning with the January 2nd, 1980 issue, the classified advertising rate will be increased from 7 cents per word to 10 cents per word and the minimum charge from $1.50 to $2.00.

The rates for Classified Display advertising will increase from $3.30 per column inch to $4.40 per column inch.

This increase in rates is represented by the substantial rise in costs of all materials (chemicals, typesetting paper, newsprint and labor costs over the past 4 years since our last rate increase.

As some of you already know a classified ad placed in any of our individual local papers (Madoc Review, Marmora Herald, Havelock Citizen, Norwood Register and Hastings Star) runs in all 5 of these papers at the one rate.

This gives every ad over 6,500 circulation reaching approximately 20,000 people in this area, tremendous coverage for a very small expenditure.

Our advertisers have indicated an excellent response on their ads and we know that we can continue to serve our regular customers well and look forward to being of service to those of you who have not yet taken advantage of our "action" classified section.

However, we shall continue to allow a 20 per cent discount for all prepaid advertisements run in our classified section.

Sailing ships and steamers subject of R.O.M. exhibit Sailing ships and steamers that once plied Canadian waters are featured in a new exhibition at the Royal Ontario Museum's Canadiana Building from November 23, 1979, to April 6, 1980. Approximately 60 'ship portraits' are on view and each of the vessels is identified by name to provide an intriguing record of Canada's maritime history from the mid-18th to the early 20th century.

These ships were involved in many aspects of Canada's past exploration, military life, commerce and immigration. One of the earliest oil paintings in the exhibition, signed by Francis Swaine and dated 1760, is of H.M.S. Vanguard of Perce Rock. She was involved in sieges off Louisbourg in 1758 and Quebec in 1759. She then returned to Quebec in 1760 under the command of Robert Swanton as the flagship in the final siege that secured Canada for the British.

The War of 1812 stimulated the ship building trade in Canada. One of the fascinating watercolours in 'Sailing Canadian Waters' depicts the launching of the massive St. Lawrence from the Kingston naval yard. The ship carried 112 guns and, in 1815, was the largest vessel on the Great Lakes.

The first vessel to cross the Atlantic under continuous steam power in 1831 was the Canadian built 'Royal William'. Early Canadian steamers were plagued, however, with technical problems and sailing ships, therefore, remained popular throughout the better part of the century.

'Sailing Canadian Waters' records the mid-19th century sail ship building boom with outstanding pictures of the Nova Scotia built, 'Lydia X' and 'Magnolia Y', both bound for Liverpool.

Better navigational methods and improved engines facilitated the transition to steam in the latter part of the 19th century. Among the steam ship magnates competing to establish a Canadian Atlantic mail service was Sir High Allan. A watercolour of the powerful S.S. Sarmation of the Allan Steamship Lines, in service from 1871 to 1908, reflects this quest for faster and cheaper transportation.

'Sailing Canadian Waters' is complemented with a display of ship models, navigational instruments, and books. Visitors to the ROM's Canadiana Building at 14 Queen's Park Crescent West, Toronto, will be rewarded this winter with a rare overview and documentation of the long-gone vessels that once sailed Canadian oceans and inland waterways.

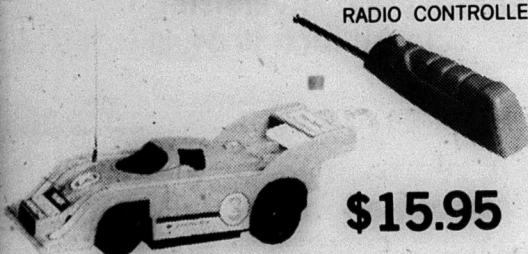

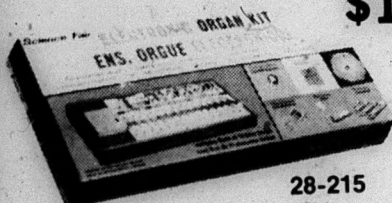

The Black Mountain Golf Club in North Carolina has the longest 17th hole in the world: 745 yards with a par of six.

Volleyball Tournament

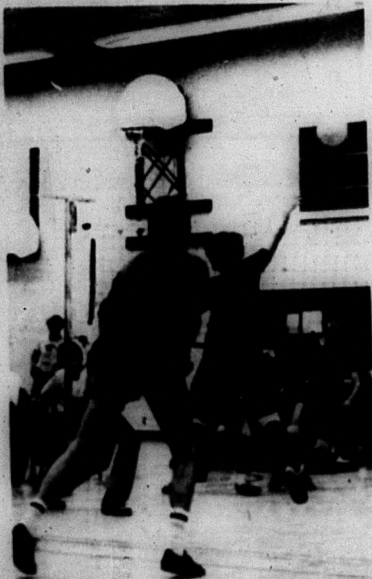

The Hastings County Junior Farmers were not very good hosts at their volleyball tournament that was held at Centre Hastings Secondary School over the weekend. The Hastings County C team defeated the Frontenac B team in the finals to win their own tournament that was held for the first time this year.

The Hastings County Junior Farmers decided to hold their own tournament as a practice round for the tournament at the provincial level as well as a chance to get the junior farmers together for some fun. The fun was in evidence throughout the tournament but volleyball skills some times were not. However, the emphasis was on fun and no one went home disappointed.

Hastings and Frontenac teams got the tournament under way but they were two different teams. Frontenac had two teams entered in the tournament. Hastings had three with Peterborough, Lanark, Lennox and Addington and a team from CHSS. Although the volleyball was not always of a really competitive nature, the scores were generally very close.

The Frontenac B team advanced into the finals by defeating Peterborough 16-14, 3-15 and 15-10, while the Hastings C team advanced to the finals by defeating the Hastings B team 13-15, 15-7 and 15-13.

The finals between Hastings and Frontenac were also close games that saw each point being fought over with great tenacity. The Hastings squad kept the pressure on the Frontenac team and won the final in two straight games. The tournament did exactly what the Hastings Junior Farmers had hoped for, in that it brought the junior farmers together, they did have a great deal of fun and each team got some practice for the provincial finals. A trophy was presented to the winning team at the dance that was held afterward while the second place team was given medallions.

OBITUARIES

Charles O'Connor

Charles Edward O'Connor died suddenly at his home on Madoc St., Marmora, on Tuesday, November 13. He was 77 years old.

Born the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard O'Connor in Marmora, he was educated here. He was retired, and had lived and worked in Coppercliff, Ontario, for 17 years. He was a member of Sacred Heart Church and a member of the Holy Name Society both here and in Coppercliff.

Mr. O'Connor leaves his wife, the former Jean O'Neill, his children, Jack of Sarnia, Tony of Stirling and Jane (Mrs.
Ken Bedore) of Peterborough. He is also survived by brothers, Earl, Crawford,
Patrick and Tom and a sister, Mrs.
Veronica Forestell, all of Marmora.

The funeral was held on Friday,
November 16, from the Cassidy Funeral Home with the Reverend J.P. Carty officiating. Interment was in Sacred Heart Cemetery. Pallbearers were Lyle Fluke,
Ted Bedore, Dwayne Welch, Jack
O'Connor, Fred Spannbauser and Louis Paiero.

Thomas McKeown

Thomas Henry McKeown died at the Centre Hastings Nursing Home on November 19, 1979. He was 98 years of age.

Mr. McKeown was born in Rawdon Township on May 12, 1881, the son of William and Sarah (Eastwood) McKeown.
A farmer and the founder of the garage that is now McKeown's Motor Sales in Springbrook. Mr. McKeown lived in the area all his life; on the 13th concession of Seymour for 15 years, on the 3rd of Rawdon for 14 years and in Springbrook for 40 years. For the past four years he has been at Centre Hastings.

He leaves two daughters, Helen of Royal Oak, Michigan and Myrtle of Peterborough, two sons, Reg of Springbrook and Lindsay of Stirling, a sister, Mrs. Kathleen Walsh of Toronto, two grandchildren and six great grandchildren. He was predeceased by his wife, Grace and a daughter Margaret.

The funeral was held from the McConnell Funeral Home in Marmora on November 22 with Rev. T. Snelgrove of the Springbrook United Church officiating.
Interment was in Mount Nebo Cemetery in Springbrook with Delbert Fleming, Hiram
Mumby, Murney Mason and Emerson
Reid of Springbrook, Clarence McKeown of Marmora and Gordon Bailey of Stirling as pallbearers. Barbara Sanderson was the organist.

Raymond Hinson

Raymond "Skip" Hinson died on November 20, 1979, in Toronto after a short illness. He was 62.

Mr. Hinson was born in Toronto, the son of Theodore and Sara (Hughes) Hinson and lived there all his life. He is survived by his wife, Emma.

Mr. Hinson rested at the McConnell Funeral Home in Marmora. Services were held on November 22, at Sacred Heart Church with the Reverend J.P. Carty officiating. Interment was in Mount Nebo Cemetery, with Dale, Paul and John McTaggart and Charles Cassidy as pallbearers.

Reverend Bill Prankard works wonders in the name of Jesus

by Susan Leonhardt

THE MIRACLE SERVICE

How does one describe a miracle service where a young girl becomes excited at regaining her hearing in her right ear and a woman sheds tears, rejoicing over her renewed body?

It is impossible to describe such an event from anything other than a personal viewpoint. There is one thing, however, which could possibly be on common ground and that is the personal satisfaction which one achieves by attending such a service.

Whether one actually participates in the healing process within oneself, or simply watches, something is actually happening and it is impossible to avoid.

Bill and Gwen Prankard delivered miracle services at Norwood Pentecostal Church on two occasions last weekend. The second evening showed many of the same faces from the night before, perhaps curiosity, contentment or actual need brought them there.

As in a trance, yet exploding with joy, roughly ten individuals stepped forward and displayed their overwhelming excitement of being healed.

To say that the arthritis or poor vision would return the following day is just as ludicrous as saying it wouldn't. Does it really matter?

As Reverend Prankard expressed, he is not the one capable of healing these individuals. Through Jesus these miracles occur.

I am not necessarily an advocate of such services, yet something is to be said of them. Of course, only those who attend and in some way participate are those who can comment.

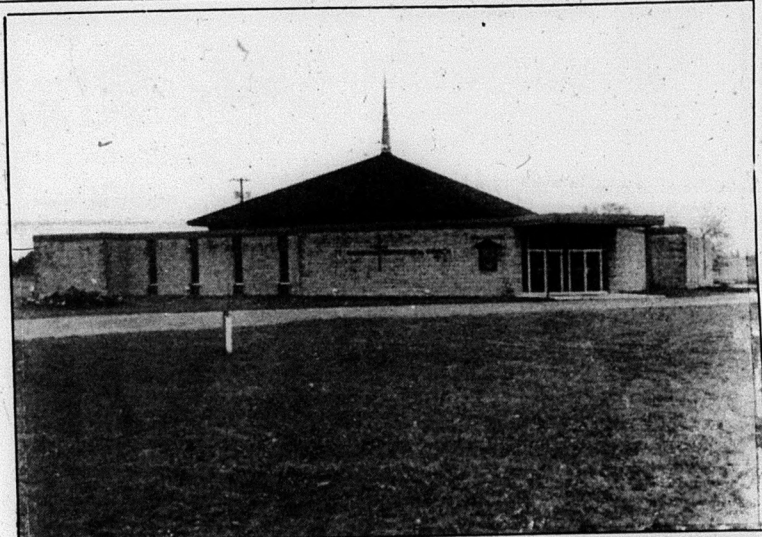

It involves deep concentration, heightened sensibilities and pure thought which seems to allow for complete satisfaction. It also involves those who guide the way, and they were Bill and Gwen Prankard.

The Prankards live in Ottawa but have spent many years in Brampton, Ontario. By 1967 the ministry became a large part of their lives and 7½ years ago Bill fell into practicing miracle services.

While pastoring in Beachburg, near Pembroke, Bill attended a Catherine Kaufham meeting in Pittsburg where "things happened I never saw before" he says. At that point he promised God he was not going to limit Him any more.

There was no training involved. Bill began miracle services and five years ago the Prankards began being televised on their show 'The Master's Touch', now 'Bill and Gwen Prankard'.

The purpose of the miracle service, he

says, "is to bring people into a closer relationship with God".

People first come out of curiosity, Gwen explained, but now it is a need. The Prankards feel people nowadays are not satisfied so they turn to God, and the miracle service attracts them.

The method goes back to the techniques of Jesus, as Bill describes. The miracles get their attention and then one can teach. Whether one is being taught or actually teaching oneself, I found, difficult to determine.

Music, an effective form of manipulation leading to satisfaction was an integral part of the service. Accompanied by chanting, as one listened to the reverend speak, the space took on a special feeling as though the entire congregation became one.

The thoughts of those listening converged on specific ailments as Rev. Prankard described them one by one. The chanting continued and then it was time to come forth.

Perhaps the miracle service will change form over the years to come. The essence seems to manifest itself in many ways. Whether it be religion or simply faith it is something which seems to inevitably crop up into our lives.

Specific details of such a service would be fruitless to explain because it seems to be an individual happening which must be experienced in one form or another.

People came from far this past weekend to experience the healing service. Perhaps many were not even healed, yet a feeling of contentment swelled as the crowds slowly made their way outdoors to resume their daily lives.

Saving fuel

Constantly rising fuel prices and uncertainties about sufficient energy this winter have, of necessity, oriented consumer attitudes toward energy conservation.

As a result, the automobile has become a prime target for many profit-oriented promoters who have flooded the market with a multitude of gas-saving devices calculated to raise the consumer's hopes to get more mileage for less gas.

Frank Drea, Minister of Consumer and Commercial Relations is concerned that, in the rush to get the best deal for their hard-earned money, energy-conscious consumers may well be lured by clever advertising and irresistible claims about products that may contribute little, if anything, to automobile fuel efficiency.

There are two basic types of motor vehicle fuel saving devices on the market: fuel and lubricant additives, and mechanical add-ons. The fuel and lubricant additives are to be added to gasoline, diesel fuel or lubricant. The mechanical add-on devices need to be installed in the car and come in the form of fuel pressure regulators, air-bleed valves, screens, special spark plugs, ignition devices, and the like. Prices for these gadgets can range up to $60.

According to Martin Friend, technical officer with the National Research Council (NRC) in Ottawa, over 100 of these gas-saving devices have been tested or evaluated by either the NRC or equally reputable laboratories in the U.S. To date, not a single product has lived up to its full claims or proved capable of any significant gas savings.

Let's look at some of the basic claims:

- anywhere from 5 to 25 percent in gas savings through improved combustion;

- improved acceleration;
- smoother operation;
- improved engine performance;
- longer engine life;
- reduced exhaust emissions.

Thorough scientific testing done by the NRC or equivalent U.S. laboratories has revealed that these manufacturers have not tested their products scientifically (as this is very expensive) but have based their claims on the testimony of friends and colleagues.

So how can consumers protect themselves?

With any claims it is important to read the small print. Who makes these claims? Is it a reputable company? Are the claims limited to certain types of cars only? Do these devices work best under certain ideal road and wind conditions? What about 'normal' driving?

With more expensive items, you should ask yourself: are there any test results available? Were tests performed by known and reputable laboratories? Were they full, or partial tests? Or, are the claims upheld by private individuals only? Are the devices recommended mainly by self-interested businesses? Much of this information is available from Mr. Martin Friend, Division of Mechanical Engineering, Fuels & Lubricants Laboratory, National Research Council, Ottawa, Ont. K1A 0R6, or from the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs, Place du Portage, 68 Victoria Street, Hull, Quebec, K1A 0C9.

It is equally important to realize that it is difficult, if not impossible, for most people to test accurately their car's mileage. The results depend on the type of tires used, on tire pressure, lubrication, grade of oil, road surfaces (concrete, asphalt, gravel, dirt), spark plugs, carburetor mixture and air filter, to name a few factors. In addition, there are less controllable factors, such as road conditions (dry, wet, icy), wind direction and intensity. Personal driving habits can influence fuel consumption by 10 percent either way.

We would all appreciate an efficient gas-saving device with claims that can be substantiated by thorough testing. But, until such a miracle device becomes available, energy-conscious consumers must use caution, intelligence and common sense before buying any device. Claims must be evaluated logically; no gasoline-saving device will get better mileage from jackrabbit starts, rough braking or unnecessary idling, or turn a gas guzzler into an economy car.

You want to improve your car's fuel efficiency? Use the tested methods: get regular tune-ups, drive at recommended speeds, keep tires properly inflated and generally use good sense in driving.

NOEL'S NOTES

BY NOEL STOCKTON

Last weekend Margaret and I went to Bracebridge for a birthday party.

It's about twelve years since we left there, and as you can imagine, things have changed a little over the years. The young people have grown up and the older people have aged, for nothing stays the same.

We checked into the new hotel there, the palacious Riverside Inn on the water, a posh sort of place recently built, and I proceeded to carry the bags and things up the stairs. But as we were walking through the lobby Margaret said to me, Noel, she said, that girl's face behind the desk is very familiar, I'm sure I know her.

So on the way down for the second load I went to the desk and I said to the girl Margaret, my wife, says she knows you.

She gave me the strangest look and she said, well she should!

So I said, who are you then?

I'm Debbie, she said, just your god-daughter, that's all!

Can you imagine that.

Anyway it was a splendid party and we met a host of old friends we'd known well in the old days, including Frank Miller, the Ontario Treasurer, who lives in Bracebridge and is one of my oldest friends there.

But one of them was Marjorie.

And I remember the day she arrived in Bracebridge, many, many years ago.

As a matter of fact she was a war bride. During the war she met and married this handsome, bronzed blockbuster of a guy who, shortly after the wedding, returned to Canada as the war was over and they didn't want him hanging around the pubs there indefinitely.

Now Bill was a Squadron Leader in the Royal Canadian Air Force, as it was known in those days. He was an excellent fellow in a number of ways, but you had to scabble around a bit to find them.

He was excruciatingly brave in combat, and in the face of the enemy he was superb. But in the face of married life he was a blot and would hardly have qualified for the booby prize in a soap box derby wearing his best suit.

His main failing was a complete and utter lack of sensitivity. Now I can see that when you've spent your post-public years sliding around the skyways searching out the odd Fokker so you can send it crashing earthwards without so much as a by-your-leave, you are apt to lose a considerable amount of any sentimental attributes you may have cherished previously. But Bill was the living end.

He was a bulldozer operator in civilian life. He loved his machine with a fierce passion and he wielded it from dawn to dusk like an expert, and nothing ever had access to his head that was not in some way connected to his bulldozer.

Not the war, not the Red Baron, not Marjorie.

However, shortly after he was repatriated to Canada he was reminded by a sudden, and quite unexpected epistle from the Department of National Defence, that he now had a wife to consider as well as his bulldozer, with whom he had entered into some kind of a contract during his sojourn in the United Kingdom, possibly in a moment of temporary aberration when he had been off his guard but not off the sauce, and now his wife was being shipped over the briny in the company of a parcel of similar war brides who had been cajoled into the holy state of matrimony by a number of his comrades, so that it would be both necessary and desirable, as well as expedient, that he should curtail his present bulldozing activities and present himself, duly groomed, cosseted and powdered about the wig, at Union Station, where Marjorie would be arriving momentarily, and obviously in the full expectation that there would be a committee of one on the platform to receive her.

Now Bill, upon his return to Civvie Street, had used up what money and brains had been bestowed upon him, to buy a new bulldozer. He had always had this latent desire to own his own machine and now, thanks to a grateful and generous Department of Veterans' Affairs, he had been able to acquire one, and he could operate the thing in a most professional manner and it was, metaphorically speaking, the apple of his eye.

In fact Bill had a very strange affinity towards this bulldozer that would have made the Odd Couple look like Darby and Joan.

He had the bulldozer for breakfast, lunch and supper, and had recently bought a king-sized bed in the fond hope that he might be able to entice it into his boudoir with a little persuasion, so that he could make love to it. So you can see that this sudden infusion of his dearly beloved Marjorie into this cozy little set-up came out of the blue like a fusillade from Mount Vesuvius on the Fourth of July.

The old Eternal Triangle Bit, with a vengeance.

But bracing his shoulders and his pants and demonstrating some of the fortitude and courage that he had displayed in his Air Force days, he squared up sufficiently to convince himself and his bulldozer that he should be present at Union Station, after bidding a tearful, heart-rending farewell to his beloved machine, consoling it with promises of a prompt and hasty return.

Thus, somehow, he found the time and the inclination to remove his coveralls, shave his chin rather sketchily, scramble into a pair of almost socially acceptable

WINTARIO.

THE NAME'S THE SAME BUT IT'S A GREAT NEW GAME.

Here's how to play your ticket and follow the draws every Thursday night.

Now Wintario goes weekly. With a new 6-digit ticket* that's a lot more fun to play. With more ways to win. With more prizes - 165,972 of them every week. Including 15 grand prizes - 3 of $100,000 and 12 of $25,000.

And nine exciting new draws instead of six, every Thursday night live on TV.

FIRST DRAW - 4 WAYS TO WIN $10.

The first draw is for a 3-digit number. And if any 3 consecutive digits in your ticket number match the number drawn, you're a winner. For example, if your ticket number is 123456, you would win if 123, 234, 345 or 456 were drawn. That's 4 separate chances at 12,000 - $10 prizes in the 1st draw every Thursday.

SECOND DRAW - 3 WAYS TO WIN $100.

The second draw is a 4-digit number. And if any 4 consecutive digits in your ticket number match the number drawn, you're a winner. For example, if you hold ticket number 123456, you would win if 1234, 2345 or 3456 were drawn. 900 - $100 prizes in the 2nd draw every Thursday.

THIRD DRAW - 2 WAYS TO WIN $1,000.

The third draw is a 5-digit number. And if 5 consecutive digits in your ticket number match the number drawn, you're a winner. For example, if your ticket number is 123456, you would win if either 12345 or 23456 were drawn. 60 - $1,000 prizes every Thursday.

*Tickets issued in blocks of one million each numbered from 000000 to 999999. No series number.

FOURTH, FIFTH, SIXTH & SEVENTH DRAWS - FOR $25,000 GRAND PRIZES.

The next four draws are 6-digit numbers, each of them worth $25,000 if your ticket number matches the number drawn. No subsidiary prizes in these draws.

12 - $25,000 prizes every Thursday.

EIGHTH DRAW FOR $100,000 GRAND PRIZES PLUS MANY MORE CASH PRIZES.

The eighth draw for the First Grand Prizes is also a 6-digit number. If your ticket number matches the number drawn, you win one of the three $100,000 First Grand Prizes.

And for this draw only, if the last five digits on your ticket correspond to those of the winning ticket number, you win $5,000. Match the last four and you win $100. And if you have the last three correct, you win $10.

3 - $100,000 prizes, 27 - $5,000 prizes, 270 - $100 prizes and 2,700 - $10 prizes in the Eighth Draw every Thursday.

NINTH DRAW - 5 WAYS TO WIN A WIN-FALL PRIZE.

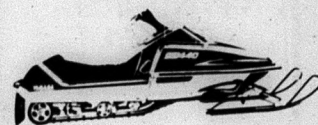

The Win fall draw is a 2-digit number. And if any 2 consecutive digits in your ticket number match the number drawn, you win a free book of Wintario tickets on the next draw worth $5. For example, if your ticket number is 123456, you would win with 12, 23, 34, 45 or 56. 150,000 Win fall Prizes every Thursday.

FARMERS!

THE ADVANTAGES OF FEEDING WITH THE FFF-CYCLE:

Fresh, green grass from the Agri-Ponic Forage-Unit will not only alleviate vitamin deficiencies in livestock and poultry, but years of prior testing have also produced evidence of the following other benefits:

1. Improved health in livestock
2. Improved virility, fertility and longer breeding life
3. Higher survival rates among young animals. No more scours in pigs.
4. Faster weight gain in beef cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry.
5. Increased milk production from dairy cattle. Dairy ration reduced by 50 percent and more.
6. Increased egg production from poultry.
7. Elimination of cannibalism in poultry flocks
8. The vitamins, minerals and other much-needed nutrients available in the hydroponic grass represent a high percentage of the daily nutritional requirements of livestock.
9. Feed costs are considerably reduced as much as 50 per cent and more.

IN BRIEF:

HAUELOCK THE CITIZEN

Havelock Council has received several requests from local businessmen to try to bring additional banking facilities to the village. At the last council meeting, it was decided to have the clerk write various banks and trust companies inviting them to open a branch in Havelock.

Local Board of Education Trustee Don Clark, reported that in spite of reports that Peterborough County Board of Education was moving toward a French Immersion course for Kindergarten pupils beginning in 1980, a vote by the Board last Thursday resulted in a decision to abandon the idea of such a course as uneconomical and unfeasible at this time. Mr. Clark spoke at length against the program at the meeting.

He also spoke strongly on behalf of regaining Millbrook High School. It has been proposed, because of reduced enrolment, that the school be closed and students bused to Peterborough High School. The Board voted in favor of keeping the Millbrook school open.

Jenifer Stillman, cake decorator, took first prize at Peterborough Exhibition this fall for her floral display made of sugar. Sponsored by Sir Sandford Fleming College, she will be conducting a cake decorating course in Havelock Public School starting in January. We take a look at Jenifer and her craft this week.

MADOC THE REVIEW

A Chamber of Commerce meeting was held on Thursday night and after it was all over, the few members who attended wondered why the meeting was even held. There were not enough people at either the executive or the general meeting to be able to conduct any business, although discussions were held on topics like the Santa Claus Parade because they could not be held over for the next meeting.

The parade will be held on December 1st at 1 p.m. with a large number of floats.

horses, dogs, bands and marching groups scheduled to attend. If the weather permits, antique cars could also be a part of the parade.

Ken Preston, the first year cheesemaker at the new Beulah Cheese factory, was the Reserve Grand Champion at the British Empire Dairy Show that was held in Belleville this past week. Ken was happy at being the Reserve Champion but he was also very pleased to have had the cheese with the best finish, an award normally won by older cheesemakers, and also for having the highest scoring cheese in the show.

The Steve Rexe coaches' clinic continued to be an interesting and informative session for the coaches belonging to the Madoc Minor Hockey Association. Mr. Rexe hinted at a change in the management of the Belleville Bulls and also suggested that a hockey school might be sponsored by the Bulls management this summer. Members of the Madoc Minor Hockey Association are hoping that they may be able to send players from their association free of charge, to the school. Mr. Rexe has also volunteered to come to Madoc and work with the goaltenders of the Madoc clubs, possibly between Christmas and New Year's.

HASTINGS THE STAR

This week's Hastings Star takes a look at the new facilities for Arc Industries located in Campbellford. Arc held its open house and official opening last Wednesday afternoon in the new building designed by Tony Kemp of Hamilton-Kemp Architects. Arc provides sheltered employment and vocational training for 33 handicapped adults in Campbellford and the surrounding area.

The Katimavikviks working on the Brickley School south of Hastings, who are doing major renovations, are about to leave the area to make way for a new group, but they have left the one-room school in good condition on the outside. This group will be heading for Iles-de-la-Madelaide in the St. Lawrence River, while a new group is coming to our area from Prince George.

Hastings Curling Club is looking for more members this season for a mixed league. The membership has dropped considerably in late years due to surrounding communities starting up curling or improving their facilities. The Hastings arena should have its ice by the end of this week, so, get ready curlers, for a brand new season.

NORWOOD THE REGISTER

Several Norwood area children were among the recipients of 4-H awards at the annual awards night in Peterborough. Top winner was Brian Terpstra, a member of both the Dairy Calf and Field Crop Clubs.

Norwood Lions held a mid-term election of officers and planned future events last week. Catching our interest is their annual show in March in the town hall, an event they promise will be "up to its usual questionable standard".

Norwood has more doctors than we first suspected. At the same time that their new medical doctor moved in, a veterinarian or horse doctor also moved in the area. Dr. Davis Harris has been here five months and reports a growing business.

MARMORA THE HERALD

Marmora's Santa Claus Parade is this Saturday afternoon. Preceded by a free movie for the children, the event will undoubtedly attract its usual large crowds. Two marching bands and several floats will highlight the parade.

The Madoc detachment of the OPP met with Marmora Village council and Village Business Association representatives to discuss the quality of Marmora's police protection. After an amicable meeting, the idea of a police force for the village had been squashed, particularly after one of the officers told council he felt it was unlikely that the Ontario Police Commission would allow a force of less than five men. Marmora village was looking at a one man force.

Ministry of Labour will do comprehensive survey

The Ontario Ministry of Labour is undertaking to come up with a comprehensive list of all workers at the Deloro Refining Site between 1921 and 1961 in order to do a comprehensive investigation into health damage and Workmen's Compensation awards.

A press officer for the Labour Ministry told the Herald that, while the search, which, he says, the present minister, Dr. Elgie, thinks may take some time, is being compiled, the ministry is advising former Deloro workers who feel their health may have been damaged as a result of their work at Deloro, to consult their physician. Dr. Elgie is saying that, if because of the recent publicity around the Deloro site, people who are not under doctor's care feel they should be, they should go to their local doctor until such time as we can start working on it from this end.

A recent study has shown present levels of arsenic in the Moira River system to be above normal and prompted NDP leader, Michael Cassidy, to call in the house for an investigation into the long term health hazards connected with arsenic.

However, the announcement that such a search was going on was a surprise to most people, since the government promised no action at the time and Health Minister Dennis Timbrell later told the house that the arsenic posed no threat to health of people living in the Moira watershed.

It has been known for some time that working directly with arsenic was very dangerous, but compensation to date has been poor.

Cottagers packed the Marmora and Lake Townships Council meeting Saturday afternoon to get support from council to ensure that the Cooke's road - a forced access road to a number of cottages on the north shore of Crowe Lake is kept open.

The road passes through a large trailer and park development called Crowe Hill Park Estates and the owner of the land had blocked the road for two weeks earlier in the month forcing cottagers to either trespass over his land or be unable to reach their cottage.

A recent bill in the provincial legislature makes blocking of an access road, even if privately owned, illegal without proper notice and can only be done for one day out of the year.

Council agreed to notify the owner of the Crowe Hill Estates about this and said it would consider expropriation of the road in the future.

Moose meetings

The dates, times and locations have been set for the public meetings in Eastern Ontario aimed at determining public opinion on the state and management of Ontario's moose population.

The Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources team that will be attending meetings in 70 cities and towns in Ontario during November and December will be in the Belleville area, at the Frankford Fish and Game Club, Frankford, November 29, 4 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Ontario had 125,000 moose 15 years ago. Today there are 80,000 moose in Ontario...a 35 percent reduction.

These meetings outline the possible new management practices that the Ministry of Natural Resources could undertake.

Smith will reveal energy policy here

Ontario Liberal Leader Stuart Smith will be making an "important announcement on energy" when he addresses the Hastings-Peterborough Liberals Association at their nominating convention next Wednesday.

In a press release on Monday, Hastings-Peterborough President Ron Vastokas said the riding association was "proud that the Ontario Liberal leader has singled out Hastings to make this important announcement. The energy policy of the Ontario Liberals has particular relevance and meaning to the people of Eastern Ontario and their renewable energy resources."

Dr. Smith's visit on December 5, will highlight the provincial Liberal meeting, one that will probably see Dave Hobson chosen to contest his third election in Hastings-Peterborough.

"The only concrete piece of news is that Dave is definitely interested in running," Mr. Vastokas said. "There has been talk of other candidates but so far no one has come out of the woodwork."

Mr. Vastokas said that the Liberals were holding the nomination meeting "to get ready for a spring provincial election."

The meeting will be held on Wednesday, December 5, in Madoc at the Kiwanis Centre at 8 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

The riding of Hastings-Peterborough involves much of Hastings and Peterborough County, including Madoc, Marmora, Havelock and Norwood.

ONE FOOT IN THE FURROW

BY BOB TROTTER

Land is always a good investment because they just don't make it any more. I think it was Mark Twain who said it originally but it is not listed in my book of quotations. No matter. The truth of the saying remains constant.

Farm writers have been screaming for some comprehensive land use policies across this nation and only three provinces have put any teeth in the preservation of good farmland. Prince Edward Island, for instance, has put a limit not only on foreign ownership but on anyone outside the province.

Land has become one of the greatest hedges against inflation. What farmers should be considering is who owns the land? I'm not too concerned at this point in time about foreign ownership. I'm concerned about absentee landlords.

Recent surveys in the Hew Hess Hay have revealed some startling facts. Once upon a time, the vast heartland of America was largely owned by the people who farmed that land. But today, as much as 35 to 40 percent of all U.S. farmland acreage is farmed by tenants.

In other words, freeholding farmers are disappearing at an alarming rate. Farmers in many areas are only tenants. And you thought the days of serfdom were over in America!

These days the price of farmland has risen so much that literally thousands of young farmers without capital simply cannot afford to buy the property. Land prices have skyrocketed all across Canada since the early 1960s. The same is true in the U.S. Midwest prices have increased 30 percent in one year. In Indiana, farmland is up 300 percent since 1971. In Illinois, it's up 315 percent and in Iowa, 300 percent.

And who is buying that land? You bet: the big, powerful, ruthless, multi-national corporations. Those hard-headed businessmen know that land values will continue to climb. They know, too, that up to 18 cents of every disposable income dollar is spent on food and they want as big a chunk of that 18 cents as they can get. They want to control food production from the farm gate right to the table.

That recent investigation into discounts and allowances given by the major food-buying chains can serve as a warning to farmers. Those companies, if their competitive advantage is wiped out by some fair-trade legislation, will surely become more vertically-integrated. Some officials of those companies served notice at the hearings that they would do just that: buy up more processing plants, buy up more production units which will include more farmland.

As I see it, that is what farmers must be concerned about now, not just developers around the major and minor cities.

As Forbes magazine puts it in the Oct. 29 issue, there are two ways of looking at the situation.

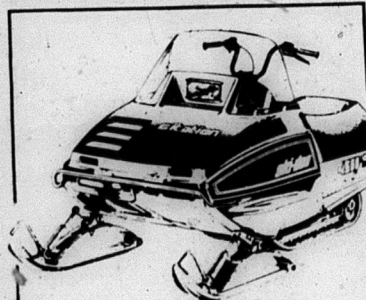

You can argue that a farmer need not own all the land he works any more than a shopkeeper need own the building that houses his business - or for that matter, a magazine need own the press it is printed on. Why can't the farmer just rent the land and the machinery, in the same way as any other businessman leases plant and equipment?

The other argument would say that with the risks and the hard work involved in farming, few farmers can ride out the ups and downs of crop prices unless they have the protection of owning their own land. Not only does that ownership free them from paying rent, it gives them a kind of subsidy from the appreciation in the price of land.

And a final statement from Forbes: This is not a trivial debate. Unless inflation can be checked and investment redirected to more normal channels, we will be hearing a great deal more of it.

I can only echo the logic in the statement.

pants and wind-breaker, and project himself towards Toronto, where Marjorie was to be deposited by the joint thoughtfulness of the DND and the CNR.

Somebody else must have been thoughtful enough to make a reservation for them both at the Royal York, because I'm certain it would never have occurred to Billy Boy unassisted.

So here he is, standing on the platform, leaning languidly in the lobby, his thoughts far away on greener pastures, turning over yards and yards of muddy earth with his lovely machine, and under his arm, tucked neatly away, is a little brown package.

The station was literally jumping with expectant husbands, waiting with a gloating anticipation the arrival of their newly acquired mates, some of them weighed down by massive boxes of Laura Secords, others partially of wholly obscured behind orchards of fruit, vegetables, roses and shrubbery of every gender.

And our Billy is right there amongst them, in his imaginings bulldozing old buildings to death and shifting acres of imaginary soil and rubble with a fiendish delight: And with his neat little parcel held coyly under his left armpit.

Then the train whistled a couple of times and came scooting into the station in a mass of steam and confusion.

This is "Safe Driving Week"

With "Safe Driving Week" due to begin on December 1st, the Canada Safety Council is asking Canadian drivers to make a "positive choice" for safety.

"Safety: The Positive Choice" - is the theme of the 1979 campaign, and it is intended to show that most automobile accidents are indeed preventable - as long as drivers make real decisions that lead to safe driving.

The Safety Council is suggesting that, apart from a very small percentage of reckless vehicle operators, most drivers in Canada ARE careful drivers. Most of the time.

Problems arise when we, as drivers, have something on our mind: something went wrong at home or at work, perhaps; an important or difficult decision is ahead; we're concerned over a sick relative; anger at some action by others; or overtired, or we may be in less than sound health or under the influence of an alcoholic beverage to some degree - and not necessarily impaired, either.

Any of these can distract an otherwise good driver. And when attention wanders - even for a few seconds - we are asking for trouble.

It requires a conscious decision - a "positive choice" - to shelve thoughts of problems until the task of driving is finished, because driving is a full-time job.

The accident that takes but a second to happen can last a lifetime!

Bill stood there nursing his little brown parcel.

When everyone else had gone and the platform was completely cleared and the husbands had all picked up their own and smothered them with hugs and kisses and candies and roses and anything else that happened to be hanging about, there was Marjorie, in solitary bewilderment, humping her own baggage, struggling along to find her Squadron Leader.

Now Marjorie, remember, had been nurturing all kinds of romantic notions and images of her Bill, the gallant airman, leather-helmeted, white silk scarf streaming abaft in the breeze and all that, but when she saw him coming towards her slowly, minus the faded blue uniform and the frayed blue cap, he seemed to have changed rapidly from the dashing hero of the hemisphere she had recalled, screaming across the horizon in his little Spitfire, the epitome of adventurous spirit with the tingling excitement of the chase coursing through his veins.

And all she could see now was a pair of baggy pants, a bush jacket and running shoes.

But she didn't fail to notice the little brown package under his left armpit.

Aha! she says, and aha again. Maybe there aren't any flowers, and maybe there aren't any Laura Secords, but there is that little package for me by way of welcome, and I wonder what it could be.

It's a flat, square box, she says to herself, and it could be a bracelet. Perhaps two bracelets, or even a necklace. Or even two necklaces.

So she consoled herself by greeting her long lost husband lovingly and stifling her curiosity for the time being, until the appropriate moment arrived for the presentation.

But you couldn't blame her for the odd twinges of conjecture as to the contents of this intriguing package.

Their entrance into the Royal York Hotel was seasoned with the coy and covert glances of the staff as Marjorie struggled with her bags into the lobby and paused, out of breath, by the reception desk.

They smiled at her shyly, for by this time they were up to the armpits in joyous ex-soldiers, sailors and airmen, re-united with their respective spouses, hastily steering them up the stairs to their waiting nests.

In the bedroom at last Marjorie waited with baited breath and an expectant anticipation as the little brown parcel nestled innocently on the dressing table.

Definitely a bracelet, she told herself, or even two. The box is thick enough for two, she thought, silver ones perhaps; like those she had pointed out to Bill in London before he had left, but without too much success.

But after all he had remembered them, and she had done him an injustice, for there they were, reclining peacefully, waiting for the right moment to come along for the big surprise to be sprung.

The time came for them to go down to dinner. Marjorie was all dressed up in her best bib and tucker, bathed and fresh and ready for the fray.

I know what it is, she whispered to herself, it's a brooch and he's going to give it to me right now; he's going to slide over here and he's going to pin it shyly on my breast.

But Bill was sliding over to the door. He's saving it, that's what he's doing, and he's going to give it to me after dinner, when we come back and we're ready for bed: Then he's going to be particularly romantic and he's going to hand it over.

The cunning devil!

But now Bill was sliding over to the elevator and poor Marjorie could bear the suspense no longer.

Assuming an exaggerated air of studied unconcern she hesitated briefly in the doorway, her eyes piercing the provocative package.

What are you hanging about for, says Bill from the corridor, his finger on the elevator button.

Have you forgotten something, says Marjorie coyly.

I don't think so, says Bill, looking down at the front of his pants.

The little box on the dressing table, says Marjorie blushing all over her countenance, have you forgotten it.

Forgotten it, says Bill, very surprised, I don't need it right now.

Well, says Marjorie, as though she couldn't have cared very much less, still polishing up her casual approach, what is it?

And at that moment the elevator door opened and Bill stepped in. He turned upon her a look of utter amazement that she should concern herself with such matters.

PISTON RINGS! says Bill as they descend to the ground floor.

WOODS, WATER AND WILDLIFE

BY RON REID

Acid rain continues to make headlines this fall, and with good reason. The more we learn about this pressing problem, the darker those stormclouds appear.

Acid rivers and lakes are beginning to show up in the Maritimes, and are suspected in Quebec. Acidity in snow, which creates an acid flush at snow-melt, can be even more damaging. Experts are beginning to document effects on forests and farmland. A look at Scandinavia, where the problem is perhaps 10 years more advanced than ours, reveals 5000 lakes already dead. Seldom have we been able to look ahead and see the danger so clearly.

In the face of all this, we should expect urgent government actions to reduce the sulphur and nitrogen oxide emissions that are causing acid rain. After all, an Ontario legislative committee called this "a national emergency". But a recent international conference on acid rain, sponsored by environmental groups from across North America, found little cause for optimism.

A control strategy for acid rain pollutants has to work on two fronts. Ontario's own emissions, largely from smelters and power plants, have to be reduced by modifying existing facilities. An international treaty, to reduce long-range pollution from planned and existing U.S.

coal-burning plants is also essential.

Conference delegates heard statements of good intentions about a treaty from representatives of both the Canadian and U.S. governments, but so far progress has been frustratingly slow. Scientists from both sides of the border have issued a joint report to form a basis for negotiations, but a firm agreement is not expected until at least after next year's presidential elections. Even then, an agreement could be stalled by a Congress that is more interested in coal development than pollution control.

On the home front, Environment Minister Harry Parrott is coming increasingly under fire for his apparent reticence to clean up Ontario's polluters. He and his staff have been meeting with Inco officials to talk about reductions from their Sudbury operations - North America's largest single source of sulphur dioxide - but the technical and financial problems are enormous. Discussions have also begun with Ontario Hydro, with the coal-burning Nanticoke plant, and the new Atikoken station, no doubt high on the agenda.

Despite all the question marks surrounding acid rain, two points are clear. This problem is the most serious environmental crisis we have had to face. And if we want to minimize its effects on our future, we have no time to waste.
